How the Library Serves the Public

I. Agencies and Activities.

It is not generally understood that the Chicago Public Library utilizes many agencies for the distribution and use of books in addition to the central building on Washington street, and twenty-six branches and eighty-seven delivery stations located in many other sections of the city. Nor have the general public more than an incomplete knowledge of its system of work whereby more than 3,000,000 issues of books for home use are annually effected, and 200,000 reference volumes are used a million times a year. An average of 15,532 persons for every day of the year represents the patronage of the Library, and relatively a small number of these users know the full extent of its resources of special interest to themselves. In the series of articles which will follow in succeeding numbers of the Book Bulletin the agencies and activities of the Library will be described, not in minute detail, but with sufficient elaboration to give to the readers of Chicago a more intimate touch with the institution and its scope and methods than now obtains.

The total number of places where books are issued for use at home is 488, and the distribution of all of these agencies with the exception of school deposits is shown on the accompanying map. The agencies represented in the service of the Library are the following:

- 1 Central building.
- 26 Branches.
- 87 Delivery stations.
- 23 Deposit stations.
- 9 Traveling library stations.
- 342 School deposit stations.

Of the twenty-six branches, two are located in well-equipped buildings constructed for the purpose; fifteen in park field houses; one in a building designed as a suburban railway station and converted to library use; two in institutional buildings; five in rented quarters; one in a school building.

The branches in each geographical division of the city number:

North Side	 2
South Side	 11
West Side	 13

A glance at the accompanying map shows that some of the remoter sections of the city are seventeen miles distant from the central district, and that the agencies of the Library farthest from the central building are located at distances of fourteen miles south, nine miles north, nine miles west and thirteen miles southwest. The Library maintains six automobile delivery trucks in serving the numerous agencies.

The activities of the Library, broadly grouped, embrace educational, informational and recreational features. Emphasis is placed on the first feature, especially in co-operation with the schools and through local expedients such as story hours, exhibits and kindred by-activities. In its service to business men also, the Library is seeking to meet and to anticipate needs and demands.

The Story of the Year in Figures

Substantial gains were made in every department of the Library during the year 1913.

The circulation again showed a large increase over the year preceding, the total being 3,118,367 as compared with 2,907,094 in 1912; gain, 211,273.

Visitors at the Central building, including all departments, and at the branches, numbered 5,672,326. The count was necessarily incomplete, this number being doubtless less than the actual total.

More than 50,000 men and women used the Civics Room, the recorded number being 50,016. The material asked for comprised the following: Pamphlets, 101,730; magazines, 19,231; directories, 20,832; bound newspaper files, 8,763; books, 16,415. The Patents Room record included 29,757 visitors, and 126,125 volumes were issued for their consultation.

The Main reference room had a record year, with a total use over the counter of 377,637 volumes by 144,188. No count was kept of the thousands of volumes on the open shelves which were used by patrons.

In the Art Room 44,173 volumes were issued to 11,782 applicants.

Applicants for cards required to secure books for home use numbered 60,137.

At the close of the year there were 118 delivery stations. Through this source 811,190 books were distributed, and 131,370 of these went to branches, which gave out from their own shelves 1,367,329 volumes in addition. The 26 branches therefore circulated 1,498,699 books in all.

Ten Deposit stations, or Traveling libraries, had a total circulation of 73,802, and fourteen Business house deposits added 130,619 to the number of volumes circulated by the Library.

School collections again showed an appreciable gain in the class rooms whose teachers supervised their use. The total circulation was 112,992 as compared with 79,994 in 1912, 53,000 in 1911, 25,000 in 1910, and 606 in 1909.

A New Library Catalogue

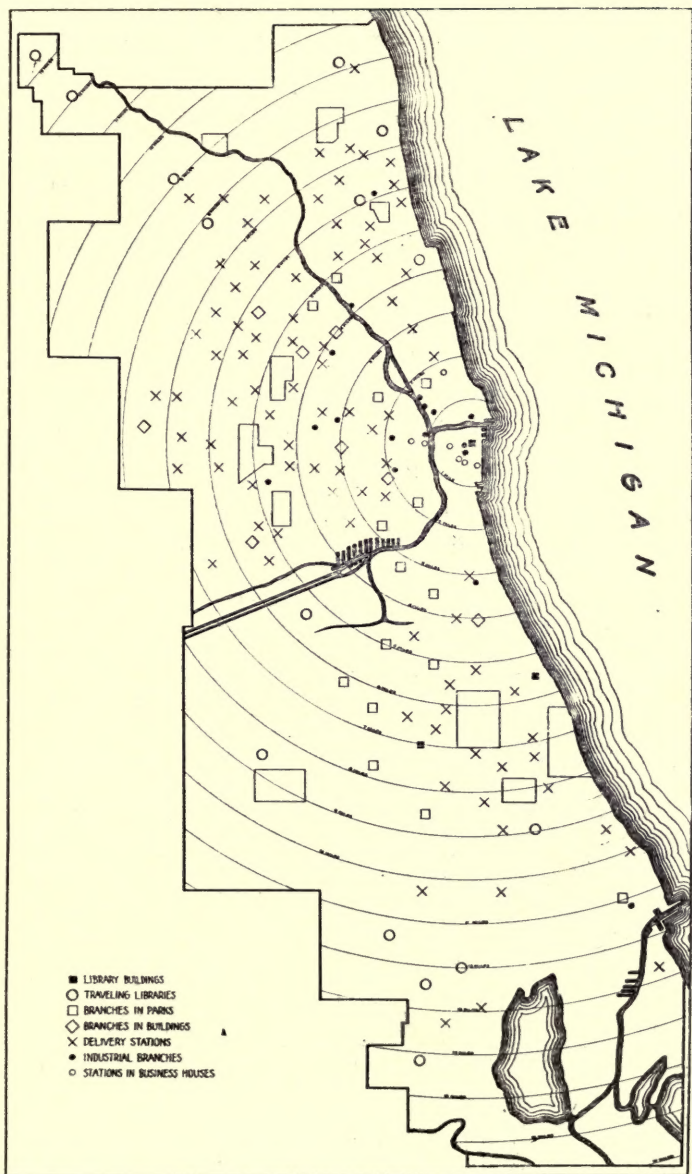

A new and completely revised Finding List of books in this Library on the Social Sciences has been prepared, and is now in press and will be issued on January 31. This list, it is hoped, will serve as a helpful guide to the voluminous mass of material in the Library dealing with the great variety of subjects comprehensively classed under the term Social Sciences. Broadly the classes included are: Sociology, together with statistics and auxiliary subjects; political science, government, constitutional law and history, politics and foreign relations; economics, capital, wealth, labor, production and distribution, works on economic conditions and history in various countries, and allied topics. Applied or practical sociology forms the third general division, embracing social pathology, poverty, crime, and preventive and meliorative methods and organizations. Education occupies very large space in the list, all branches of the science, theory and practice of education being represented by creditable collections. Social life and customs, including class and group divisions of society and the wide and interesting field of popular customs, habits and costumes, makes up the concluding part.

This publication is not intended to serve as a complete and exhaustive catalogue of all the material in the Library upon these numerous subjects. It is merely a finding list of the books and does not cover magazine articles nor chapters in books or other references which will still have to be sought through the card catalogue and the other well-known aids and guides. It will not even be a complete list of all the books, as under many subjects only the more important and modern material could be included, and numerous titles which were clearly out of date were omitted. Notwithstanding this policy of omission and exclusion the list comprises nearly four hundred pages and will, it is hoped, prove a useful guide to patrons of the Library. It will be on sale after February 1, at the main library and branches, at 25 cents per copy.

"Books of 1913"

The annual compilation, "Books of 1913," comprising the cumulation of titles printed in the monthly Book Bulletin, will be ready Saturday, January 24th, and will be on sale at 10 cents per copy. This is a classified list, with author, subject and title indexes and embraces titles of all books added to the Library during the year 1913.

How the Library Serves the Public

II. Industrial and Commercial Deposits.

For the convenient use of the wage-earners living in the remoter sections of the city, who crowd the surface and elevated cars to their maximum capacity during the morning hours, and again at dusk, the Chicago Public Library has installed in the places where they work collections of books numbering from 300 to 1,500 volumes. These can be drawn for home use and exchanged as desired in the same manner and with like privileges as in the branch libraries open to the general public.

Cordial cooperation on the part of the business managers controlling these industrial and commercial establishments has made possible the administration of the business house branches on a broad and generous basis. The employees in the several factories or other establishments number from 1,000 to 10,000; without the facilities thus offered, many thousands of them would be unable to use the Library because long distances between their homes and the nearest library agencies would practically debar them from such use. The agreement entered into by the Library and each of the business houses concerned contemplates the following division of service and expense:

The firm supplies adequate quarters with necessary equipment of shelving and furniture, and employs a competent librarian to issue the books drawn for home use by their employees, and to aid the latter in such reference work as their interest in correspondence school courses, and evening school courses or courses of instruction financed by the firm, may demand. For books not represented in the deposit collection, choice may be made of books in the Central collection of the Library, the firm providing the transportation thereof by one of their wagons (usually a daily call).

The Library selects and provides the books, making exchanges at frequent intervals to keep the collection up-to-date and attractive, and supplies sets of printed finding lists to enable selection of books supplemental to the local collection. An added service is that of reference research at the main library on questions of business information and kindred topics.

Not including the collections used locally by the Eleanor Club and the Women's Trade Union League, whose membership is made up of working girls, there are now nineteen deposit collections of the character described. Although some of them were in operation but a fraction of the year, the total circulation of books during 1913, excluding hall use, reached the large total of 160,812 issues.

Many of the firms have considerably enlarged the space devoted to their libraries since these were first installed, and have shown great interest in rendering them attractive as well as convenient for the use of their workers.

Their house organs devote space monthly to features of library interest, and to lists of books that appeal to those who are endeavoring to equip themselves for more responsible positions—including accounting, salesmanship, efficiency methods, and the special information required in departments devoted to textiles, ceramics, electrical appliances, interior decoration, window displays, advertising and allied subjects. Two of the firms also issue monthly library bulletins for distribution among their employees, and one of the firms utilizes the back of the menu cards in their house lunch room for like bulletin purposes. Some of the firms have added to the general collection encyclopedias, handbooks, dictionaries and other reference sets.

From the annual summary furnished by the business house branch which has the largest deposit (1,800 volumes), the following figures are derived:

Total circulation of books, 32,354.

Total magazine circulation, 11,262.

Number of new cards issued, 1,616.

One of the mercantile houses compiles a monthly summary of statistics. For the final month of the year, the figures were as follows:

Books issued during the month, 4,180.

Books issued during same month last year, 3,382.

Gain for the month, 798.

Library Training Class

The sixth Training Class for preparing candidates for positions in the Library service will open on March 16th, next.

The Chicago Public Library is, of course, a branch of the municipal civil service, employment in which is obtainable only through examinations conducted by the Chicago Civil Service Commission. Examinations for library service are technical, and presuppose some knowledge of library work, gained through experience, through library schools, or in training classes.

The course is divided between instruction and study, and practice work in the different departments of the Library and its branches.

Candidates for this Training Class must be residents of Chicago, and must have had at least the equivalent of a high school education. They must be in good physical condition, and must possess satisfactory personal qualifications. Those between the ages of twenty and thirty-five will be given preference. Applicants must pass an entrance examination in history, literature, and general information; this examination will be held at the Public Library Thursday, March 5th, at nine o'clock.

Only those are expected to enter the class who intend to accept positions here, after passing the Civil Service examination and receiving appointment. They must also be willing to take such assignments as are given them, even though these may be long distances from home and involve evening hours.

Members of the class receive no compensation during the period of training. The salaries paid those who enter the service through the official examinations usually begin at $480 a year and are subject to automatic increases based upon efficiency.

Application blanks, which must be filled out and returned not later than March 1st, will be supplied upon request. It is very desirable that each applicant have a personal interview before that date with the Director of the Training Class, Miss Faith E. Smith, with whom appointments may be made for any hour between 9:00 a. m. and 5:30 p. m. daily, in the Training Class room, fourth floor, Library building.

A New Branch for the North Side

On or about March 1st, the Sheridan Branch of the Chicago Public Library will be opened to the public. Its location at 4734-36 Racine avenue, near the junction of Broadway and Lawrence avenue, renders it of convenient access to a large and compactly settled territory. Commodious and well-equipped reading rooms, both for adults and young people, will be provided, and there will be a well-balanced collection of books for home use.

Notice to Users of Books

Patrons of the Library who withdraw books for use at home are cautioned to examine the volumes upon securing them, and to call immediate attention to any mutilations, or damaged condition, of any book so obtained. The last user of a book is held responsible for all damages noted upon its return.

Legal Holidays

On Lincoln's Birthday, Thursday, Feb. 12th and on Monday, Feb. 23d, the day set apart for the commemoration of Washington's Birthday, the circulating department of the Main Library will be closed and the reference and reading rooms will be open from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m.

The branches will be open from 2 to 6 p. m.

Books Added to the Library

Books marked * do not circulate; those with the letter P are in the Art room, and those marked Doc. are in the Document department. *Ser. represents serials which do not circulate.

How the Library Serves the Public

III: Books and Readings for the Blind

In providing reading matter for the public, the Public Library does not leave out of account those who have been denied the blessing of sight. It is estimated that there are in Chicago between 2,000 and 2,500 blind persons. For their enjoyment, the Library has a collection of 1,370 volumes in raised letters. While there is maintained in the north wing of the main building on Michigan Avenue and Randolph Street, a reading room where applicants are given accommodations, most of the blind readers use the books in their homes. The federal government, by special enactment a few years ago, exempted from cost of postage, books for the blind sent through the mails by public libraries for the use of their patrons. In this way, the Chicago Public Library sends out every year to all parts of the city hundreds of books having the raised characters which are read by sense of touch instead of sight.

Unfortunately, there are seven or eight different systems of letters in raised form, and as most blind readers have acquired familiarity with but one, the others are sealed volumes in the case of the individual user. The systems principally used in Illinois are the Moon, which more nearly corresponds to the Roman type, with certain variations; and the American Braille, represented by a combination of embossed dots. Most of those who have become blind after reaching adult years readily acquire use of the Moon system. Students of statistics referring to the blind are impressed with the fact of the great preponderance of adults among them. It is estimated that there are about 80,000 blind persons in the United States. At least 64,000 of these, 80 per cent, are over 21 years of age. The great majority of the adult blind are living in their own homes, yet their condition renders them pathetically isolated even when surrounded by those near and dear to them, and it is almost impossible to overestimate the benefit they derive from reading for themselves by means of embossed letters.

In the institutions for the blind, usually some system of embossed dots is taught. Unfortunately, however, several dot systems, diverse in underlying principles of construction in many of the characters used, and sometimes even in meanings assigned to the same characters, have become firmly established in this country and abroad. Several great items of loss are experienced by blind readers as a result:

First: The lessening of available literature through the duplication of titles in different systems.

Second: The further limitation to readers familiar with only one system, by their inability to use other systems.

To provide for as many blind readers as possible, the Chicago Public Library has acquired books embossed in the following systems:

American Braille,	607 volumes
Moon,	459 volumes
American Line,	227 volumes
New York Point,	77 volumes

The Jackson bequest received by the Library a few years ago, amounting to one thousand dollars, permits the purchase of a few additional volumes annually from this fund.

Last year there were circulated for home use 2,620 volumes, and 93 were used in the Room for the Blind at the main Library.

A few months ago, through the generous volunteer efforts of the Conference of Jewish Women's Clubs, comprising forty-five organizations, free readings for the blind were instituted in the branch libraries on two Saturdays of each month.

One Day's Questions

During the month of February, the Civics Room was crowded to its utmost capacity. Although additional chairs have been provided, the Saturday demands have far exceeded the capacity of the room. The number and variety of questions upon which material is sought have taxed the best efforts of the reference staff. A few examples selected at random from many times the number of queries propounded during the afternoon of the last day of the month, upon which information was furnished, will serve to indicate their general character:

1. Regulation of building heights in the principal cities of the United States.
2. Number of unemployed in Chicago.
3. Housing conditions at Pullman.
4. Extent of financial interests by English investors in Mexico.
5. Is the child of an ambassador a citizen of the United States?
6. Number of wage earners in the United States.
7. The Mann act.
8. Restriction of immigration.
9. Cooperative agriculture and credits.
10. Enlargement of the Navy.
11. Proceedings of the school hygiene congress.
12. Municipal markets.
13. Attempted legislation in various states for voting by mail.

14. Syndicalism; an unbiased discussion.
15. White lists.
16. Economic growth of cities.
17. To what extent will ocean freight rates be affected by Panama canal tolls?

A New North Side Branch

The second branch library in the north division of the city was opened to the public on Saturday, February 28th, at noon. It is situated in that part of the twenty-fifth ward known as Sheridan Park, and has been named the Sheridan Branch. The Board of Directors was fortunate in securing exceptionally well adapted quarters in a double store at 4734-4736 Racine avenue, at the intersection of Broadway, and but a few doors south of Lawrence avenue. The new branch is thus located in the heart of one of the most populous residence districts, and is easily accessible from any point on the north shore.

Sheridan Branch is handsomely furnished and equipped with about 3,000 volumes, almost equally proportioned between books for children and for adults. An adequate and capable staff has been placed in charge and it is confidently expected that Sheridan will soon take its place among the busiest and largest of the Library branches. Hours of opening are from 9:00 a. m. to 9:00 p. m. on week days, and from 2:00 p. m. to 6:00 p. m. on Sundays. Books may be drawn for home use from the branch shelves or from the main library through the delivery station service. Borrowers' cards will be issued to applicants, and a complete list of catalogues is on sale.

Reading Lists and Finding List

Two special lists on subjects of interest are included in this number of the Bulletin beginning at page 54. The first is a list of plays suitable for production by amateurs and young people. The second is a continuation of the reading list on American artists.

The long delayed finding list of books of the Social Sciences is now ready. It comprises three hundred and seventy pages and forms a complete catalogue of the resources of the library in the classes of sociology, economics, political science, law, charity, and correction, criminology, education, social problems, social relations, and numerous cognate topics. Full author and title indexes and an exhaustive table of the classification are added. The list is for sale at the Main Library and all branches and stations at twenty-five cents per copy.

Books Added to the Library

Books marked * do not circulate; those with the letter P are in the Art room, and those marked Doc. are in the Document department. *Ser. represents serials which do not circulate.

Plays for Young People and Amateurs

The natural inclination of children to "make believe" may be turned to good account by giving them plays to act which will establish wholesome tastes and high ideals, as well as entertain. This list comprises acting dramas having historical backgrounds, others chosen from great literature or teaching ethical truths.

These books may be called for by the numbers given, or they may be consulted in the Thomas Hughes Room for Young People, and drawn for home use from there.

Departments

Rules and Information for Patrons

Any resident of Chicago, or any person residing in Cook County having permanent employment in the city, may enjoy the privileges of the Library by having a resident of the city, whose name must appear in the city directory, act as a guarantor. Upon application and compliance with the rules and regulations of the Board of Directors a card good for three years will be issued, which will permit the applicant to draw books for home use. In addition to a card thus issued, any registered reader may secure a Non-fiction card, which will permit the holder to draw one book, not a novel, in addition to a book issued on the regular card. Both cards may be used at the same time, enabling readers to secure two non-fiction books, or one book of fiction and one non-fiction.

Teachers are accorded special privileges upon application.

Books may be retained two weeks and may be once renewed for the same period. Books may be renewed but once. Books of recent purchase labeled Seven-day books cannot be transferred or renewed. The card must be presented whenever a book is taken out or renewed.

Books issued at Circulating Centers or Delivery Stations may be returned at the Main Library, but books cannot be applied for at the Main Library and delivered to Circulating Centers or Delivery Stations.

Any person of good deportment and habits may use the various Reading and Reference Rooms of the Library. No card is required to use the books on the open shelves or the books in the stacks, which must be applied for.

A change of residence should be reported to the Library immediately.

A card holder is responsible for all books drawn on the card, by whomsoever presented, and for all fines incurred. If a card is lost, immediate notice must be given to the Library. A new card will be issued thirty days after such notice.

A fine of three cents a day on each work is imposed, whether bound in one or more volumes, which is not returned within two weeks from the date of issue. An additional charge of two cents is made for each notice sent for the return of a book, and no other books will be delivered to the person incurring the fine until it is paid.

A card holder should also see that the call number is crossed off the order slip whenever a book is drawn.

Writing or marking in books is prohibited, and all injuries to books beyond reasonable wear, and all losses, must be promptly adjusted to the satisfaction of the Librarian.

Consulting the Card Catalogue

In addition to the official card catalog for use of the staff in the Order and Catalog departments, there are at the Main building of the Library the following card catalogs and indexes for the use of patrons:

Public Card Catalog—Complete dictionary catalog of all the books in the Library. Located on fourth floor, adjacent to Reference Room.

Open Shelf—Catalog (author and title) of books in this department; also catalog of new books added, supplementary to the latest printed finding lists.

Information Desk—Duplicate of last named catalog.

Art Room—Catalog of books in this department, with special index to artists and paintings.

Thomas Hughes Room—Catalogs of books, in Intermediate department with special index to fairy tales.

Reference Room—In addition to Public

Card Catalog, index to portraits and illustrations in foreign and domestic periodicals; index (first lines) to poems of James Whitcomb Riley and Eugene Field; catalog of books in the John Crerar library.

Civics Room—Catalog (author, title and subject) of books on social and economic topics; catalogs of documentary material (in process of completion); index, author and subject, of bills introduced in the Illinois legislature; index of ordinances pending in the City Council, with index to important measures under consideration in Councils of other cities; index to bulletins of city clubs, commercial organizations and organs of associations interested in questions of current public import.

Room for the Blind—Catalog of books in embossed type (Braille, Moon, New York Point and Line).

The following placard has been prepared for the information of users who wish to consult the Public Card Catalog:

The Card Catalog

This is a catalog of all the books in the Chicago Public Library. Each book is represented by two or more cards, viz:

- (1) Under the surname of its author.
- (2) Under the first word of its title if that is striking or fanciful.
- (3) Under the subject or subjects of which the book treats.

The arrangement is generally alphabetical like that of a dictionary or encyclopedia.

Under the name of an author, however, the various editions, translations and adaptations of each of his works are grouped together following the title of the original work without regard to strict alphabetical order.

Under some of the subjects, also, alphabetical arrangement has been modified or changed to chronological or systematic grouping as being better adapted to the needs of students.

The letter and number in the upper left hand corner of the catalog card is the call number by which books may be drawn. A star (*) in the call number denotes that the book so marked is for reference use only and cannot be withdrawn from the library building.

How the Library Serves the Public

IV: Book Needs of the Foreign Born

Out of a total of 882,516 minors enumerated in the last school census of Chicago, only 278,461 were children of American-born fathers. According to the last federal census, there were resident in Chicago at the time 1,693,918 white persons of foreign birth or parentage.

While practically all the children embraced in these groups prefer to read books in English and seldom take books in other languages from the Library except for the use of their parents, there are thousands of adult men and women whose familiarity with the English language is so limited that they would be precluded from using the Library if books in their own tongues were not provided. The same census lists the population by countries of nativity, and includes twenty-three of them. This classification gives no complete view of the polyglot character of the population, for the reason that many sub-divisions of countries are merged with the larger governmental units, and certain distinctive racial groups are therefore missing altogether from this list; for instance, Bohemians are counted under Austria, Poles under Russia, etc. Croats, Lithuanians, Letts, Slovaks, and a number of other dialectic groups largely represented in Chicago do not have separate enumeration. There are more Bohemians in Chicago than Prague can muster; there are more Italians here than can be counted in Florence or Venice; there are doubtless more Irish than Dublin possesses, and the Poles in Chicago outnumber those in the leading city of Poland. The Swedes of Chicago, if gathered together, would nearly duplicate Stockholm's population.

Books in seventeen different languages are obtainable from the central collection of the Library, or by delivery at the branches or stations. At the Main building, one section of the Open Shelf department is given over to special collections in German, French, Swedish, Dano-Norwegian, Yiddish, Italian, Bohemian, Polish and Lettish. In addition there are in the Library, books in the following languages: Spanish, Portuguese, Dutch, Russian, Hungarian, Lithuanian, Welsh, Japanese and Chinese. Altogether, the books in foreign languages, including special deposit collections in some of the branches, number 62,241.

Deposit collections placed in some of the branches are taken from the main collection and are selected with special reference to the foreign groups to be served in localities tributary to the particular branches where these smaller collections may be drawn upon. The principal deposit collections are located in branch libraries as follows:

Polish—*Bessemer, Burr, Davis, Dvorak, Eckhart, Holstein, Mark White, Sherman, West Twenty-sixth street—9.

Bohemian—Bessemer, Cornell, Davis Dvorak, Mark White, Sherman, West Twenty-sixth street—7.

Lithuanian—Bessemer, Burr, Davis, Mark White, Stanford—5.

Russian—Bessemer, Burr, Hebrew Institute, Stanford—4.

Hungarian—Armour, Eckhart—2.

Yiddish—Bessemer, Burr, Humboldt, Stanford, Hebrew Institute—5.

German—Bessemer, Burr, Cornell, Eckhart, Fuller, Hamlin, Hebrew Institute, Holstein, Humboldt, Lewis, Logan, Mark White, Ogden, Sherman, Stanford, West Twenty-sixth street—16.

Norwegian and Danish—Humboldt, Logan, West Twenty-sixth street—3.

Swedish—Armour, Bessemer, Humboldt, Logan—4.

*A list of the branches with locations will be found on the last two pages of this number.

Italian—Bessemer, Hebrew Institute—2.

In a number of the branches, leading daily and weekly papers in these languages are kept on file, and also a number of magazines. In the Reading Room of the Main library, there are leading magazines and newspapers representative of the following foreign languages:

Periodicals—German, 80; French, 27; Bohemian, 5; Italian, 13; Spanish, 2; Norwegian, 5; Swedish, 8; Danish, 6; Dutch, 3; Hungarian, 2; Russian, 5; Polish, 3; Lithuanian, 1; Hebraic, 1.

Newspapers—Spanish, 1; German, 14; French, 3; Bohemian, 9; Polish, 11; Dutch, 4; Norwegian and Danish, 11; Swedish, 10; Italian, 5; Hungarian, 1; Portuguese, 1; Greek, 3; Lithuanian, 3; Slovak, 1; Croatian, 1.

So great is the demand at some of the branches, that the shelves set aside for foreign books are nearly always empty, volumes being borrowed as fast as they are returned. The Library is preparing to add about 6,000 volumes in foreign languages during 1914, but this supply will fall far short of the demand. It is also planned to issue the following finding lists during the year:

German—complete revision.

French—additions.

Slavic languages—a consolidated revision.

Yiddish—revision.

Russian—a new list.

Modern Greek—a new list.

Letish—a new list.

Some of the minor deposit collections in commercial and industrial establishments also include books in foreign languages, and all of them are used a great deal. At the headquarters of the Woman's Trade Union League, similar collections are on deposit, many of the young women who frequent these quarters being wholly unable to read English. Here, as elsewhere, the books in foreign tongues have a liberal inclusion of material on citizenship, naturalization, etc., and there are volumes dealing with the history and customs of the United States. Books of this character are eagerly read.

The need for the distribution of the foreign books through the branch and other deposits is shown by interesting population maps—one prepared by the survey students of the McCormick Theological seminary; another by Miss Renee Stern, librarian of the School of Civics, and a third for local use at the Library. These show in striking form the varied population of Chicago, like islands of different nationalities scattered over the area. The most numerous are the Yiddish groups, while the largest are the Bohemian, Polish and Italian groups. In the three geographical divisions of the city, there are distinct population colonies as follows:

West Side—German and Scandinavian, Polish, Bohemian, Jewish, Italian, Greek, mixed foreign, Armenian, Bulgarian.

North Side—German, Scandinavian and German, mixed foreign, Italian, Servian, Polish, Hungarian.

South Side—Polish, Jewish, Lithuanian, Italian, mixed foreign, Scandinavian, German, Hungarian, Croatian, Greek, Servian.

There are also a number of well-defined negro districts in the three divisions, the colored people numbering, according to the last count, 44,103, of whom 25,760 are listed as black, and 18,343 as mulatto. This is almost as large a colored population as may be found in Atlanta, Georgia, or Richmond, Virginia. The negroes are numerically stronger in Chicago than in Louisville, Ky., Nashville, Tenn., or St. Louis, Mo. No special provision for them has been undertaken by the Library, but many of them avail themselves of the privileges at the Main and a number of the branch libraries.

A Portfolio on Matters Theatrical

Interest in dramatic material as developed in the Study Room for Women, fourth floor of the Main building, has suggested keeping on file there a portfolio of current comment on theatrical and dramatic subjects. These are extracted from various sources, including articles by Clayton Hamilton, Norman Hapgood, Percy Hammond, Mantle Burns, James O'Donnell Bennett, Chas. H. Collins, Frederic Hatton, and material from English sources by and about Barrie, Galsworthy, Shaw and Chesterton.

The current bundle in the portfolio includes the following articles:

"The Peril of the Repertory," by Cecil Chisholm. From T. P.'s Weekly.

"Silhouetting a Scene." Maude Adam's Experiment with photography in the theatre. From the Boston Transcript.

"Chesterton's First Play," by Bernard Lintot.

"Shaw's Technical Method in the Shewing-up of Blanco Posnet." From the American Playwright.

"Revival of the Tyranny of Tears" by Desmond MacCarthy in the New Statesman.

A Branch for Pullman

On Sunday, April 5, the new Palmer Park branch of the Chicago Public Library was opened to the public.

If plans are realized, the new Stanton and Seward Park branches on the North Side will be opened about May 1. The Sumner branch on the West Side will probably be ready about May 15.

A Department of Music

Music lovers will welcome the announcement that the Board of Directors of the Public Library has ordered the installation of a Department of Music to comprise a practical selection of orchestral and vocal scores and of the standard compositions and classical collections for various instruments. The subject was presented at the meeting of April 13th by Director Oscar G. Mayer in the following resolutions, which were unanimously adopted, and which are reprinted here because of the interesting and comprehensive statement of the plan, and of local musical conditions and needs, contained in the preamble:

"The importance of the public interest in music has grown with such rapidity during the past generation that its special needs are demanding attention from the public libraries. Everybody knows something of music as an art, but music as a business has recently begun to force consideration from commercial bodies because they have discovered that its volume represents too large a sum to be ignored. Several investigations have been made of the subject by different agencies, including the Commercial Association of Chicago, and though some important factors are lacking, through the impossibility of gathering definite statistics, yet enough has been found so that all are in substantial agreement as to the sum total: that is more than thirty millions each year in the City of Chicago.

"As a manufacturing center of musical instruments Chicago is the second city in the country, producing each year one hundred thousand pianos, to the value of $14,000,000.

"The people of Chicago spend each year for instruction in music something like $2,000,000; for the purchase of the printed notes, $1,500,000; for the opera, symphony concerts, recitals of artists and choral societies, $1,000,000. Instruments of all kinds, pianos, violins, talking machines, etc., are purchased by our people for their own use to the amount of about $10,000,000.

"The standard classics of the literature of music have been published in such form as has made the price moderate. The classic literature of the piano from Bach to Brahms, including all the important masters, Handel, Haydn, Mozart, Beethoven, Schubert, Schumann, Chopin, Liszt and Grieg would not cost above $250.00. A casual list was made for piano solo, piano arrangements of four hands, of overtures and symphonies, piano and violin and piano with other instruments—an excellent practical music library, which amounted to more than six hundred volumes, and would cost but $300.00.

"The value of such a library to the music lovers can be judged from the manner in which they have availed themselves of the opera scores which are now at their command.

"An excellent library of the song classics would not cost more than a hundred dollars, and the standard oratorios would amount to about as much more.

"For $2,000.00 a music selection of the utmost practical value could be purchased, and this would include a large number of full orchestral scores of some of the most important works in the art. To the Library this would be relatively a small sum, but it would give to the student an opportunity of the greatest importance. It may be doubted whether there be any way in which the Library by the expenditure of such a sum of money could perform a vital service for so large a part of the community.

"Resolved, That the Committee on Library be, and the same is hereby requested to use such portion of the Beecher fund as was set aside for book purchases in the January apportionment for the nucleus of a collection of books and material on music, embracing operas, orchestral scores, piano scores and kindred printed material.

"Resolved Further, That such unappropriated balance as remains in the Beecher income fund be added to the amount above contemplated.

"Resolved Further, That in making initial selection the Committee on Library be requested to call into counsel such representative musicians and music lovers as in their judgment will best promote the purpose of these resolutions."

A favorable report on these resolutions by the Committee on Library at the next meeting, April 27th, led to the action creating the music library and making an appropriation therefor. Steps will be taken in the near future to carry out the provisions of this order.

Library Books by Parcel Post

By authorization of the Board of Directors the Chicago Public Library has instituted a parcel post delivery available to any patron desirous of having books sent directly to his home. The conditions applicable to this system have been made as simple as possible, with due regard to efficiency and the proper care of the books. They may be briefly stated as follows:

Any registered borrower, upon depositing one dollar to cover the cost of mailing books, may participate in this service, subject to the general rules of the Library governing book loans. A receipt card will be furnished, and the various charges for postage will be punched on this card so that it will at all times show the balance to the credit of the borrower.

Loan period (two weeks) begins on date of mailing, not date of arrival at destination. In like manner loan period ends on date of return mailing, said date in case of doubt to be determined by the postmark. Fines for over-due books will be assessed in accordance with this rule.

In all cases of doubt or dispute the Library records must be accepted as accurate and conclusive evidence.

Responsibility for losses or damages incidental to transportation must be borne by the borrower.

Shipment of books will be made only when the card accompanies the order. One renewal for additional two weeks is permitted. When renewal is desired, books need not be sent in, but borrower's card must be mailed for restamping.

Books returned by parcel post must be securely wrapped and tied, but not sealed. Damages or excess postage charges caused by careless wrapping will be assessed against the sender. Sender's name and address preceded by the word "From" must appear on the wrapper.

No book will be mailed from the Library unless balance remaining on deposit is sufficient to cover all charges. When credit balance falls below ten cents, borrower will be notified, to permit prompt remittance for renewal of deposit. Postage for correspondence relating to parcel post shipments will be charged against deposit.

The borrowers are requested to state on their orders the limit of time in which books will be of use, in case it is not possible to send them promptly because in circulation at the time of request. Books may be sent from or to Library by parcel post at the following rates:

Weight	Local rate	Zone rate
1 lb.	$0.05	$0.05
2 lbs.	.06	.06
3 lbs.	.06	.07
4 lbs.	.07	.08
5 lbs.	.07	.09

How the Library Serves the Public

V. Department of Arts and Crafts

On the fifth floor of the Central building, Chicago Public Library, is located a department which, for want of a more descriptive term, is called the Art Room. Here between covers of leather or of buckram may be found a wealth of graphic material dealing with the fine arts, with historic ornaments, industrial design and the related topics that make an appeal to the art student, the architect, the craftsman, the designer and the average citizen who is interested in such subjects as book-making, old time furniture, jewelry, rugs, the development of painting and sculpture, the theatre and the arts and letters in their varied specialized departments. The books range in size from fat little duodecimos to stately elephant folios, and there are also many hundreds of portfolios containing in detached form reproductions from the masterpieces of the world and modern adaptations representing all the fine arts and the art crafts. It is a varied collection as well as a valuable one, for here are grouped most of the rare and costly works which the Library possesses. A bequest of ten thousand dollars from the Rev. Dr. W. H. Ryder has enabled the Library to acquire these fine examples of book-making and rare treasures in graphic form by applying the income derived annually from the investment of this fund towards the purchase of books for this special department. There has been built up in consequence a collection which is particularly strong in the lines of industrial design and ornament, and which is used constantly by students, architects and craftsmen who realize the commercial possibilities contained therein. During the past year a thousand persons a month made use of the material in this department, some of them spending many hours in tracing designs, in copying from the reproductions or in noting suggestions applicable to their own work. A total of 44,173 volumes was issued to these applicants during the past year. In connection with the Art Room, accommodations have been provided for those who desire to use cameras to copy pictures or, as is frequently done, to secure facsimiles of printed pages of some of the rare works in the Library.

While the current numbers of the leading magazines and illustrated periodicals dealing with art subjects are kept on file, the main body of the material is to be found in the large collection of books which are available upon request, subject to such conditions as will safeguard the use of rare and costly volumes such as these. A few of the subjects, broadly grouped, which find representation are listed below:

FINE ARTS

Painting	Ornament
Sculpture	Architecture
Engraving	Mural painting
Etching	Book illustration
Drawing	Portraits
Caricatures	Art galleries
Cartoons	Art anatomy
Miniatures	Theatre
Music	Dancing
Opera scores	Antiquities
Numismatics	Archaeology

ART CRAFTS

Goldsmithing	Palaeography
Silversmithing	Lithography
Jewelry	Printing
Ivory carving	Color printing
Wood carving	Alphabets
Metal work	Monograms
Textiles	Costume
Rugs	Leather work
Tapestry	Gems
Needlework	Glass painting
Lace	China painting
House decoration	Pottery
Furniture	Enamelling
Wall decoration	Mosaics
Illuminated manuscripts

One of the most interesting sections of the department is that which deals with the development and progress of book-making from the manuscript era to the present day. There are facsimiles exquisitely reproduced in color of some of the famous manuscripts of the world, including Queen Anne's Prayer Book, and the Grimani Breviary. There is also a facsimile of the Gutenberg Bible with its remarkable ornamentation showing the exact appearance of the first book printed from movable types nearly five-hundred years ago.

Many business houses have availed themselves of the possibilities of the material to be found here to secure suggestions for window dressing, for advertising, for manufacturing novelties and otherwise. Lecturers have also found the material useful for their purposes, many thousands of slides having been reproduced from the illustrations selected by them. The practical application of this material to the use of business men may be gathered from the following brief list noted within a recent period by the custodians of the room.

Designers of Fashionable Clothing—Costumes of the 18th century.

Furniture Manufacturers—Color schemes for interiors; stained glass designs.

Another Furniture Manufacturer—Chippendale, Heppelwhite and Sheraton designs of furniture.

Several Retail Stores—Suggestions for window trimming.

Theatre Scene Painters—Designs for backgrounds, landscape, and interior views.

Author of a Book on the Bible—Four hundred photographs made from hundreds of books illustrating text.

Art Connoisseur—Studies of Japanese prints, allegorical designs and Beardsley sketches.

Dress Form Co.—Copy of frame such as was used on old miniature portraits.

Silversmith—Jewelry designs of the 16th and 17th centuries.

Excellentlly lighted, commodious and quiet, this room is in every detail admirably adapted to its functions, and forms one of the most interesting departments of the Library.

Many Questions, and a Few Answers

From many hundreds of questions which pour regularly into the Reference Department of the Library, a selection is herewith made of some which call for answers of interest to others than the individual querist. Owing to the heavy demands upon the time of the reference staff, it has been found necessary to restrict search for elusive poetical quotations to the printed indexes and concordances, as otherwise hours of time would have to be expended in tracing a couplet or quatrain to its obscure lair. Even when the author is known, it is a formidable task to locate the exact place whence a certain line or two has been extracted. In the hope, however, that some reader of the Bulletin may identify the authorship or place of fugitive rhymes and verses, appeals for aid of this nature will be printed in these columns, and replies will be forwarded to inquirers. Among the orphaned rhymes seeking parentage which have been received recently are the following:

1. Poem with the refrain:

The air is full of sunshine
And the flag is full of stars.

Who flings the stones from out the traveled road
Or feeds a starving creature not his own,
His name is whispered to the gods above.

3. Old poem wanted, first stanza of which quoted from memory is as follows:

My eyes are dim, I cannot see,
I left my specs at home.
A thing I never did before.

4. Source of the following:

It is a far call
From the woman of savagery, the common property of the horde—the burden-bearer;

From the woman of medievalism, the wife, who was made a little better than a slave;

From the woman, who, in the sixteenth century, sought for recognition and was refused, etc.

The following are a few of the many questions upon which information was furnished in the Civics Room during the last two weeks of March:

A constitution of a co-operative organization.

Building code of Chicago.

Organization of the Board of Pardons of Illinois.

Number of lynchings in Ill. in 1913.

Election laws of Ind., Nev., Mont., and New Hamp.

Monroe Doctrine.

Lever bill.

Montessori method.

American Consul-general to Berlin.

List of Indian agencies and reservation superintendents.

Family entrances of saloons in relation to juvenile delinquency.

What mayor of Chicago has served the longest period of time? Who has served next longest?

Something about the office of Public Defender in Los Angeles.

Municipal abattoirs.

Amount of money spent for golf and yachting by the idle rich.

Trust legislation.

Currency legislation.

How many people in the U. S. are grammar school graduates?

Brazil and Argentine Republic: (a) Population, (b) Cattle statistics, (c) Exports and imports.

A Gift from Mayor Harrison

Included in a bundle of books sent to the Library by Mayor Carter H. Harrison as a gift, are two volumes of special association interest. On the fly-leaf are the autographs of John Breckinridge, who was Attorney General of the United States under President Jefferson, and of his son, Robert J. Breckinridge, who was the greatest Presbyterian minister of the gospel Kentucky has ever known.

Memorial Day

The circulating department of the Main Library will be closed all day on Memorial Day, Saturday, May 30th. The reference and reading rooms will be open from nine until six o'clock. The branches will be open from two until six p. m.

Books Added to the Library

Books marked * do not circulate; those with the letter P are in the Art room, and those marked Doc. are in the Document department. *Ser. represents serials which do not circulate.

How the Library Serves the Public

VI: Civics Room, and Document Department

Millions of public documents are printed every year. Tons of them are never taken from their wrappers by the recipients; additional tons are in storage in the basements of public buildings in Washington, and are sent to the paper mills as they accumulate beyond storage capacity. Single copies, and in some instances duplicates, of these thousands of publications, are ranged on the shelves of libraries. It is in these institutions that the best and the largest use is made of the valuable material which Uncle Sam puts into print, and it is here that by means of indexes and catalogs, information which would otherwise be buried is rendered accessible.

Today the government of the United States is the greatest publisher in the world. The government printing office is the finest and best-equipped in the world, and no nation approaches this country in the effort to enlighten its people through the medium of printer's ink. Nearly six million dollars has been appropriated this year to maintain the government printing office. At enormous additional cost for expert service, the government secures the material for its publications on all sorts of subjects. Some of the publications are in the form of portly books, some are bulletins, some are circulars, and an important section comprises maps. Vital discoveries and experiments of interest to farmers, manufacturers, educators, and business men are included.

The Chicago Public Library, being a designated depository, receives the government publications as issued. The states also issue documents, and the important ones on subjects concerning labor, industrial interests and public utilities, the Library makes special efforts to secure. This is also the case with important municipal documents, dealing with a multiplicity of topics which are the outgrowth of the complex problems now before the large city communities.

In addition to the federal, state, municipal and foreign documents, the Civics Room collections embrace a great mass of related material in the form of pamphlets, magazine references and clippings from the leading newspapers of the world. Of the topics which are well represented in the pamphlet boxes which line the shelves on two sides of the room, the following are typical:

(1) National

What Congress is doing Tariff legislation
Currency reform Trust legislation
Income tax Mexican situation

(2) State

Public Utilities
Illinois bills (when legislature is in session) with indexes

(3) Municipal

Municipal dance halls Playgrounds
Commission form of government Garbage disposal
Non-partisan elections Municipal markets
Smoke nuisance Social surveys
Parks Subways
Railroad terminals
Municipal ice plants

(4) Political, Social and Economic Initiative and referendum International arbitration

Woman suffrage Garden cities
Short ballot Blue sky laws
Immigration Child welfare
Minimum wage Mothers' pensions
Child labor Reformatories
Employers' liability Juvenile courts
Housing Pension systems
Employers' welfare institutions Open air schools
Social settlements Industrial education
Labor unions Social centers
Syndicalism Panama Canal tolls
Cooperation Billboard nuisance
Cost of living Unemployment

There are some subjects of current interest upon which no books have been written, and for information upon which one must go to pamphlets, mayor's messages, newspaper clippings, and similar sources. The following are of this nature, representing demands which the Civics Room has met, recently:

Chicago boys' court
Delinquent girls' court
City manager plan
Public defender
Effeminization question in the public schools
Juvenile adult offender
Paying fines on the installment plan
Three-fourths decision in jury trials
Boards of public welfare
A world center of communication
School savings banks

As showing the activities of the Civics Room, the characteristic subjects which interest the seekers for information, and the general scope of the resources, the following extract from lists of inquiries compiled during the past two months may be cited:

Political, Social and Economic Subjects
(a) Taxation systems of Illinois and Wisconsin

(b) Social surveys
(c) Housing conditions in various cities
(d) Immigration
(e) Labor conditions

Municipal Topics

(a) City manager plan of government
(b) New offices and boards in other cities:
(1) Public defender
(2) Public welfare boards
(c) Municipal activities:
(1) Municipal aquarium
(2) Municipal ice plants
(3) Municipal milk depots
(d) Playgrounds
(1) Use of school yards for playgrounds

Statistical Information

(a) No. of immigrants from Germany since 1880
(b) No. of industrial accidents in U. S. in 1910

New Movements

(a) Paying fines on the installment plan
(b) A world center of communication

During the past year, the patrons who used the Civics Room numbered 50,016. Their demands embraced the following material: City, business and special directories consulted, 20,832; magazines on education, economics and sociology issued, 19,231; books on these subjects issued, 16,415; pamphlets issued, 110,850. No count was kept of the clippings used, but very considerable use was made of them.

One Question Answered

A post card received from an interested reader of the Book Bulletin gives the answer to one of the questions listed in the May issue, namely the origin of the line:

"The air is full of sunshine and the flag is full of stars."

This occurs in Dr. Henry Van Dyke's poem, "America for Me," to be found in his "Poems," collected edition, p. 167. The Library call number of this book is E 11643.

This is the last issue of the Book Bulletin until September, publication being suspended during July and August. The next number will appear about September 10th.

Two legal holidays occurring before that time give rise to the following announcement:

The Library will be closed in all of its departments and branches on Independence Day, Saturday, July 4th.

On Labor Day, Monday, Sept. 7th, the reference and reading rooms will be open from nine a. m. until six p. m., the circulating department being closed. The branches will be open from two until six p. m. on that day.

Vacation and Summer Cards

Beginning June 15th, and available until September 1st, the Chicago Public Library will issue a Vacation Card to any registered reader who makes personal application therefor at the Main Library or at any of the twenty-six branches maintained by the Library Board. The privileges represented by this card, which is intended primarily for readers who expect to spend a prolonged period on vacation trips outside the city, entitle the holder to the use of ten books at one time (not more than half of which may be novels), for such time prior to the expiration of the limit as may be required. No renewal is necessary within such period, but the books must be returned before the final limit set by the regulations covering their use.

In order that residents of Chicago who are unable to leave their daily work for the country, or otherwise find it impossible or inconvenient to spend their vacations elsewhere, may enjoy to the fullest extent the resources of the Library with the least inconvenience in the procurement of the books from the Main Library or its branches, arrangements have been made for the first time to issue to those who apply in person for such privilege the use of what is to be known as a Summer Card. On this card there may be drawn at one time not to exceed five books in any department of literature whether fiction or non-fiction and these may be retained one full calendar month without the customary renewal feature after having had the book two weeks. As this new feature of ready use of books with the least attachment of red tape promises to be popular, and as the consequent use of these cards will probably be considerable, a special attendant will be provided at the Information Desk to respond to such demands as may come from this source. The books obtained on this card, inasmuch as they may be retained the full calendar month, may not be renewed and in justice to other patrons seven-day books will not be given out on the Summer Card.

These special privileges are limited to the less busy seasons in the Library, as it would not be possible to extend the duration of the period to the winter months for lack of a sufficient number of books to meet the demand at that time. The largest circulation, as shown by an experience of forty years, is recorded during the months of December, January, February and March, while less reading appears to be done during July and August than at any other season of the year.

During July and August all of the branch libraries will remain closed all day on Sundays.

Some Questions Answered

1. A list of expositions in the United States held since the Centennial, or planned for the near future, is requested.

Centennial International Exhibition, Philadelphia, 1876.

World's Columbian Exposition, Chicago, 1893.

California Mid-Winter Exhibition, San Francisco, 1894.

Cotton States and Industrial Exposition, Atlanta, 1895.

Tennessee Centennial Exposition, Nashville, Tenn., 1897.

Trans-Mississippi Exposition, Omaha, Neb., 1898.

Pan-American Exposition, Buffalo, 1901.

South Carolina Inter-State and West Indian Exposition, Charleston, 1901-2.

Louisiana Purchase Exposition, St. Louis, 1904.

Lewis & Clark Exposition, Portland, Oregon, 1905.

Jamestown Ter-centennial Exposition, Hampton Roads, 1907.

Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition, Seattle, 1909.

Panama-Pacific International Exposition, San Francisco, 1915.

Panama-California Exposition, San Diego, Cal., 1915.

2. "Who was the 'clubfooted man' spoken of in the Clansman by Thos. Dixon, Jr.?"

The character in the book, Austin Stone-man, is drawn from Thaddeus Stevens, member of the House of Representatives from 1861-68.

3. "Who are the three greatest women novelists of today, (American or otherwise)?"

Perhaps most critics of authority would agree on the following names: Mrs. Humphrey Ward, Mrs. Edith Wharton, Selma Lagerlöf.

The Chicago Public Library receives a large number of requests for information by mail from correspondents who seek data on questions for debate, or who want evaluated lists of books on a great variety of topics. Staff members in the Reference department are glad to assist all inquirers who come to the Library to secure such data, but cannot undertake research work by correspondence. It would require the services of a staff many times that which the Library now has to respond even in a modest way to such demands. To do so with present equipment would be at the expense of the reference workers who make calls in person for aid in research work.

Notes

The Board of Directors has authorized the opening of a Foreign Room which will make possible the installation of a collection of 25,000 volumes in the various continental languages for open access and convenient examination, similar to the much-appreciated Open Shelf section on the Delivery Floor. Unfortunately, the space available will not be sufficient for the entire foreign section of the Library, which now numbers some 80,000 volumes, but a representative collection in each language, the classics and standards, together with the latest accessions, will be placed in the new room, which is located on the fourth floor on the west side of the south corridor adjoining the Thomas Hughes Room for Young People. Further announcement will be made when the room is ready for opening, which will be as soon as the necessary shelves and furniture are received.

During the summer large collections of the newest books in German, French, Russian and Polish have been received and these are being prepared for circulation as rapidly as possible. Order lists were also in preparation for similar purchases of Bohemian and Yiddish books, but the receipt of these will be seriously delayed, if not indefinitely postponed by the unsettled conditions in Europe. All importations of books have practically stopped, for the present, and only a few of the European newspapers and periodicals are being received, and these only irregularly and after much delay. Among other things, this state of affairs will cause the postponement of the issue of a revised finding list of German books, which was in progress, but which cannot be finished until numerous additional volumes can be secured to fill gaps, to replace worn-out and obsolete works, and to bring the collection completely up to date.

It will be necessary, also—and mainly for the above mentioned reasons—to defer the opening of the Music Room for at least one month from September first, the date originally fixed. Only about one-half of the splendid and comprehensive list selected by the musical critics of three local newspapers could be secured in this country, and not all of that portion has yet been received.

The cataloging and binding of the volumes at hand is going forward with all possible speed and, if it transpires that the orders placed in Europe cannot be filled within a reasonable time, the room will be opened with the part of the collection now available, the outstanding portion being added as received.

The European War

Below is a brief list of books on some phases of the European situation, which are offered as suggestions to the student and general reader. The present list is largely composed of works on the general aspects of war and peace, and of European international relations and politics. Only a few of the newer books descriptive of life and conditions in the several countries involved have been included. The Library is, of course, amply equipped with the literature of travel and description and patrons are referred to the finding lists and to the card catalogs for a complete survey of this class. Efforts have been made to prepare for the suddenly increased interest in these subjects by the addition of many duplicate copies in the main library as well as in all of the branches, but these have been only partially successful because the stocks of the booksellers themselves have been quickly exhausted under the heavy and unanticipated demands of the general public, and library orders have in some cases been returned unfilled. The indulgence and consideration of readers must therefore be invoked and it is for this reason that attention is called to the catalogs, with the aid of which, it is hoped, they will be able to find material which, if not their first choice, will still prove useful and adequate.

Rules and Information for Patrons

Any resident of Chicago, or any person residing in Cook County having permanent employment in the city, may enjoy the privileges of the Library by having a resident of the city, whose name must appear in the city directory, act as a guarantor. Upon application and compliance with the rules and regulations of the Board of Directors a card good for three years will be issued, which will permit the applicant to draw books for home use. In addition to a card thus issued, any registered reader may secure a Non-fiction card, which will permit the holder to draw one book, not a novel, in addition to a book issued on the regular card. Both cards may be used at the same time, enabling readers to secure two non-fiction books, or one book of fiction and one non-fiction.

Teachers are accorded special privileges upon application.

Books may be retained two weeks and may be once renewed for the same period. Books may be renewed but once. Books of recent purchase labeled Seven-day books cannot be transferred or renewed. The card must be presented whenever a book is taken out or renewed.

Books issued at Circulating Centers or Delivery Stations may be returned at the Main Library, but books cannot be applied for at the Main Library and delivered to Circulating Centers or Delivery Stations.

Any person of good deportment and habits may use the various Reading and Reference Rooms of the Library. No card is required to use the books on the open shelves or the books in the stacks, which must be applied for.

A change of residence should be reported to the Library immediately.

A card holder is responsible for all books drawn on the card, by whomsoever presented, and for all fines incurred. If a card is lost, immediate notice must be given to the Library. A new card will be issued thirty days after such notice.

A fine of three cents a day on each work is imposed, whether bound in one or more volumes, which is not returned within two weeks from the date of issue. An additional charge of two cents is made for each notice sent for the return of a book, and no other books will be delivered to the person incurring the fine until it is paid.

A card holder should also see that the call number is crossed off the order slip whenever a book is drawn.

Writing or marking in books is prohibited, and all injuries to books beyond reasonable wear, and all losses, must be promptly adjusted to the satisfaction of the Librarian.

A Budget of Facts and Figures

Floating in oceans of printer's ink, the reader may encounter many facts and figures of value and interest that would prove of permanent worth if they were indexed. For want of indexes, they are difficult to find when wanted. To supply this want, in part, a card file has been begun in the Civics Room of the Chicago Public Library containing in brief compass a variety of information on all sorts of subjects in form that can be consulted readily.

The "Facts and Figures Index" was suggested by experience growing out of demands for out-of-the-way information not readily procurable from usual sources, and the finding of which has in some instances involved hours of search. Some sample questions chosen at random from a week's list of inquiries will serve to indicate the difficulty of quickly supplying answers from the standard reference books:

1. How much food the nations at war consume and how much the United States uses of its own crops and how much it sends to warring nations.
2. Socialism in America.
3. Rise of real estate values.

4. Preparation of peanuts for market.
5. Number of buildings put up in large cities in 1913.
6. What states have the two-cent railway fare?
7. What are the regulations for packing motion picture films for shipping?
8. Number of deaths from fire in the United States.
9. Number of deaths from alcohol.
10. Parent-teacher associations.

The material in the "Facts and Figures Index" is kept on cards 5x8 in size, indexed by means of suitable subject headings. On these cards are pasted clippings and extracts derived from many sources—newspapers, magazines, pamphlets and other printed ephemera. In all cases there are added source of clipping and date of publication, with notation of location where additional facts may be found if the card space is insufficient to contain the entire article or extract. Something of the range embraced may be gathered from the few samples here given by title:

City expenditures for police, fire department, health, schools, etc., embracing London, Paris, Berlin, Vienna, Glasgow, New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, St. Louis and Boston.

War strength of battling nations.

Importation of eggs into Great Britain.

The Japanese navy since the war with Russia.

Specimen city blocks having a population of 1,000 or more persons.

Financial power of nations drawn into the European war.

Figures showing the standing of Chicago as a dry goods center.

Annual expenditures on the German army and German navy from 1901 to 1910.

United Kingdom, Germany, and France migration deduced from census and vital statistics.

Express rates for packages weighing 100 pounds.

Cost of American storage reservoirs.

Cost of rehabilitating the Illinois and Michigan canal between Joliet and La Salle.

Where the money comes from in support of the federal government.

Fire losses at home and abroad.

Some figures as to world railway mileage.

World's great ship canals, their dimensions and cost.

Women elected to office in Illinois.

Farm buildings in various countries.

Growth of the no-license territory.

Bank figures on which Secretary McAdoo based choice of locations for federal reserve banks.

Royal persons assassinated since 1800.

Marine disasters of recent years.

Chicago's sky-scraper record for the year 1914.

Rank of Illinois in the traction industry, with comparisons.

Ten years' development in public utilities—electric railways, light and power, municipal electric stations, telephones, gas plants.

Daddy Dearborn's dollar, and how he spends it.

Chicago's proximity to center of food supply: corn, wheat, butter, milk, potato, live stock.

Nationalities that go to make up Chicago's labor market.

Facts about railway transportation and water transportation in Chicago.

Restriction of building heights in cities of the United States.

Expenditures per family in 699 normal families in the state of Illinois.

Number of trespassers killed and injured on the railroads of this country during the last twenty years.

School savings banks in the Chicago public schools.

Cost of the country's wasted eggs.

Roman Catholics and Protestants in the counties of Ulster.

War Literature.

A few of the more interesting of the pamphlets dealing with questions arising out of the present war in Europe have been prepared for circulation and placed on the Open Shelf desk where they will be issued for home use. Among them are copies of the famous "white papers" presenting the cases of England and Germany, respectively.

Everyman's Library.

Attention is called to the new volumes added to the collection entitled Everyman's Library in the Open Shelf Department. This excellent and popular series now numbers over six hundred volumes and comprises a selection of the best in the literatures of all ages and tongues. A list of the additions is printed at p. 144.

Books Added to the Library

Books marked * do not circulate; those with the letter P are in the Art room, and those marked Doc. are in the Document department. *Ser. represents serials which do not circulate.

Rules and Information for Patrons

Any resident of Chicago, or any person residing in Cook County having permanent employment in the city, may enjoy the privileges of the Library by having a resident of the city, whose name must appear in the city directory, act as a guarantor. Upon application and compliance with the rules and regulations of the Board of Directors a card good for three years will be issued, which will permit the applicant to draw books for home use. In addition to a card thus issued, any registered reader may secure a Non-fiction card, which will permit the holder to draw one book, not a novel, in addition to a book issued on the regular card. Both cards may be used at the same time, enabling readers to secure two non-fiction books, or one book of fiction and one non-fiction.

Teachers are accorded special privileges upon application.

Books may be retained two weeks and may be once renewed for the same period. Books may be renewed but once. Books of recent purchase labeled Seven-day books cannot be transferred or renewed. The card must be presented whenever a book is taken out or renewed.

Books issued at Circulating Centers or Delivery Stations may be returned at the Main Library, but books cannot be applied for at the Main Library and delivered to Circulating Centers or Delivery Stations.

Any person of good deportment and habits may use the various Reading and Reference Rooms of the Library. No card is required to use the books on the open shelves or the books in the stacks, which must be applied for.

A change of residence should be reported to the Library immediately.

A card holder is responsible for all books drawn on the card, by whomsoever presented, and for all fines incurred. If a card is lost, immediate notice must be given to the Library. A new card will be issued thirty days after such notice.

A fine of three cents a day on each work is imposed, whether bound in one or more volumes, which is not returned within two weeks from the date of issue. An additional charge of two cents is made for each notice sent for the return of a book, and no other books will be delivered to the person incurring the fine until it is paid.

A card holder should also see that the call number is crossed off the order slip whenever a book is drawn.

Writing or marking in books is prohibited, and all injuries to books beyond reasonable wear, and all losses, must be promptly adjusted to the satisfaction of the Librarian.

Music Room and Foreign Room, fourth floor, Washington street entrance; open 9 a. m. to 8:30 p. m., closed on Sunday.

The Music Room

The Music Room is now open to the public. It is situated in the southwest corner of the fourth floor of the Main Library building, adjoining the Thomas Hughes Room for young people. It is equipped with suitable shelving and tables, and at present contains about 2,100 bound volumes of music scores and about one thousand pieces of sheet music reinforced and sewed in flexible covers. All of this music is available for home circulation on practically the same conditions as govern the issue of books from other departments, with the following variations: A special music card will be issued on demand to every cardholder of record, and every applicant for library cards is entitled to the music card in addition to the fiction and non-fiction cards now issued. Music cards will, however, be issued in the Music Room, not at the Registration Desk, and patrons will be required to show their book cards when applying for the special card in the Music Room. The room is open from 9 a. m. to 8:30 p. m.

One bound volume of music will be issued on each music card for a period of four weeks, but without renewal. The usual fine of three cents a day will be charged for failure to return within this period.

Sheet music will be issued at the rate of five pieces on each music card, and for two weeks only, without renewal. A fine of one cent a day will be charged for each piece overdue. Sheet music and bound volumes will not be issued at the same time on the same card.

It is a pleasure to record here the names of the three eminent musical critics to whose expert knowledge and active co-operation the music lovers of Chicago are indebted for the excellent collection which has been assembled. They are:

Felix Borowsky, Esq., of the Chicago Herald.

Karleton Hackett, Esq., of the Chicago Evening Post.

Glenn Dillard Gunn, Esq.

When the Music Room was first planned, last spring, it was decided to invite the assistance of these representative musicians in selecting the works to be included. They responded to the invitation with enthusiasm and entered upon the task with the greatest interest. After several conferences in which the general scope of a music library for popular use was definitely fixed, lists were compiled by each of these three gentlemen independently, and these were brought together, copied and tabulated and out of them grew the official order list, the purchase of which was authorized by the Board of Directors in June. All of the titles recommended were ordered purchased, but only that part of the entire order procurable in this country has been received, since conditions in Europe have prevented the importation of those works which had to be ordered abroad. Thus the present collection comprises about three-fourths of the whole recommended list and some serious gaps may still be noticed, which are attributable to the circumstances mentioned. The splendid judgment and taste of the selectors will, however, be clearly apparent to patrons who examine the array of volumes now on the shelves, and the missing portion will be added promptly upon its arrival.

The plan as outlined and carried into effect contemplated a home collection of music, adapted to the skill and proficiency of the average performer. The largest space has been given to the literature of the more commonly used instruments: piano, violin, violoncello, and the like. Music for groups of instruments, "chamber music," from duets to octets and even nonets, in various instrumental combinations, form a large division. A selection of the standard concertos, for study purposes, will also be found. Full orchestral scores and works involving a degree of virtuosity required only in professional artists have, for the present, at any rate, been omitted. A full set of "miniature scores" of symphonies and other orchestral music will be added as soon as possible, to enable music students to follow the rendition of these compositions at the symphony concerts. At this time only a very few have been received. Organ music is not yet adequately represented but will be supplied in sufficient variety in the near future.

In the vocal section a large and varied collection of oratorios, cantatas, choruses and part songs, both sacred and secular, claims attention, while the works of the great composers for solo voice have been included in large numbers. Of operas the Library already had a fair representation of those included in the current repertoires, and these have been transferred to the shelves of the Music Room.

The volumes have been arranged on open shelves for examination and selection, classified according to a logical and orderly system, with plenty of shelf labels and other guides provided to aid the visitor in finding what he may seek. A complete card catalogue has been provided in which each work is entered both under the name of the composer and under the class to which it belongs. As soon as the collection is completed by the arrival of the volumes still outstanding, a printed hand-list will be issued. For the present this is not feasible, and the following conspectus or table of contents is given in the hope that it may serve to give patrons of the Music Room a view of the scope and contents of the collection as planned, and to indicate in some measure the skill, care, experience and wisdom employed in its organization.

The Foreign Room

In order that readers of books in foreign languages might have the same privileges of inspection and examination as those now enjoyed by patrons of the Open Shelves, a series of alcoves has been set aside for the accommodation of groups of books in the various continental European tongues to the number of some 15,000 volumes. The limits of the space available make it impossible to transfer the entire foreign collection to the new quarters, but a division has been made by placing the most recent works on the new shelves in what will be known as the Foreign Room, and leaving the older works in their former location in the stacks where they may be called for as before. Thus, about one-fifth of all the German books, comprising the accessions of the past ten years, have been sent to the new room, and relatively similar allotments of French, Bohemian, Polish and Scandinavian books have been included. In other languages, with smaller collections, it has been possible to find room for all the books. In this latter division will be found the books in Italian, Spanish, Russian, Yiddish, Lettish, Lithuanian and Hungarian and Dutch.

The Foreign Room is situated on the fourth floor, southwest corner of the main building and immediately adjacent to the Music Room.

War News

Mayor Harrison is receiving, at frequent intervals, large bundles of German daily newspapers which are forwarded by the mayor of Berlin with the request that they be made accessible to the general public. These papers have therefore been placed on file in the reading room of the Public Library, where they may be freely consulted.

The Library is also receiving numerous pamphlets, broadsides and other publications from officials and organizations in the several countries now at war, embodying statements and arguments regarding their respective contentions and their views of the issues involved. These are not only important and valuable as documentary contributions to the literature of a great historic event, but are interesting indications of the importance placed by the nations themselves upon the current of American public opinion. These publications may be seen in the Civics Department.

Library Story Telling

In fourteen branches of the Public Library weekly story hours were held for children during the past year, covering periods of from eight to forty-nine weeks. A total of 30,453 children attended these story hours, the average attendance varying from twenty to one hundred and ninety-nine at one session. Classes of stories told include: animal stories, fairy tales, stories of noted people, myths, historical stories, holiday stories (i. e., the events commemorated by the various national holidays) and stories from the Iliad, Odyssey and other classic sources.

Thanksgiving Day

The circulating department of the Library will be closed on Thanksgiving Day, Thursday, November 26th. The reference and reading rooms will be open from 9:00 a. m. to 6:00 p. m. The hours in the branches on that day will be from two to six p. m.

The branch formerly located at 23rd street and Millard avenue, in the old Burlington station, and known as Lawndale Branch, has been transferred to more suitable and commodious quarters at 3527-29 W. 12th street, and the name changed to Douglas Park Branch.

Books Added to the Library

Books marked * do not circulate; those with the letter P are in the Art room, and those marked Doc. are in the Document department. *Ser. represents serials which do not circulate.

Package Libraries for the Study of Civics

In cooperation with a movement fostered by the Association of Commerce for the study of civics in the high schools, and similarly furthered by the Civics Extension Committee in the upper grades of the elementary schools, the Chicago Public Library has undertaken, as rapidly as the material can be obtained, to provide package libraries for use by those engaged in the work. These will consist principally of pamphlet material, magazine separates, brochures issued by clubs and other organizations, documentary publications issued by the federal, state and municipal governments, and other related material in printed and typewritten form, each package library dealing with one subject or main subdivision of a subject, selected or passed upon by a recognized authority. Large envelopes, expansive in design to accommodate a considerable collection of pamphlets of ordinary size, will be used to contain groups of related material, and the package libraries will be subject to call from school principals and social students and workers for periods varying according to need. If sent to schools, they will be retained there for reference by the pupils during the term when civics is being taught.

On some of the subjects, material is scarce and difficult to get. When possible, the package libraries will be duplicated, so that a number of high schools or eighth grades may be served at the same time along parallel lines.

It is expected that a number of the package libraries will be ready for circulation about the middle of January. Some of the topics on which material is now being gathered and grouped, include the following:

Public recreation (playgrounds, bathing beaches, dance halls).

Chicago beautiful plans.

Housing conditions in Chicago.

Woman suffrage.

Commission form of government and city manager plan.

Initiative and referendum.

Child welfare.

Each package library will be provided with a select bibliography of book material on the subject to be found in the library, call numbers of the books being noted for each title, as a matter of convenience.

Plans are also under way whereby similar aids may be provided for the study of Chicago—its beginnings, its industries, its public institutions, and its history. Tentatively, the following outline has been formulated, based largely on the suggestive topics selected for study by Principal Kent of the Eugene Field School:

The Glacial Period.

The Three Stages of "Lake Chicago."

That Which Underlies Chicago.

The French and English in the Chicago Region.

The Northwest Territory.

The Indians and the Chicago Region.

Fort Dearborn, The Massacre, War of 1812, etc.

Illinois as a Territory and State,—Capitals, etc.

Chicago in Historical Steps,—Annexation, etc.

The Illinois-Michigan Canal.

The "Fight for Life in Chicago."

The Sanitary District and Canal.

The Chief Lines of Industry:

Steel and Iron.

Manufacture of Agricultural Machinery.

The Packing Industry.

Elevator, Milling, etc. (The Empty Boat).

Electrical Goods (Hydro-Electric Power).

The Great Chicago Fire.

The World's Columbian Exposition.

Parks and Playgrounds.

Homes and Housing.

The Chicago City Government.

The Courts and Their Work.

Cook County,—Naming, Size, Area, Relation to Chicago, etc.

The Plan of "Chicago Beautiful."

Educational System and Institutions:

Illinois Institutions.

Cook County Institutions.

Chicago Institutions:

Museums, Libraries, Hospitals, Private Schools, Universities, Social Centers, Settlements, Historical Bodies, Civic Organizations, Philanthropic Organizations.

In a current issue of Chicago Commerce, the official organ of the Association of Commerce, the scope of the new movement is thus summarized:

"To organize branch Civic-Industrial committees in the high schools of Chicago leading to a first-hand study by students of the civic-industrial problems of the city and real work in making a portion of Chicago a better place in which to live and in which to labor—this is a new and interesting undertaking of the Civic-Industrial committee of the association."

"The plan provides that each High School Civic-Industrial club shall acquire intimate and accurate knowledge of Chicago, its industries and government; of the various businesses and professions appertaining thereto; and of the manufacturing, transportation and other business organizations that are associated with the industries of the city."

"It is planned to have such information disseminated through talks by prominent business and professional men; through industrial motion pictures; and through occasional excursions to typical Chicago industries."

"Each club is to lay out a program of civic and industrial work which shall engage its attention for one year and upon which an annual report shall be made. The reports from various schools are to be compared, given publicity when they deserve it, and possibly judged by competent individuals in order that a dignified trophy may be awarded to the school carrying out the best piece of constructive work."

"All the activities of the clubs are to harmonize with the ideas of the Civic-Industrial committee, in order that definite progress may be made."

"Before plans were completed, conferences occurred between the committee, Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, and principals from the various high schools, with the result that participating schools have taken up the work with much enthusiasm."

"In no sense does the Civic-Industrial committee intend to dictate to the clubs. Each club will be assisted in its organization, helped in planning its program, then 'turned loose' on the job."

"Twelve high schools have already enlisted in the work and it is expected that clubs will shortly be in operation in each of the institutions listed below:

Lane Technical.

Marshall.

Wendell Phillips.

Nicholas Senn.

Lake.

Harrison Technical.

Hyde Park.

Tuley.

George William Curtis.

Crane Technical.

Parker.

Austin.

Urgent Needs of the Library

Finding that the present revenues for library purposes are insufficient to provide the necessary number of branches, to purchase the required number of books and to maintain adequately all the departments of the Main Library, the Board of Directors will ask the Legislature for such relief as will enable the strengthening and legitimate expansion of the service. A folder has been issued in an edition of 10,000 copies, summarizing in condensed form the situation which faces the Library administration and showing by comparative tables the relatively meager resources at command. From this brochure, the following facts are taken:

With a population of approximately 2,400,000 and an area of 192 square miles to serve, the Chicago Public Library has the comparatively small sum of $370,000, for all purposes, an amount which cities one-fourth the area and one-fourth the population receive.

In five years the Library's work has increased 96 per cent and its revenues less than 15 per cent.

The Library owns only three branch buildings and possesses only 400,000 books for home circulation.

Fully one-third of Chicago's population remains unprovided with branch library facilities.

With the small amount of money available and its inadequate supply of books, the Library manages thirty-two branches, and the home circulation totals 4,000,000 issues.

On an average 20,000 persons use the Library system every day of the year.

These results have been made possible through the highest efficiency in all departments and by using all special funds, which are now exhausted.

If relief is not forthcoming the Library will be forced to close a number of its branches and several of its departments.

It is estimated that the inhabitants of Chicago now number 2,300,000. With its present equipment and facilities the Library can serve not more than 10 per cent of them. The maximum has practically been reached at this time:

Borrowers registered	160,000
Borrowers in schools	30,000
Borrowers at deposit stations...	25,000
Borrowers in industrial branches	20,000
Total	235,000

The remaining 2,065,000 persons who live in Chicago may be divided into the following groups of non-users:

Under 6 years of age.....	320,000
Illiterate	80,000
No time to read.....	300,000
No desire or opportunity to read.	500,000
No convenient library facilities.	865,000

The latter item represents the field which the Library, to carry out its larger purposes and fullest measure of usefulness, must develop as soon as means are provided for the purpose.

Chicago has the lowest per capita cost for library purposes of the ten largest cities, and ranks twenty-sixth in a list of the twenty-eight cities possessing a population of 100,000 or more. The figures for the ten largest cities follow:

Per Capita Expenditures for Library Purposes.

Pittsburgh	53 cents
Boston	51 "
Cleveland	45 "
Cincinnati	40 "
New York	33 "
Buffalo	32 "
St. Louis	31 "

Baltimore	16 "
Philadelphia	15 "
Chicago	15 "

Although the book collection is third largest of the public libraries of the United States, in proportion to number of inhabitants Chicago has fewer volumes than any one of the ten libraries located in the ten largest cities:

Books Per One Hundred Inhabitants.

Boston	148
Cleveland	82
Pittsburgh	72
Buffalo	71
Baltimore	54
St. Louis	51
Detroit	44
New York	42
Philadelphia	28
Chicago	24

With a total of 400,000 volumes available for circulation, there were 4,000,000 issues during the past year, an average issue of ten times for each volume. To supply present demands, the Library should have a million volumes for circulation.

In the last five years, the Library's share of city taxes collectible has decreased from 1.42 per cent to 1.26 per cent. On the other hand the Library's work has increased nearly 100 per cent during the same period, the increase in home circulation of books showing a gain of 95.7 per cent.

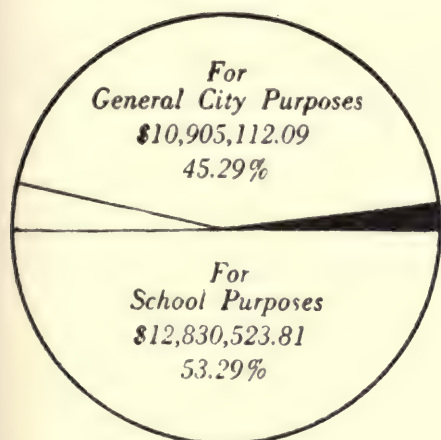

The rank of the Chicago Public Library among the libraries of the ten major cities is as follows:

Chicago's Library Rank Among Ten Largest Cities in the United States.

Population	2nd
Home use of books.....	2nd
Number of users.....	2nd
Number of volumes.....	3rd
Per capita cost.....	10th
Number of volumes per inhabitant.	10th
Number of branch buildings owned.	10th

Fiction

Ayscough, J. Gracechurch. 1913. F 10760

Gracechurch is the name of a little English village around which these short stories and sketches are written. Evidently based on personal recollections of the author, a Catholic clergyman.

Benson, R. H. Oddsfish! 1914. F 11066

A vivid and stirring historical novel of England during the "popish plot." The late Mgr. Benson's last and best story of English Catholics.

Blythe, S. G. The fakers. 1914. F 11271

A tale of sordid American "practical politics."

Brady, C. T. Britton of the Seventh; a romance of Custer and the great Northwest. 1914. F 11396

Cotes, S. J. D. "Mrs. Everard Cotes." His Royal Happiness. 1914. F 12152

A royal English prince, son of "King John," visits America, falls in love with a maiden named Hilary and emerges out of many complications into a happy ending.

Coulevain, P. de, pseud. The wonderful romance. 1914. F 12167

Cullum, R. The way of the strong. 1914. F 12250

Story, laid in Alaska and Canada, concerns the fortunes of a "wheat king," his long-lost son, and the boy's foster-mother. Not equal to some of this author's former work.

England, G. A. Darkness and dawn. 1914. F 12735

A thrilling, sensational story with a sociological undercurrent. Hero and heroine wake up in the distant future when New York is a crumbling ruin, and found a new civilization with the half-human savages inhabiting it.

Frankau, Mrs. J. Full swing, by Frank Danby, pseud. 1914. F 12962

Fraser, T. The call of the East; a romance of far Formosa. 1914. F 12960

Formosa during the Franco-Chinese war, 1884-85. Introduces the work of the medical missionaries. Charming descriptions of life in the Far East.

Gordon, C. W. The patrol of the Sun Dance trail, by Ralph Connor, pseud. 1914. F 13337

Sequel to the author's: Corporal Cameron of the North West Mounted Police. 1912. F 13386

Hannay, J. O. The lost tribes, by G. A. Birmingham, pseud. 1914. F 11188

Another one of this author's humorous stories of Irish life which are, judging from Library use, not in favor with the reading public.

Jacobs, W. W. Night watches. 1914. F 14315

Contents: Back to back.—Keeping watch.—The understudy.—The weaker vessel.—Stepping backwards.—The three sisters.—The unknown.—The vigil.—Easy money.—His other self.

Johnston, M. The witch. 1914. F 14389

A fine but somber piece of work based on the witchcraft mania in England in the 17th century.

Jordan, E. G. May Iverson's career. 1914. F 14422

Sequel to the author's: May Iverson—her book. 1904. H 4491. May Iverson tackles life. 1912. H 4492.

Lippmann, J. M. Martha and Cupid. 1914. F 14772

Short stories with "Martha-by-the-day" as their heroine.

Maeterlinck, Mme. G. L. The choice of life. 1914. F 14927

Martin, G. M. "Mrs. A. R. Martin." Selina; her hopeful efforts and her livelier failures. 1914. F 15144

Pleasant story of a young girl who tries to make her own way in the eighties, and the difficulties and prejudices she encountered.

Purdon, K. F. The folk of Furry farm; the romance of an Irish village. 1914. F 16693

Though the title suggests another nature book, this is really a delightful collection of dialect stories and sketches of Irish peasants.

Reeves, A. A lady and her husband. 1914. F 17030

A problem novel of a woman roused out of her comfortable complacency by a realization of social conditions among working girls.

Ryan, Mrs. M. E. M. The house of the dawn. 1914. F 17555

Snaith, J. C. Anne Feversham. 1914. F 18264

Good story of Elizabethan England, introducing Shakespeare. The heroine is an actress in "As You Like It."

Thomas, B. Picture tales from Welsh hills. 1913. F 18585

Contents: The madness of Winifred Owen.—The only girl.—The way he went.—An undesirable alien.—Comic objects of the country.—A house that was.—The courtship of Ragged Robin.—The castle of sleep.—Zebedee, a latter-day prophet.

Vance, L. J. The Lone Wolf; a melodrama. 1914. F 18734

"Another novel with an engaging thief as a hero."

Wason, R. A. Happy Hawkins in the Panhandle. 1914. F 19021

Wells, H. G. The wife of Sir Isaac Harman. 1914. F 19144

A bright, typical Wells story of a discontented wife, and her way out; with much clever characterization and social analysis but with a disappointingly prosaic ending.

- Williamson, C. N. and Williamson, A. M.
A soldier of the Legion. 1914. F 19551
A romantic tale of the usual Williamson quality. Hero an American soldier, in his search for the rightful heirress to his mother's fortune, reaches Africa and joins the Legion.

Departments

Rules and Information for Patrons

Any resident of Chicago, or any person residing in Cook County having permanent employment in the city, may enjoy the privileges of the Library by having a resident of the city, whose name must appear in the city directory, act as a guarantor. Upon application and compliance with the rules and regulations of the Board of Directors a card good for three years will be issued, which will permit the applicant to draw books for home use. In addition to a card thus issued, any registered reader may secure a Non-fiction card, which will permit the holder to draw one book, not a novel, in addition to a book issued on the regular card. Both cards may be used at the same time, enabling readers to secure two non-fiction books, or one book of fiction and one non-fiction.

Teachers are accorded special privileges upon application.

Books may be retained two weeks and may be once renewed for the same period. Books may be renewed but once. Books of recent purchase labeled Seven-day books cannot be transferred or renewed. The card must be presented whenever a book is taken out or renewed.

Books issued at Circulating Centers or Delivery Stations may be returned at the Main Library, but books cannot be applied for at the Main Library and delivered to Circulating Centers or Delivery Stations.

Any person of good deportment and habits may use the various Reading and Reference Rooms of the Library. No card is required to use the books on the open shelves or the books in the stacks, which must be applied for.

A change of residence should be reported to the Library immediately.

A card holder is responsible for all books drawn on the card, by whomsoever presented, and for all fines incurred. If a card is lost, immediate notice must be given to the Library. A new card will be issued thirty days after such notice.

A fine of three cents a day on each work is imposed, whether bound in one or more volumes, which is not returned within two weeks from the date of issue. An additional charge of two cents is made for each notice sent for the return of a book, and no other books will be delivered to the person incurring the fine until it is paid.

A card holder should also see that the call number is crossed off the order slip whenever a book is drawn.

Writing or marking in books is prohibited, and all injuries to books beyond reasonable wear, and all losses, must be promptly adjusted to the satisfaction of the Librarian.

Story Telling in the Branches

During the year 1914 "story hours" were held weekly in fifteen branches and one school. In the remaining seventeen branches it was not possible to conduct story telling, because there are no rooms there available for the purpose without disturbing library users. The total attendance was 18,515 children.
The stories told related to holidays, birthdays of noted people, fairy tales, Norse myths, stories of King Arthur, Beowulf, Robin Hood, Ulysses, Roland, Siegfried, Fairy Queene, and heroes of European countries.
Through the Chicago Woman's Club, whose Library Committee has worked in splendid cooperation with the Library authorities, courses in story telling and children's reading have been given by Mrs. Gudrun

Thorne-Thomsen and Miss Georgene Faulkner to the members of the Library staff who are working with children. As a result of this training, the number of story hours and of story-tellers has greatly increased in the last few years, and the interest in the knowledge of children's literature has been greatly augmented among members of the staff.
Story telling in libraries is done for the purpose of helping children to select good books to read. In a busy children's room it is not possible to tell each child enough about a book to make him desire to read that book. Therefore it is a necessary economy of time to tell large groups of children about the stories in good books. Stories are not told which children would ordinarily read of their own accord, but such as will introduce them to the literature of all ages, that will mean something to them all their lives long.

The story-teller easily wins the children's confidence because the children recognize that she loves the same heroes, and the tales that they love. With confidence, she is able as no one else, to guide their reading from day to day as they come to the library. For this reason, it has been deemed advisable to use members of the staff for story-telling as far as possible, instead of people not connected with the library.

Many mothers have asked the Library for assistance in choosing the best stories to be told or read to their children. For the aid of those who wish suggestions, the following list of books has been compiled. The groups are arranged in the order in which they will interest the children.

The ideal place for story-telling (when conditions are right) is the home. Miss Frances Jenkins Olcott, in her book on children's reading, says: "Companionship of parents and children, and mutual enjoyment of books are the foundation of successful guiding of children's reading. * * * At story-telling time a child's mind is open to the deepest impressions. His emotions may be swayed towards good or bad. His imagination is active, making a succession of mental pictures. Through story-telling, he may be taught the difference between right and wrong, and his mind may be stocked with beautiful images, and as soon as he can read, he may be given the books that contain the stories told, and be encouraged to read for himself."

Two Legal Holidays in February.

On Lincoln's birthday, Friday, Feb. 12th, and on Monday, Feb. 22d, Washington's birthday, the circulating department of the Main Library will be closed and the reference and reading rooms will be open from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m.

The branches will be open from 2 to 6 p. m.

Contents: The answer of Ludlow street.—Kin.—The wars of the Rileys.—Life's best gift.—Driven from home.—The problem of the widow Salvini.—Peter.—Kate's choice.—The mother's heaven.—Where he found his neighbor.—What the snowflake told.—The city's heart.—Chips from the maelstrom.—Heartsease.—His Christmas gift.—Our roof garden among the tenements.—The snow babies' Christmas.—As told by the rabbi.—The strand from above.

Jacob Riis' last book; true tales of the New York poor.

Roberts, M. Time and Thomas Waring; a study of a man. 1914. F 17376

Morley Roberts, though not a "popular" author, is held by many to be one of the most consummate literary artists among living English writers. The present story relates, with keen psychological analysis, the complete change in moral outlook and philosophy of a man after undergoing a dangerous surgical operation.

Stacpoole, H. de V. The presentation. 1914. F 18351

A clever historical novel with plenty of plot, based upon the presentation of Madame Du Barry at the French court.

Swinton, Col. E. D. Ole-Luk-Oie. The green curve and other stories. 1914. F 18496

Military tales first published some years ago without attracting much attention, but now regarded as striking and unusual. By the famous "Eyewitness" with the British army in France.

Tinseau, L. de. The decision. 1912. F 18627
Translation of: Les deux consciences.

Tracy, V. "Persons unknown." 1914. F 18696

Departments

Rules and Information for Patrons

Any resident of Chicago, or any person residing in Cook County having permanent employment in the city, may enjoy the privileges of the Library by having a resident of the city, whose name must appear in the city directory, act as a guarantor. Upon application and compliance with the rules and regulations of the Board of Directors a card good for three years will be issued, which will permit the applicant to draw books for home use. In addition to a card thus issued, any registered reader may secure a Non-fiction card, which will permit the holder to draw one book, not a novel, in addition to a book issued on the regular card. Both cards may be used at the same time, enabling readers to secure two non-fiction books, or one book of fiction and one non-fiction.

Teachers are accorded special privileges upon application.

Books may be retained two weeks and may be once renewed for the same period. Books may be renewed but once. Books of recent purchase labeled Seven-day books cannot be transferred or renewed. The card must be presented whenever a book is taken out or renewed.

Books issued at Circulating Centers or Delivery Stations may be returned at the Main Library, but books cannot be applied for at the Main Library and delivered to Circulating Centers or Delivery Stations.

Any person of good deportment and habits may use the various Reading and Reference Rooms of the Library. No card is required to use the books on the open shelves or the books in the stacks, which must be applied for.

A change of residence should be reported to the Library immediately.

A card holder is responsible for all books drawn on the card, by whomsoever presented, and for all fines incurred. If a card is lost, immediate notice must be given to the Library. A new card will be issued thirty days after such notice.

A fine of three cents a day on each work is imposed, whether bound in one or more volumes, which is not returned within two weeks from the date of issue. An additional charge of two cents is made for each notice sent for the return of a book, and no other books will be delivered to the person incurring the fine until it is paid.

A card holder should also see that the call number is crossed off the order slip whenever a book is drawn.

Writing or marking in books is prohibited, and all injuries to books beyond reasonable wear, and all losses, must be promptly adjusted to the satisfaction of the Librarian.

Made in Chicago

That Chicago is the center of industrial and technical periodical publications is an interesting fact brought out by the exhibit of "made in Chicago" magazines arranged by the Chicago Library Club at its recent meeting. Weeklies and monthlies devoted to all branches of industry, business, commerce, manufactures, agriculture, stockbreeding, gardening and many other subjects were brought together to the number of 326. Literary magazines made up the smallest group in the total; sociology, economics and kindred sciences were represented by a few titles, mainly publications of the universities; theology, religion, including a large number of denominational papers, made rather a better showing. The fine arts were not entirely unrepresented and political, neighborhood and social publications comprised a more numerous class. Much the largest portion of the exhibit, however, was made up of publications devoted to the trades and practical arts, and it is not unlikely that the number of these might be added to by further inquiry and search, so that a final total of 500 periodical publications emanating from Chicago is not beyond possibility.

The Chicago Library Club is a professional organization of persons connected with the various libraries of the city and vicinity, and to them the exhibit proved both instructive and astonishing. It was generally felt that the material assembled should be preserved and the club has, therefore, deposited the periodicals in this Library. Here it will have to remain as a deposit, merely, until space and time can be found—probably during the less crowded months of summer—when the exhibit will be reorganized and displayed for the inspection of the general public. At that time a complete list of the periodicals included will be issued, which should make an interesting and gratifying contribution to the literary history of Chicago.

Package Libraries on Local Topics

Sixty of the topics listed for study of local history, civics and industries are comprised in the series of package libraries which are now available. They are the following, call numbers being given for convenience of teachers and others desiring to use them: Packages on other related subjects can be assembled, so far as material is available, but requests for such packages should be made as far as possible in advance of the time when they are to be used.

Special Lists

Two special lists are included in this number of the Book Bulletin, one giving a list of interesting public documents, national, state, and city. This list is intended merely to indicate the great variety of subjects dealt with by government agencies, some of which publish results of first-hand investigations whose importance are not surpassed by any private enterprise. It should be noted, also, that most of the official publications are at the disposal of all citizens and can be purchased at cost or obtained free from the respective issuing offices.

The second list is a short and carefully made selection of books on business correspondence and business English.

This list will be reprinted in leaflet form for free distribution.

Business English and Business Correspondence

A selected list of recent books on the essentials of English grammar, spelling, composition, publication, etc., with special application to modern business practice and business correspondence.

Baker, Josephine Turck. Correct business letter writing and business English. 1911. L 11992

Special features are a complete alphabetical list of abbreviations and a list of compound words with rules on the use of the hyphen.

Banks, Eleonora. Correct business and legal forms. A reference manual for stenographers, secretaries and reporters. 1912. L 8389

Besides brief information on the usual points of business English, this book includes correct forms for court documents and legal papers, with explanations of law terms and foreign phrases.

Barrett, Charles R. Business English and correspondence; a practical treatise on the methods by which expert correspondents produce clear and forceful letters to meet modern business requirements. 1914. J 4653

Belding, Albert G. Commercial correspondence. 1905. L 8376

Buhlig, Rose. Business English. 1914. J 3244

To a very full treatment of the subjects usually covered in such works, this practical and up-to-date text book adds a section on the underlying principles of manufacture, distribution, advertising, real estate, insurance and banking.

Business correspondence. 1913. L 8231, 2

Some of the most interesting articles are on "The business-getting form letter," "Correspondence as an adjunct to the salesman," "Wholesaling by mail," "Interhouse and interdepartment correspondence," "Follow-up letters," "Filing," and "A system for handling correspondence."

Part of the "Business man's library" published by the System company. Library has five copies.

Cody, Sherwin. Dictionary of errors. 1905. J 4497

Lists and corrects errors frequently made in points of grammar, punctuation, spelling and use of words.

—English for business uses and commercial correspondence. 1914. J 4645

The most recent of Mr. Cody's books. The first half covers with greater fullness much the same ground as "Problems and principles of correct English."

—How to do business by letter and advertising. 1912. L 11965

An elaboration of "How to do business by letter," L 8371, with additional work on subjects of advertising, such as booklet making.

—Problems and principles of correct English. 1912. J 4651

This book, with two preceding, is designed "to develop a practical method of handling customers by written salesmanship."

Davis, Roy and Lingham, Clarence H. Business English and correspondence. 1914. J 4678

A comprehensive and up-to-date text-book. The appendix contains information concerning postal regulations, telegraphic messages, proof-reading, filing correspondence, and commercial terms.

Dwyer, Ion E. The business letter. 1914. L 11984

Concise and clear. Covers filing and gives very full postal information.

Grove, Glen A. One hundred lessons in English. A text book embracing the essentials of practical English for use in commercial schools, high schools and others desiring a short course. 1904. J 4508

Hagar, Hubert G. and SoRelle, R. P. Applied business English and applied business correspondence. 1914. J 4677

How to write letters that win. 1911. L 8380

Published by the System company, telling "how to build business by letters that command attention and bring orders; how to put the personal touch into a letter, handle inquiries, complaints and collections."

Lewis, Edwin H. Business English. 1911. L 11985

An excellent book for the advanced student, laying greatest emphasis on principles of composition. Its logical arrangement and effective style are the best illustrations of the principles stated by the author.

Business correspondence. 1914. L 11969, 7

Vol. 7 of the Library of business practice, pub. by the System company.

Among the articles in this book are "How to get salesmanship into your letters," "Working out a form letter series," "Tests that pick your strongest letters," "Building up retail trade by mail," "Mailing lists and the follow-up."

MacClintock, Porter Lander. Essentials of business English. 1914. J 4680

A very readable text-book, dealing in a easy and attractive style with grammatical correctness, punctuation, spelling, diction, arrangement, vocabulary, clearness, effectiveness, spoken English and business composition.

Poole, George W. and Buzzell, J. J., ed. Letters that make good. 1913. L 8400

Pt. I consists of a series of papers by business men on the principles of letter-writing and the organization of a correspondence department. Pt. II is composed of fac-similes of over three hundred letters "that have made good," contributed by business men, with notes and comments.

Smith, C. J. and Mayne, D. D. Modern business English. 1906. J 4679

The text-book at present in use in the Chicago public schools.

Stoll, Albert. Making the letter pay, by A. Peter Stowe, pseud. 1913. L 11988

Deals not only with form and content of the business letter, but covers as well methods of mail-order business, including matters of efficiency in distributing and mailing and the filing of correspondence.

A Rental Collection

Owing to a decrease in revenue, the Public Library is not able this year to purchase books in the usual quantities.

A Rental Collection has therefore been inaugurated which will serve the double purpose of taking some of the burden from the depleted book fund and of making it possible to come somewhat nearer to supplying the heavy demand for the new books, especially new fiction.

This Rental Collection will comprise quantities of copies of desirable new books, which will be loaned, or rented, for a fee of five cents for the first three days or any shorter period, and two cents per day thereafter, for each volume loaned.

Books from this collection may be retained for two weeks and must be renewed, like other Library books, if desired for a longer period.

The Rental Collection books are purchased from a loan fund, and as soon as the cost of any such book is defrayed from its rental fees, that book is transferred to the free shelves for general circulation.

The Rental Collection is therefore not a profit-making enterprise, but designed solely as a convenience and a benefit for such patrons as choose to avail themselves of it, without in any way curtailing the privileges or rights of other patrons of the Library.

Every book in the Rental Collection is duplicated in the free collection.

On the other hand, books in the Rental Collection will relieve the pressure on the free copies of which they are duplicates, and copies added to the free collection by transfer from the Rental Collection, after having paid for themselves, will help materially to meet the demand for popular books at the time when that demand is heaviest.

Purchase of the books from a loan fund, moreover, will relieve pressure on the scanty general book fund, making possible the purchase of books for which otherwise no funds would be available, or of more copies of books of permanent value which have proven their usefulness through constant and increasing demand.

In the Central Library the rental books will be found in the Open Shelf alcove and will be issued and returned in that department. Branch rental collections have been opened as follows: Blackstone, Lewis Institute, Ogden Park, Austin, Lincoln Center, Hiram Kelly and Sheridan. For location of the branches, see page 71 of this issue of the Book Bulletin.

The Picture Collection

During the year 1914 nearly 4,000 loans were recorded from the picture collection in the Thomas Hughes Room where pictures in great variety are being collected, mounted, classified and filed for their value as illustrative material particularly in connection with school work. The pictures are derived from many different sources; some are received as gifts from interested and grateful patrons, others are obtained from calendars and advertising posters, while many come as a sort of by-product of library work, being clipped from old magazines and discarded books. Practically the only expense for the collection is for mounting and filing. About 6,000 pieces have been mounted on 10 by 14 inch cardboard and nearly as many more are ready to be mounted when called for.

The demands for pictures are coming from unexpected sources. Not only are they used by teachers, kindergartners, story tellers, and librarians, but every week newspaper men, illustrators of magazines, leaders of women's clubs and missionary societies, and photographers come for material for illustrations for articles, lectures, costumes, designs and poses.

During the school year groups of geographical pictures are in greatest demand. Pictures of industries help to illustrate the lessons in the class room; pictures of animals enable the child to visualize the creatures about which he is reading. One teacher who has drawn heavily upon the collection declared that her class in geography had become the show class of the school because the pictures made the work a delight to her pupils, and they were thus able to make more intelligent recitations.

In story-telling the pictures play the important role of illustrating, in form and color, the legendary and mythological characters that the small listeners love. The rapid growth in the demand for pictures from this collection during the two years of its existence has amply proven its practical utility. Pictures are loaned on any regular borrower's card and will be issued in addition to books charged to the same card. They may be had singly or in groups and by subjects. They are filed in large vertical file cases so that patrons may examine them and make selections to suit their needs.

Some of the subjects represented are:

Current Legislation

Library patrons interested in proposed legislation at Springfield will find copies of all bills and resolutions introduced in the Senate and House on file in the Civics Room, where they are being received as soon as printed. The official journals of both houses are also on file, so that authentic information is available on all matters under consideration by the present General Assembly. The bills are indexed by title, subject and name of introducer, so that they can be readily placed at the service of investigators.

Rules and Information for Patrons

Any resident of Chicago, or any person residing in Cook County having permanent employment in the city, may enjoy the privileges of the Library by having a resident of the city, whose name must appear in the city directory, act as a guarantor. Upon application and compliance with the rules and regulations of the Board of Directors a card good for three years will be issued, which will permit the applicant to draw books for home use. In addition to a card thus issued, any registered reader may secure a Non-fiction card, which will permit the holder to draw one book, not a novel, in addition to a book issued on the regular card. Both cards may be used at the same time, enabling readers to secure two non-fiction books, or one book of fiction and one non-fiction.

Teachers are accorded special privileges upon application.

Books may be retained two weeks and may be once renewed for the same period. Books may be renewed but once. Books of recent purchase labeled Seven-day books cannot be transferred or renewed. The card must be presented whenever a book is taken out or renewed.

Books issued at Circulating Centers or Delivery Stations may be returned at the Main Library, but books cannot be applied for at the Main Library and delivered to Circulating Centers or Delivery Stations.

Any person of good deportment and habits may use the various Reading and Reference Rooms of the Library. No card is required to use the books on the open shelves or the books in the stacks, which must be applied for.

A change of residence should be reported to the Library immediately.

A card holder is responsible for all books drawn on the card, by whomsoever presented, and for all fines incurred. If a card is lost, immediate notice must be given to the Library. A new card will be issued thirty days after such notice.

A fine of three cents a day on each work is imposed, whether bound in one or more volumes, which is not returned within two weeks from the date of issue. An additional charge of two cents is made for each notice sent for the return of a book, and no other books will be delivered to the person incurring the fine until it is paid.

A card holder should also see that the call number is crossed off the order slip whenever a book is drawn.

Writing or marking in books is prohibited, and all injuries to books beyond reasonable wear, and all losses, must be promptly adjusted to the satisfaction of the Librarian.

The Library Service

Employees of the Library, Character of the Service, and How the Positions Are Filled.

I

Including all classes of service, the number of persons employed by the Chicago Public Library system is 358. Of these 286 are engaged in library and clerical service, and the remaining 72 comprise the engineers, caretakers, window washers, marble cleaners, automobile drivers, elevator operators and coat room attendants.

Every position in the Library, from page to chief librarian, is under the civil service law, and there are no places in any department which are not subject, as to entrance and promotion, to the regulations prescribed by the Chicago Civil Service Commission. The labor and engineering service is controlled in the same manner as are other positions of like character in other municipal branches of work. What may be termed the professional division of the service is similarly amenable to general civil service regulations, which are, however, modified or supplemented by rules bearing on the specialized work required.

II

The 286 employees embraced in the class above described perform their duties under the general direction of a Board of Directors of nine non-salaried members, appointed by the mayor for terms of three years each—three annually. The staff is grouped as follows:

Executive officers.....	3
Division chiefs.....	12
Head assistants.....	7
Principal assistants.....	21
Senior assistants.....	68
Junior assistants.....	79
Messengers and pages.....	85
Miscellaneous positions.....	11

According to the regulations adopted by the Board of Directors, and approved by the Civil Service Commission, the classification of positions and schedules of classes, with grades and limits of compensation, are prescribed as follows for the library service:

Grade I—Junior library assistant.

Positions, the duties of which require some skill and accuracy, and a general training, but not necessarily much experience and involving responsibility.

Group D.....	$480
Group C (after 1 year's service)	540
Group B (after 2 years' service)	600
Group A (after 3 years' service)	660

Grade II—Senior branch librarian, senior cataloger, senior library assistant.

Positions, the duties of which require training, experience and ability; which may or may not be supervisory, and which involve a higher degree of responsibility than Grade I positions.

Group E.....	$720
Group D (after 1 year's service)	780
Group C (after 2 years' service)	840
Group B (after 3 years' service)	900
Group A (after 4 years' service)	960

Grade III—Principal branch librarian, principal cataloger, principal library assistant.

Positions, the duties of which are supervisory, involving accountability for the work of others. Also positions which require the exercise of independent judgment in the performance of specialized or expert duties, but not necessarily supervisory.

Group D.....	$1,020
Group C (after 1 year's service)	1,080
Group B (after 2 years' service)	1,140
Group A (after 3 years' service)	1,200

Grade IV—Head branch librarian, head library assistant, supervisor of special deposits, assistant statistician.

Positions, the duties of which are supervisory, involving accountability for the work of others in a larger branch or section than in the case of Grade III positions. Also positions the duties of which require a higher order of specialized knowledge than in the case of Grade III positions, but not necessarily supervisory.

Group D.....	$1,260
Group C (after 1 year's service)	1,320

Group B (after 2 years' service) 1,380

Group A (after 3 years' service) 1,440

Grade V—Division chief, medical librarian, city statistician, school statistician.

Positions, the duties of which are administrative, requiring special qualifications and recognized expert knowledge and involving responsibility for the work of an entire bureau or division.

Group A.....$1,500-$2,400

Grade VI—Librarian, assistant librarian.

Positions, the duties of which are executive and administrative, involving responsibility for the work of an entire department and requiring the highest order of expert knowledge in technical library methods.

The page and messenger service belong in the class known as Clerical Service, which is graded as follows:

Grade I—Page, office attendant.

Positions, the duties of which are of general routine.

Group D.....	$300
Group C (after three months' service in lower group).....	360
Group B (after six months' service in next lower group)	420
Group A (after one year's service in next lower group).....	480

Grade II—Messenger, multigraph operator, stenographic assistant.

Positions, the duties of which require some skill and accuracy but not necessarily much practical experience, involving simple office routine.

Group D.....	$540
Group C (after 1 year's service)	600
Group B (after 2 years' service)	660

III

Promotions from one group to the next higher group are annual, and are automatic—but subject to an efficiency rating of not less than 80 per cent. Efficiency marks are filed monthly by division chiefs for all employees under their respective jurisdictions, and are based on the following general plan:

Highest efficiency represented by 90.

Absolute deficiency represented by 0.

Average efficiency represented by 80.

In marking, 70 is equivalent to poor; 75, fair; 80, good; 85, very good; 90, excellent. Below 70 means work so unsatisfactory as to warrant separation from the service. For the purpose of arriving at efficiency ratings, efficiency is divided into four elements: Promptness, accuracy, Deportment and Industry.

Lapses from Highest Efficiency may be of two kinds:

1. Violations of specific published laws and regulations.

2. Errors of judgment.

Culpable errors of judgment are those which may result in (a) loss or damage of library property; (b) inconvenience or dissatisfaction to patrons; (c) impairment of the dignity of the library, or the good of the service.

Promotions from one grade to the next higher grade are made from eligible lists resulting from examinations conducted by the Civil Service Commission.

Examinations, both original entrance and promotive, are held when eligible lists are exhausted, and thus occur at irregular intervals. For employees who seek promotion from one grade to the next higher grade, the factors are the following:

Duties	Weight of 5
Educational (penmanship)
.....	Weight of 1
Report	Weight of 1
Efficiency	Weight of 2
Seniority	Weight of 1

The factors which determine original entrance examinations are:

Special subject	Weight of 5
Educational (penmanship)
.....	Weight of 1
Experience	Weight of 3
Report	Weight of 1

The educational test takes into account the following factors:

1. Educational training, with the following maximum credits:

a Common school	30
b High school	30
c College	15

2. Experience and special training 25 |

Total 100

The latter may comprise: (a) as librarian or full course in approved library school; (b) course in the Chicago Public Library training class, or other library training class of approved standing; (c) research work, or post-graduate work equivalent in value to above.

VI

There are two ways for a Chicago young woman to prepare herself to enter in the Chicago Public Library service. She may enter the Training Class of the Chicago Public Library, or she may go to a regular library school. In either case the first essential for entrance is a complete high school course, or its equivalent. If she can afford a college course or part of it, she will be better equipped for advancement.

Her high school course should include all the literature and history that is given, at least one year of German and one of French and she should make every effort to do all the supplementary reading that is possible.

In planning a high school course, with library work in view, the general course should be followed as outlined in the course of study for the high schools of Chicago, published by the Board of Education. In the second year it is advisable to substitute ancient history for geometry. In the third and fourth years the language and history courses should be preferred to the courses in science. History and Civics should be substituted for one foreign language. Courses in languages should be equally divided between French and German.

The Chicago Public Library prefers to accept young women between the ages of twenty and thirty-five. Those wishing to enter the Training Class must pass an entrance examination in history, literature and general information. To prepare for the entrance examination, a candidate should keep herself informed on current events, and should review a good book on general history, and a general suggestions regarding reading will be given by the director of the Training Class at the Public Library.

The entrance examination for the fall of 1915 will be given September 2. Applications should be filed not later than August 20.

Not all who successfully pass the examination are admitted to the Training Class. Personality, bearing, appearance, manners, advanced education, experience in teaching and other occupations are considered.

During the period of eight months in the Training Class, the student receives no salary, neither is she under any expense, except for lunches and car fare. At the end of this time she must pass a civil service examination on such studies as are followed in the class. This examination must be taken before one can obtain a position in the library.

If a young woman can afford to do so, it is to her advantage to go to a regular library school where the methods used in many libraries are taught, instead of those used in one library only, as is essential in a training class.

Courses in library schools cover from one to two years. The tuition varies from seventy-five dollars to one hundred dollars a year.

Following is a list of library schools in the United States, as published by the American Library Association:

New York State Library School, Albany, N. Y. A college degree is required for entrance.

Pratt Institute School of Library Science, Brooklyn, N. Y.

University of Illinois Library School, Urbana, Ill. A college degree is required for entrance.

Syracuse University Library School, Syracuse, N. Y.

Training School for Children's Librarians, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Simmons College of Library Science, Boston, Mass.

Western Reserve Library School, Cleveland, Ohio.

Library Training School, Carnegie Library of Atlanta, Ga.

Wisconsin Library School, Madison, Wis.

Library School of New York Public Library, New York City, N. Y.

Rules and Information for Patrons

Any resident of Chicago, or any person residing in Cook County having permanent employment in the city, may enjoy the privileges of the Library by having a resident of the city, whose name must appear in the city directory, act as a guarantor. Upon application and compliance with the rules and regulations of the Board of Directors a card good for three years will be issued, which will permit the applicant to draw books for home use. In addition to a card thus issued, any registered reader may secure a Non-fiction card, which will permit the holder to draw one book, not a novel, in addition to a book issued on the regular card. Both cards may be used at the same time, enabling readers to secure two non-fiction books, or one book of fiction and one non-fiction.

Teachers are accorded special privileges upon application.

Books may be retained two weeks and may be once renewed for the same period. Books may be renewed but once. Books of recent purchase labeled Seven-day books cannot be transferred or renewed. The card must be presented whenever a book is taken out or renewed.

Books issued at Circulating Centers or Delivery Stations may be returned at the Main Library, but books cannot be applied for at the Main Library and delivered to Circulating Centers or Delivery Stations.

Any person of good deportment and habits may use the various Reading and Reference Rooms of the Library. No card is required to use the books on the open shelves or the books in the stacks, which must be applied for.

A change of residence should be reported to the Library immediately.

A card holder is responsible for all books drawn on the card, by whomsoever presented, and for all fines incurred. If a card is lost, immediate notice must be given to the Library. A new card will be issued thirty days after such notice.

A fine of three cents a day on each work is imposed, whether bound in one or more volumes, which is not returned within two weeks from the date of issue. An additional charge of two cents is made for each notice sent for the return of a book, and no other books will be delivered to the person incurring the fine until it is paid.

A card holder should also see that the call number is crossed off the order slip whenever a book is drawn.

Writing or marking in books is prohibited, and all injuries to books beyond reasonable wear, and all losses, must be promptly adjusted to the satisfaction of the Librarian.

Vacation and Summer Cards

Beginning June 1st, and available until September 1st, the Chicago Public Library will issue a Vacation Card to any registered reader who makes personal application therefor at the Main Library or at any of the thirty-two branches maintained by the Library Board. The privileges represented by this card, which is intended primarily for readers who expect to spend a prolonged period on vacation trips outside the city, entitle the holder to the use of ten books at one time (not more than half of which may be novels), for such time prior to the expiration of the limit as may be required. No renewal is necessary within such period, but the books must be returned before the final limit set by the regulations covering their use.

In order that residents of Chicago who are unable to leave their daily work for the country, or otherwise find it impossible or inconvenient to spend their vacations elsewhere, may enjoy to the fullest extent the resources of the Library with the least inconvenience in the procurement of the books from the Main Library or its branches, arrangements have been made as in former years to issue to those who apply in person for such privilege the use of what is to be known as a Summer Card. On this card there may be drawn at one time not to exceed five books in any department of literature, whether fiction or non-fiction, and these may be retained one full calendar month without the customary renewal feature after having had the book two weeks. As this new feature of ready use of books with the least attachment of red tape promises to be popular, and as the consequent use of these cards will probably be considerable, a special attendant will be provided at the Information Desk to respond to such demands as may come from this source. The books obtained on this card, inasmuch as they may be retained the full calendar month, may not be renewed and in justice to other patrons seven-day books will not be given out on the Summer Card.

These special privileges are limited to the less busy seasons in the Library, as it would not be possible to extend the duration of the period to the winter months for lack of a sufficient number of books to meet the demand at that time. The largest circulation, as shown by an experience of forty years, is recorded during the months of December, January, February and March, while less reading appears to be done during July and August than at any other season of the year.

The Busy Season

The "peak of the load" of library activity each year is reached in the month of February, and always on a Saturday between Lincoln's and Washington's birthday. This year it fell on February 13th, when the total home circulation of the books from the Central Library, inclusive of delivery stations, was 9,005 volumes as against 7,393 on the corresponding Saturday of 1914. The total number of issues for the month of February, 1915, twenty-two working days, was, Central Library, 137,201; Branches, 203,555, a total of 340,756 and a daily average of 15,489 for the entire system.

The first of September would make a good starting point for a wave line record of the library year. With the end of vacations, the resumption of the schools, of club, study circle, and kindred activities, and the approach of long winter evenings, the line of library use begins a gradual but uniform climb which continues until the middle of December when a sharp dip occurs, due to the distractions of holiday preparations. The rise begins again shortly after New Year's Day, not to be interrupted now until the peak is reached in February. Then a slight wavering is recorded; a small drop when a few balmy days give premature promise of spring, followed by an abrupt upward sweep when a March blizzard compels a return to winter habits.

By the first day of April the downward trend has fairly set in. The return to level ground is accomplished more slowly and by easier gradations than marked the ascent, but by the latter days of June, the close of the school year, the foothills have been left behind and the lowest point of the year is not more than two or three weeks away. From the middle of July to the beginning of September the line remains almost horizontal. Slight zig-zags indicate the Saturday rush hour when the workers enjoying half holidays drop in for books to help beguile the week-end. But this is the season when library activity is at its low level, when staff vacations go into effect and when time can be devoted to repairing and replenishing in preparation for the opening of a new period of ever-increasing activity in September.

The Book Bulletin is not issued in July and August. The next number will appear about September 10th.

Legal Holidays

Two legal holidays occurring in the interim before the next issue of the Bulletin give rise to the following announcement:

Independence Day, July 4th, falls on Sunday and the following day, Monday, July 5th, has been designated as the legal holiday. On that day all departments and all branches of the Library will be closed all day.

On Labor Day, Monday, September 6th, the reference and reading rooms will be open from 9 a. m. until 6 p. m., the circulating department in the main building being closed. The branches will be open from 2 to 6 on that day.

During July and August all of the branch libraries will remain closed all day on Sundays.

Departments

Rules and Information for Patrons

Any resident of Chicago, or any person residing in Cook County having permanent employment in the city, may enjoy the privileges of the Library by having a resident of the city, whose name must appear in the city directory, act as a guarantor. Upon application and compliance with the rules and regulations of the Board of Directors a card good for three years will be issued, which will permit the applicant to draw books for home use. In addition to a card thus issued, any registered reader may secure a Non-fiction card, which will permit the holder to draw one book, not a novel, in addition to a book issued on the regular card. Both cards may be used at the same time, enabling readers to secure two non-fiction books, or one book of fiction and one non-fiction.

Teachers are accorded special privileges upon application.

Books may be retained two weeks and may be once renewed for the same period. Books may be renewed but once. Books of recent purchase labeled Seven-day books cannot be transferred or renewed. The card must be presented whenever a book is taken out or renewed.

Books issued at Circulating Centers or Delivery Stations may be returned at the Main Library, but books cannot be applied for at the Main Library and delivered to Circulating Centers or Delivery Stations.

Any person of good deportment and habits may use the various Reading and Reference Rooms of the Library. No card is required to use the books on the open shelves or the books in the stacks, which must be applied for.

A change of residence should be reported to the Library immediately.

A card holder is responsible for all books drawn on the card, by whomsoever presented, and for all fines incurred. If a card is lost, immediate notice must be given to the Library. A new card will be issued thirty days after such notice.

A fine of three cents a day on each work is imposed, whether bound in one or more volumes, which is not returned within two weeks from the date of issue. An additional charge of two cents is made for each notice sent for the return of a book, and no other books will be delivered to the person incurring the fine until it is paid.

A card holder should also see that the call number is crossed off the order slip whenever a book is drawn.

Writing or marking in books is prohibited, and all injuries to books beyond reasonable wear and all losses must be promptly adjusted to the satisfaction of the Librarian.

Choosing the Twenty-Fifth Book

Widespread interest in reading for boys has been inspired by the publication in the Chicago daily press of a list of twenty-four titles compiled in response to a request for a list of twenty-five books suitable for boys. The compiler left the title of the twenty-fifth book unnamed "because finality of choice would leave many cherished volumes out of the list of preferences."

Twenty-four of the twenty-five books making up the list comprise the following titles:

- Mother Goose Rhymes.
- Andersen's Fairy Tales.
- Aladdin and the Wonderful Lamp.
- Perrault's Tales.
- Pied Piper of Hamelin.
- Rip Van Winkle.
- Don Quixote.
- Boutet de Monvel's Joan of Arc.
- Hale's Man Without a Country.
- Sir Thomas Malory's King Arthur Stories.
- The Bible.

- Jungle Book (Kipling).
- Tom Brown's School Days.
- Pyle's Men of Iron.
- Robinson Crusoe.
- Treasure Island.
- Franklin's Autobiography.
- Hiawatha.
- Tom Sawyer.
- Oliver Twist.
- Lamb's Tales From Shakespeare.
- Swiss Family Robinson.
- Alcott's Little Women.
- Ivanhoe.

"Were boyhood days to come back," added the compiler, "and were it permitted to gather a shelf of twenty-five books in the light of present day experience and reflection, these are twenty-four that I would be glad to own, to read, and to treasure.

"Immersed in these, there would develop an understanding of what is best in life, making for courage, fidelity, fortitude, honesty, humane conduct, tolerance, patience, sacrifice and perseverance, and assuring that savor which life yields when it is given the great gifts of imagination, humor and artistic perception."

Prompted by the interest which the publication has created, the Chicago Tribune has invited its readers to name the missing title, asking "What book did he leave out? Address the Twenty-fifth Book Editor, The Tribune, Chicago."

Featuring a contest based on the twenty-fifth title, the Chicago American has offered three prizes for the three best answers giving reasons for the choice. The first prize offered is a set of the twenty-four books named above, plus the title named in the winning essay; second prize, ten books selected from the above list of titles; third prize, five books so chosen.

In the Herald's issue of August 27 appeared an interesting and suggestive editorial comment, substantially as follows:

THE TWENTY-FIFTH BOOK.

The Librarian of the Chicago Public Library is a discreet man. Twenty-four out of twenty-five books "that all boys should read," he ventures to name. At the last he sagaciously hesitates lest injury be done "to many cherished volumes."

Well may he pause in even so engaging a task as this of raking over the pleasant memories of childhood and youth. The twenty-five books that all boys should read! What a host of recollections does such a sentence call forth. What temerity would be needed to pronounce upon the twenty-fifth! A veritable army would arise to defend the good name of the old favorites culled from all the literatures.

The librarian was frankly personal in his selection and because he followed his own good taste his list is hard to assail. Other friends of youth would elect from their own past pleasures other volumes which were not included in the sacred twenty-four until shelves much more spacious than that designed for President Elliot's five-foot library would be necessary to contain the treasures. Uncle Remus would demand a home for "Brer Rabbit, Mis' Meadows and de Gals," and surely none of those millions of boys who were nurtured under the spell of the old negro's tales would say him nay.

Then Alice would skip lightly up from her place in Wonderland. Who would have the heart to exclude gentle Alice and the Mad Hatter and the Queen of Hearts? Or if the breezy Mr. Midshipman Easy walked up smartly, cap in hand, could any boy be sober enough to refuse hospitality? Uncas, the Last of the Mohicans, would appear coming quietly out of his pristine forest, strong and as noble as the upright trees so familiar to him. Uncas could not be gaine-said.

To those of the older generation the wise old slave Aesop would announce himself with his unforgettable fables. What boy could do without Aesop? Gulliver's marvelous Travels are not to be dispensed with if boyhood's imagination is to be rich and fruitful. "The Three Musketeers" purvey romance and adventure too thrilling for oblivion. "Westward Ho," "Scottish Chiefs," "Two Years Before the Mast"—the list grows prodigiously like Jack's beanstalk. Wisely, indeed, did the librarian surrender to doubt. Many cherished volumes spurned, might have proved his undoing.

A Circulating Document Collection

A collection of Circulating Documents has been in use since April 1st, and numbers about 1,000 titles, with almost daily additions of new and fresh material.

This collection is an adjunct to the regular reference document set in the Civics and Documents Department, and is made up of duplicates received from time to time, and prepared for convenient handling.

The volumes are issued from that department on the regular borrowers' cards, and may be kept for a period of two weeks and renewed for two more.

Among the many topics represented are the following, chosen at random:

Arbor Day.	Marketing.
Birds.	Military instruction.
Canning clubs.	Mound builders.
Chicago government.	National parks.
Child welfare.	Nature study.
Civics courses for schools.	Occupational diseases.
Cook County government.	Panama Canal.
Cookery.	Parent-teacher Associations.
Crime.	Parks and playgrounds.
Farm business.	Population.
Fire prevention.	Poultry.
Foods and their preparation.	Public health.
Foot-and-mouth disease	Radiotelegraphy.
Forestry.	Recreation.
	Rural credit.
	School gardens.

Rules and Information for Patrons

Any resident of Chicago, or any person residing in Cook County having permanent employment in the city, may enjoy the privileges of the Library by having a resident of the city, whose name must appear in the city directory, act as a guarantor. Upon application and compliance with the rules and regulations of the Board of Directors a card good for three years will be issued, which will permit the applicant to draw books for home use. In addition to a card thus issued, any registered reader may secure a Non-fiction card, which will permit the holder to draw one book, not a novel, in addition to a book issued on the regular card. Both cards may be used at the same time, enabling readers to secure two non-fiction books, or one book of fiction and one non-fiction.

Teachers are accorded special privileges upon application.

Books may be retained two weeks and may be once renewed for the same period. Books may be renewed but once. Books of recent purchase labeled Seven-day books cannot be transferred or renewed. The card must be presented whenever a book is taken out or renewed.

Books issued at Circulating Centers or Delivery Stations may be returned at the Main Library, but books cannot be applied for at the Main Library and delivered to Circulating Centers or Delivery Stations.

Any person of good deportment and habits may use the various Reading and Reference Rooms of the Library. No card is required to use the books on the open shelves or the books in the stacks, which must be applied for.

A change of residence should be reported to the Library immediately.

A card holder is responsible for all books drawn on the card, by whomsoever presented, and for all fines incurred. If a card is lost, immediate notice must be given to the Library. A new card will be issued thirty days after such notice.

A fine of three cents a day on each work is imposed, whether bound in one or more volumes, which is not returned within two weeks from the date of issue. An additional charge of two cents is made for each notice sent for the return of a book, and no other books will be delivered to the person incurring the fine until it is paid.

A card holder should also see that the call number is crossed off the order slip whenever a book is drawn.

Writing or marking in books is prohibited, and all injuries to books beyond reasonable wear and all losses must be promptly adjusted to the satisfaction of the Librarian.

William Shakespeare

The tercentenary of the death of Shakespeare will be observed in various ways throughout the world. Especially in America, not preoccupied by a great war, the celebration will be general and will be carried out in many ways. Performances of the plays, pageants, school celebrations, lectures and festivals will mark the recurrence of the date on which the myriad mind was stilled. Material will be sought for study and preparation. Works on contemporary England, biographies of Shakespeare, costume books and books about pageantry will be in great demand in the libraries. Partly for this reason and partly, also, as its contribution to the tercentenary, this Library begins herewith the publication of a catalog of its Shakespeare literature, which happens to be unusually extensive and remarkably interesting. Beginning with a list of editions, of the collected works, it is proposed to publish, in monthly installments, the complete bibliographical record of the works by and about Shakespeare now in this Library. The fact that the first section comprises sixty-one editions of the complete works—fifty-one in English and the rest in seven foreign languages—will indicate to some extent the scope and magnitude of this collection. While there are no copies of the pricelessly rare original folios, there are carefully executed facsimiles which serve the student quite as well, and are of great interest to the amateur. Every important modern edition is included, from Malone's, dating back to the eighteenth century, and Steevens', with the famous Boydell plates, to the "Ben Greet Shakespeare for young readers," and Clark and Wright's edition of 1914. It is expected that the following list, which, when completed, will be issued in pamphlet form, will be acceptable as an aid in preparing for next year's observances, and, at the same time, prove a worthy contribution to American Shakespearian bibliography.

Rules and Information for Patrons

Any resident of Chicago, or any person residing in Cook County having permanent employment in the city, may enjoy the privileges of the Library by having a resident of the city, whose name must appear in the city directory, act as a guarantor. Upon application and compliance with the rules and regulations of the Board of Directors a card good for three years will be issued, which will permit the applicant to draw books for home use. In addition to a card thus issued, any registered reader may secure a Non-fiction card, which will permit the holder to draw one book, not a novel, in addition to a book issued on the regular card. Both cards may be used at the same time, enabling readers to secure two non-fiction books, or one book of fiction and one non-fiction.

Teachers are accorded special privileges upon application.

Books may be retained two weeks and may be once renewed for the same period. Books may be renewed but once. Books of recent purchase labeled even-day books cannot be transferred or renewed. The card must be presented whenever a book is taken out or renewed.

Books issued at Circulating Centers or Delivery Stations may be returned at the Main Library, but books cannot be applied for at the Main Library and delivered to Circulating Centers or Delivery Stations.

Any person of good deportment and habits may use the various Reading and Reference Rooms of the Library. No card is required to use the books on the open shelves or the books in the stacks, which must be applied for.

A change of residence should be reported to the Library immediately.

A card holder is responsible for all books drawn on the card, by whomsoever presented, and for all fines incurred. If a card is lost, immediate notice must be given to the Library. A new card will be issued thirty days after such notice.

A fine of three cents a day on each work is imposed, whether bound in one or more volumes, which is not returned within two weeks from the date of issue. An additional charge of two cents is made for each notice sent for the return of a book, and no other books will be delivered to the person incurring the fine until it is paid.

A card holder should also see that the call number is crossed off the order slip whenever a book is drawn.

Writing or marking in books is prohibited, and all injuries to books beyond reasonable wear and all losses must be promptly adjusted to the satisfaction of the Librarian.

Books for Boys and Girls

Responding to widespread demands from fathers, mothers and teachers desiring to secure approved lists of books for boys and girls of various ages, the Chicago Public Library has in contemplation and in partial preparation a series of brief lists suggestive for gifts to children of various ages and covering numerous lines of interest, such as outdoor life, sports, humor, adventure, "making things," fairy tales, etc. It is hoped to begin the issue of these brochures early in the coming year, and to make them available for distribution through the central library and all of its branches.

The result of the contest conducted by the Examiner for the best reasons given for the selection of a twenty-fifth title to be added to the list of books for boys compiled by the Librarian of the Chicago Public Library, resulted in the selection of a letter written by Miss Frances Marian Pat-ten of Gary, Indiana, advocating John Halifax, Gentleman. The prize was a set of the twenty-four books contained in the original list, together with the twenty-fifth title advocated by the writer of the essay. The second prize was awarded to Uriel Buchanan, 764 Oakwood boulevard, for reasons favoring Aesop's Fables. The third prize was awarded an eleven-year-old girl, Charlotte S. Acheson, who wrote in favor of Hans Brinker. Many hundreds of letters were examined by the judges in determining the choice. Several of the best letters were discarded because their writers had exceeded the limit of one hundred words specified. Judged by the selections made by the participants in this contest, the most popular titles included the following:

Pilgrim's Progress.

Hans Brinker.

Black Beauty.
 Last of the Mohicans.
 Aesop's Fables.
 Life of Lincoln.
 David Copperfield.
 Les Miserables.
 Uncle Tom's Cabin.
 Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea.
 Silas Marner.
 Prince and Pauper.
 Huckleberry Finn.
 Freckles.

The result of the Tribune's voting contest for the twenty-fifth title resulted in more than twelve thousand responses by mail. The titles which received more than five hundred votes each included the following:

Black Beauty	1,153
Pilgrim's Progress	1,094
Prince and Pauper	1,057
Ben Hur	945
Little Lord Fauntleroy.....	938
Hans Brinker	827
Story of a Bad Boy.....	826
Beautiful Joe	724
Cadet Days	721
Huckleberry Finn	619

As a result of the remarkable interest shown by readers of the Tribune in the contest conducted for the twenty-fifth title to be added to the list of books for boys, that newspaper followed the conclusion of this contest with a similar one representing books for girls. The original twenty-four books for this list of twenty-five was compiled by Miss Pearl I. Field, and comprised the following suggestions:

Mother Goose Rhymes.
 Perrault, Tales of Mother Goose.
 Andersen's Fairy Tales.
 Grimm's Fairy Tales.
 Alcott's Little Women.
 Browning, Pied Piper of Hamelin.
 Defoe, Robinson Crusoe.
 Dodge, Hans Brinker.
 Dodgson, Alice's Adventures in Wonderland.

 Irving, Rip Van Winkle.
 Wyss, Swiss Family Robinson.
 Clemens, Prince and Pauper.
 Wiggin, Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm.
 Boutet de Monvel, Joan of Arc.
 Dickens, David Copperfield.
 Blackmore, Lorna Doone.
 Scott, Kenilworth.
 Barrie, Little Minister.
 Longfellow, Evangeline.
 Tennyson, Idylls of the King.
 Jackson, H. H., Ramona.
 Eliot, Mill on the Floss.
 Lamb, Tales from Shakespeare.
 Bronte, Jane Eyre.

Appended to this list the following reasons were given for their inclusion:

"As the list is arranged, it is supposed to conform in a general way to the age of the girls. For example, the Mother Goose Rhymes come first. Then there is Rip Van Winkle and Alice in Wonderland; and after that, when the girls are about fifteen, they read Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm. Later come the love stories, such as Ramona."

"You will notice that there are a number of boys' books included in the list. Girls read, and should read, boys' books. Writers of girls' books are too often insincere, while those who write boys' books do much better work."

The result of this contest was a vote to add the Bible as the twenty-fifth book. The total vote was not announced, nor were the other favorite titles given by the Tribune's final summary. The Tribune based an editorial on "Bible Reading Today" on the result of this vote.

The Circulating Department of the Main Library will be closed on Thursday, Nov. 25, Thanksgiving Day. The Reading and Reference Rooms will be open from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. The branches will be open from 2 to 6 p. m.

Departments

Rules and Information for Patrons

Any resident of Chicago, or any person residing in Cook County having permanent employment in the city, may enjoy the privileges of the Library by having a resident of the city, whose name must appear in the city directory, act as a guarantor. Upon application and compliance with the rules and regulations of the Board of Directors a card good for three years will be issued, which will permit the applicant to draw books for home use. In addition to a card thus issued, any registered reader may secure a Non-fiction card, which will permit the holder to draw one book, not a novel, in addition to a book issued on the regular card. Both cards may be used at the same time, enabling readers to secure two non-fiction books, or one book of fiction and one non-fiction.

Teachers are accorded special privileges upon application.

Books may be retained two weeks and may be once renewed for the same period. Books may be renewed but once. Books of recent purchase labeled Seven-day books cannot be transferred or renewed. The card must be presented whenever a book is taken out or renewed.

Books issued at Circulating Centers or Delivery Stations may be returned at the Main Library, but books cannot be applied for at the Main Library and delivered to Circulating Centers or Delivery Stations.

Any person of good deportment and habits may use the various Reading and Reference Rooms of the Library. No card is required to use the books on the open shelves or the books in the stacks, which must be applied for.

A change of residence should be reported to the Library immediately.

A card holder is responsible for all books drawn on the card, by whomsoever presented, and for all fines incurred. If a card is lost, immediate notice must be given to the Library. A new card will be issued thirty days after such notice.

A fine of three cents a day on each work is imposed, whether bound in one or more volumes, which is not returned within two weeks from the date of issue. An additional charge of two cents is made for each notice sent for the return of a book, and no other books will be delivered to the person incurring the fine until it is paid.

A card holder should also see that the call number is crossed off the order slip whenever a book is drawn.

Writing or marking in books is prohibited, and all injuries to books beyond reasonable wear and all losses must be promptly adjusted to the satisfaction of the Librarian.

What's in the Magazines

Next to the newspapers, the magazines attract the largest number of readers; books come third. Of the making of periodicals, as Solomon said of books, there is no end. Leaving out of the reckoning hundreds of trade periodicals devoted each to a particular industry or some phase of an industry, and several hundred magazines printed as house organs for employees of large industrial establishments, there remain in the list of magazines regularly published, about 2,000 more general in character. Of these, 600 may be found on file in the main reading room of the Chicago Public Library, and an average of sixty to seventy of the more popular ones in each of the thirty-four branches. The readers in the main reading room number about 1,500,000 annually, and in the branches the yearly total is about 1,800,000—an aggregate of 3,300,000 for twelve months.

There is now no topic of human interest—important or trivial, social, industrial, political, humanitarian, artistic, antiquarian, genealogical, philological, educational, architectural, historical, scientific, religious, or pertaining to any other line of thought—which is not fully represented in the pages of the magazines. With a view to grouping and indicating some of these tendencies there will appear in succeeding issues of the Book Bulletin a series of brief narrative references to such material. Among the special topics to be thus noted are the following:

1. Men and women who do things.
2. The new poets, the new dramatists, the new artists—and their product.
3. The world of the dollar—captains of industry and regiments of bread-earners.

4. Caricature as a reflection of current thought.
5. Fiction on the installment plan.
6. Education for young and old.

(1) Men and Women Who Do Things

"Not a day passes over the earth but men and women of no note do great deeds, speak great words, and suffer noble sorrows. Of these obscure heroes, philosophers and martyrs the greater part will never be known till that hour when many that are great shall be small, and the small great." (Charles Reade in Cloister and the Hearth.)

In every corner of the world, today, men and women who are active in professions, trades and business occupations, are developing new ideas, suggestions and accomplishments along original lines. Many of them are doing large things without realization that they differ in originality and genius from their fellows; many are in obscure places with no thought of further equivalents than the every-day satisfactions of life. In consequence, except when enterprising newspaper writers chance upon out-of-the-ordinary personalities as material for Sunday articles, most of them remain unknown to all but local fame. In the last few years some of the magazines have sought to secure snap-shot pictures of men and women engaged in doing interesting things, and a number of them have established regular departments of this type. Among them are the following:

Persons in the Foreground—Current Opinion.

Interesting People—American Magazine.

About People—Woman's Home Companion.

Who's Who, and Why—Saturday Evening Post.

Men of the Moment—English Review of Reviews.

While some of these bits of biography pertain to the experiences of people successful in achievements generally known—like the chief figures in the development of the Panama Canal, wireless telegraphy, and aeronautics, or the master minds in current literature and the drama, finance, politics and war, more of them relate to lesser-known events and experiences and the moving figures in them. Samples taken from the contents of periodicals which maintain regular departments indicate the wide range of interest thus represented during the past twelve months:

Interesting People—American Magazine

Roger Derby, a millionaire pioneer farmer in the sand hills of North Carolina.

W. H. Clemmons, president of Fremont College, Nebraska, where students get their meals and an education for $8.50 a week.

Quentin D. Corley, an armless wonder, who lost both arms 18 years ago by falling from a train, but by mechanical devices of his own planning can put on his own collar and necktie and drive an automobile.

Winifred Sackville Stoner, a 12-year-old Pittsburgh girl, who is a product of "natural education." She speaks eight languages, is an author-teacher in Carnegie Institute and throws a ball as well as any boy.

J. C. Sanders, warden of the Iowa State Penitentiary, who puts prisoners on their honor outside the walls—attributing it all to music, which he introduced into the prison.

Lod Calohan, a Kansas City cattle inspector, who never forgets a cattle brand. He examines two million cattle a year and carries 15,000 brands in his head.

Charles E. Bullard, famous New Hampshire photographer of cats.

Dr. Jacob W. Bolotin, born blind, who overcame tremendous obstacles and is now attending physician in the Cook County Tuberculosis Hospital. He saved the money for his education as a salesman traveling alone, although blind, all over the United States.

Donaldina Cameron, who has saved 1,500 Chinese girls in San Francisco from slavery. The hostile Chinese call her "the white devil."

Franklin Matthews, who teaches young men at Columbia University how to become reporters. The practice newspaper is called the Blot.

A. E. Chapman, a southern Californian, who rides whole communities of flies. His curious fly-lore is interesting.

Aunt Mary Goddard, who is 105 years old and still a preaching elder in the Quaker Church of Brunswick, Me. For seventy years she has sat on the facing seat in Quaker meeting houses.

Mose Jacobs, richest newsboy in the world. His sales average 3,000 a day.

Russell H. Conwell, Philadelphia preacher and educator, who devotes the proceeds of his lectures to sending poor boys through college. He has delivered his lecture on "Acres of Diamonds" over 5,000 times.

Timothy Cole, master artist of wood engraving, now becoming obsolete.

Men of the Moment—British Review of Reviews

Enver Pasha, mystic and man of action; dashing leader of the young Turks.

Prince Yamagata, elder statesman of Japan.

George W. Russell, "A. E.," a poet harnessed to the plough. As mystic poet, painter and essayist and cooperative economist, he is regarded as the most multifarious personality since William Morris.

Prof. W. R. Brooks, astronomer, the most successful comet hunter in the world. He has discovered twenty-seven of them.

Persons in the Foreground—Current Opinion

Ferdinand of Bulgaria, a sovereign who seeks a crown in Constantinople.

Kitchin of North Carolina, the new radical leader of the Democratic cohorts in Congress.

Yoshihito, Mikado of Japan.

William A. Wirt, educational engineer, constructive genius of the Gary school system.

Albert Thomas, the baker's boy who became French minister of munitions.

Andrew Furness and his fifteen-year siege of Congress.

About People—Woman's Home Companion

Mrs. William Tracy, ostrich farmer. She keeps a hundred of the long-legged birds on an alfalfa farm in California.

William J. Burns, the most famous detective in real life.

Marie Greene Blumenschein, whose painting, "The princess and the frog," won the Shaw prize.

Florence Fisher, a successful stenographer, whose specialty is reporting conventions.

Margaret Mahoney, turkey doctor.

Who's Who, and Why—Saturday Evening Post

Frank Plowman Woods of Iowa, a silent Progressive.

William Graves Sharp, who favors aeroplanes for carrying mails.

James K. Vardaman of Mississippi, long of locks and fierce of gesticulation, and a fire-eater.

Swager Shirley, official fool-killer of the House of Representatives.

Joffre, short and fat, wild of eye and congested of speech, and harder than any nail ever made by a nail-worker.

Fred Smith, who before he was made head of the British Press Bureau, was known as Galloping Freddie, and then assumed a slow and sedate walk. His Press Bureau became known as the Supress Bureau.

Examination for Entrance to Training Class

The opening of new branches, the rapid increase in circulation of books, and the general expansion of the Chicago Public Library necessitates an increase in the staff of workers. For this reason a second Training Class is to be formed in January, to prepare young women for positions. The entrance examination will be given December 20th, at 2 o'clock.

This examination includes questions in history, literature, and general information, and is given only to residents of Chicago. High School graduates are admitted, but college graduates and those who have had some experience in educational and social work receive preference, when the results of the examination are considered.

The Public Library offers excellent opportunities to Chicago young women who have had a college education, who wish to remain at home, and at the same time enter some kind of social service. The positions in the library are graded, and by taking promotional examinations one may advance from one grade to another.

No tuition is charged for instruction given in the Training Class, and no salary is paid during the period of training.

Further information will be given by the Director of the Training Class. Application blanks will be sent on request.

New Branches

Two new branch libraries have been added to the system this fall: at Pulaski Park, Blackhawk and Noble streets, where the Library occupies a handsomely furnished room in the field house, tendered by the West Park Board; the other at Forrestville School, 45th street and St. Lawrence avenue, in quarters set aside by the Board of Education.

Two additional branches will be opened soon after January 1st, 1916. One of these will be at the Carter Harrison Technical High School, at Marshall boulevard and 24th street, and will be the first high school branch in Chicago. The second branch to be opened in 1916 will be known as Woodlawn Branch and will be installed in rented quarters at 1173 63d street.

Holiday Hours

On Christmas Day, Saturday, December 25th, the Main Library and all branch libraries in all parts of the city will be closed all day. On New Year's Day the reading room of the Main Library will be open from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m., the branches from 2 to 6 p. m. The usual Sunday hours will be observed on the Sundays after Christmas and New Year's Day, December 26th and January 2d, respectively.

On Christmas Eve, Friday, December 24th, all of the branch libraries will be closed at 6 o'clock.

Books Added to the Library

Books marked * do not circulate; those with the letter P are in the Art room, and those marked Doc. are in the Document department. *Ser. represents serials which do not circulate.

Fiction, Plays, etc.

The following titles and annotations are copied from A Brief Guide to the literature of Shakespeare, by H. H. B. Meyer, published by the American Library Association.

Aldrich, T. B. Marjorie Daw and other stories. 1885. H 142

"A midnight fantasy," one of the stories, turns on a visit of Hamlet to Verona, a meeting with Juliet, and—results.

Bennett, J. Master Skylark; a story of Shakspeare's time. 1898. F 7929

An interesting story for boys about a Stratford lad who goes to London in the train of a company of players and is there befriended by Shakespeare.

Black, W. Judith Shakespeare; her love affairs and other adventures. 1884. F 2556

This story of Shakespeare's daughter does not rank with Black's best work.

Garnett, R. William Shakespeare, pedagogue and poacher; a drama. 1905. E 9936

Scene is at Stratford, 1585. Shakespeare is depicted in his school and before Sir Thomas Lucy and lastly set free by Leicester.

Landor, W. S. Citation and examination of William Shakespeare, Euseby Treen, Joseph Carnaby and Silas Gough, clerk, before the worshipful Sir Thomas Libby, knight, touching deer-stealing on the 19th day of September in the year of Grace 1582, now first published from original papers. 1891. E 9641

Charles Lamb is generally quoted as saying of this that it could only have been written by him who wrote it or by him about whom it was written. If Shakespeare had written it, it would have had some dramatic action, which is what it lacks. As it is it needs several readings to get familiar with it and to appreciate it for the fine thing it is.

Lütkenhaus, Mrs. A. M. Master Skylark; a dramatization of the book by John Bennett. 1914. E 12542

"It is the story, ingeniously turned into a child's play, rather than a drama from the book. Indeed it is almost as simple in construction as if the children themselves had arranged it for their own amusement from a book in which they had been greatly interested and whose story they wished to turn into a play."

McMahan, Mrs. A. B. Shakespeare's love story, 1580-1609. 1909. E 10164

Turns the sonnets into a love story with Anne Hathaway as the heroine.

Munn, Mrs. M. C. Will Shakespeare of Stratford and London; a drama in four acts. 1910. E 12618

Begins in Stratford at the time of the poaching episode, passes on to London and depicts the struggle between Essex and Southampton and the encounters of Shakespeare with the lady of the sonnets.

Noyes, A. Tales of the Mermaid tavern. 1913. E 11351

A narrative poem in blank verse with a number of ballads and lyrics interspersed, depicting with much grace and vigor the life of the Mermaid tavern.

Payn, J. The talk of the town. A novel. 1885. G 1168

An old-fashioned story in which the love affair gets tangled up with Shakespearean forgeries.

Quiller-Couch, A. T. Shakespeare's Christmas and other stories, by "Q." 1905. F 12181

A picture of the wild life of the Bankside in Shakespeare's time. Introduces the poet, his father, and some of the players and authors.

Scott, Sir W. Kenilworth; ed., with an introduction and notes, by J. H. Castleman. 1907. F 2162

Kenilworth is sometimes mentioned as a novel in which Shakespeare appears. That is about all he does, and bows in response to a complimentary greeting from the Earl of Leicester. Worthy of note, however, is the scene a little further along in the same chapter (XVII) in which Raleigh quotes for the delection of Queen Elizabeth a passage from Act II of A midsummer night's dream. The passage was actually written some twenty years after the event, but what is twenty years to the Wizard of the North.

—Same. 808 Ev2, 411
Everyman's library.

Shaw, G. B. Misalliance, the dark lady of the Sonnets, and Fanny's first play. 1914. E 12801

"The dark lady of the Sonnets" is little more than a farce, depicting a chance encounter between the dramatist, Queen Elizabeth and the dark lady. The dramatist might stand for the portrait of Shaw himself.

Smith, M. C. Mary Paget; a romance of old Bermuda. 1900. F 9818

A romance of the time of James I. A large part of the action centers around the wreck of the "Sea Venture," which supplied Shakespeare with so many hints for "The Tempest."

Snaith, J. C. Anne Feversham. 1914.

F 18264

The story narrates the adventures of a young couple who finally join Shakespeare's company, where the girl creates the part of Rosalind. The dramatist is depicted as a kindly gentleman who exercises a subtle influence over all with whom he comes in contact. The influence is told about, but never realized.

Stephens, R. N. A gentleman player; his adventures on a secret mission for Queen Elizabeth. 1899.

F 9798

The hero is a comedian in the Lord Chamberlain's company. Introduces other members of the company at the Globe theatre, including Shakespeare.

Wilde, O. Lord Arthur Savile's crime; the portrait of Mr. W. H., and other stories. 1909.

F 7660

"The portrait of Mr. W. H." turns on the attempt to show by a forged portrait that Mr. W. H. of the sonnets was Will Hews, a boy actor of Shakespeare's company. The theory is much like the one advanced by Samuel Butler (72).

Rules and Information for Patrons

Any resident of Chicago, or any person residing in Cook County having permanent employment in the city, may enjoy the privileges of the Library by having a resident of the city, whose name must appear in the city directory, act as a guarantor. Upon application and compliance with the rules and regulations of the Board of Directors a card good for three years will be issued, which will permit the applicant to draw books for home use. In addition to a card thus issued, any registered reader may secure a Non-fiction card, which will permit the holder to draw one book, not a novel, in addition to a book issued on the regular card. Both cards may be used at the same time, enabling readers to secure two non-fiction books, or one book of fiction and one non-fiction.

Teachers are accorded special privileges upon application.

Books may be retained two weeks and may be once renewed for the same period. Books may be renewed but once. Books of recent purchase labeled Seven-day books cannot be transferred or renewed. The card must be presented whenever a book is taken out or renewed.

Books issued at Circulating Centers or Delivery Stations may be returned at the Main Library, but books cannot be applied for at the Main Library and delivered to Circulating Centers or Delivery Stations.

Any person of good deportment and habits may use the various Reading and Reference Rooms of the Library. No card is required to use the books on the open shelves or the books in the stacks, which must be applied for.

A change of residence should be reported to the Library immediately.

A card holder is responsible for all books drawn on the card, by whomsoever presented, and for all fines incurred. If a card is lost, immediate notice must be given to the Library. A new card will be issued thirty days after such notice.

A fine of three cents a day on each work is imposed, whether bound in one or more volumes, which is not returned within two weeks from the date of issue. An additional charge of two cents is made for each notice sent for the return of a book, and no other books will be delivered to the person incurring the fine until it is paid.

A card holder should also see that the call number is crossed off the order slip whenever a book is drawn.

Writing or marking in books is prohibited, and all injuries to books beyond reasonable wear and all losses must be promptly adjusted to the satisfaction of the Librarian.

Actable One-Act Plays

The widespread interest in the modern drama has increased the publication of worthy one-act plays, giving the public a chance to see the work done in this branch of the drama, since the regular place is denied them on our stage. At the same time amateur actors are looking for good short plays to produce in place of the mechanical farce or sentimental comedy which has been in vogue. For the purpose of directing the attention of amateur actors and producers to the best of the modern short plays, the following list has been compiled by Samuel Kaplan of the Library staff.

Arkell, Reginald. Columbine; a phantasy. E 11768

Characters: Four men; one woman.

A poetic fairy play, depending for its success on the charm of the acting. Easy to act and produce.

Augier, Emile. The post-scriptum. E 13363

Characters: Two men; one woman.

Translation of a bright and chatty French comedy.

Bangs, John Kendrick. The Barrington's "at home." E 11795

Characters: Three women; two men.

A fairly amusing skit in which much furniture is moved about.

In his: The real thing, and other farces. 1909.

—The real thing. E 11795

Characters: Five men; two women.

Lacking action, this play should act well because of its humorous dialogue and satire. The point is that if you teach servants their place, there will be no servant problem.

—The return of Christmas. E 11795

Characters: Three men, two women, one boy and one girl.

A Christmas fable brought up to date. There is little action. Its interest lies in its satire.

In his: The real thing and other farces. 1909.

Banville, Theodore de. Charming Léandre. E 13366

Characters: Two men; one woman.

With picturesque costumes and good acting this should make a thoroughly enjoyable entertainment.

Baring, Maurice. The Aulis difficulty. E 11798

Characters: Agamemnon, Iphigenia, Clytemnestra, Odysseus, and Calchas.

Mildly humorous sketch showing how Iphigenia is persuaded to let herself be sacrificed to Artemis.

In his: Diminutive dramas. 1911.

—The blue harlequin. E 11798

Characters: Policeman, Pantaloon, Clown and Columbine.

A capital burlesque of the Maeterlinck play. It should act well.

—Catharine Parr. E 11798

Characters: A man and a woman.

Humorous give and take dialogue between Henry

VIII and one of his wives, in which Henry shows himself to be, on the whole, an amiable husband rather apt to be irritated by trifles.

In his: Diminutive dramas.

—The drawback. E 11798

Characters: A man and a woman.

Might, funny dialogue, showing how awkward it is at times for one's father to be a hangman.

In his: Diminutive dramas. 1911.

—The fatal rubber. E 11798

Characters: Charles VI of France, the queen, the dauphin, and Catharine, his sister.

An amusing little skit in which the queen cheats and the king kicks over the card table.

—The Greek vase. E 11798

Characters: Two men.

A young sculptor, sick and starving, shatters his masterpiece rather than sell it to a rich dealer for a pittance.

In his: Diminutive dramas. 1911.

—Pious Aeneas. E 11798

Characters: Two men; one woman.

In which Dido tells Aeneas that she doesn't care if he never comes back.

In his: Diminutive dramas.

—The rehearsal. E 11798

Characters: Seven men.

A rehearsal of Macbeth on the stage of the Globe Theater in 1595. A clever, pointed satire.

In his: Diminutive dramas.

Barrie, James Matthew. Pantaloon.

E 11803

Characters: Pantaloon, Harlequin, Clown, and Columbine.

One of the best variants of the Columbine theme. Its effectiveness lies in its whimsicality and in its human appeal.

In his: Half hours. 1914.

—Rosalind. E 11803

Characters: Two women; one man.

A "big," little play, comic in the best sense of the word, with a profound human appeal. It tells the story of a great actress who hides from her admirers in order to discover how it feels to be middle-aged.

In his: Half hours. 1914.

—The twelve-pound look. E 1803

Characters: Two women; one man.

One of the best of the modern one-act plays. Concentrates a big and vital story into a half hour of stage performance. Requires finished acting.

In his: Half hours. 1914.

—The will. E 11803

Characters: Four men; one woman.

A short play in three parts showing three generations in the life of a married pair who have gradually become hard and estranged because of the money they have acquired. Written in Barrie's bitterest mood.

In his: Half hours. 1914.

Bennett, Arnold. A good woman. E 11813

Characters: Two men; one woman.

A play of brisk and humorous dialogue, written in the absurd vein of a Gilbert-Sullivan play. Requires skillful acting to be effective.

In his: Polite farces. 1912.

—A question of sex. E 11813

Characters: Two men; two women.

The baby is a girl; and they tell uncle it is a boy in order to get the money he promised. Complications ensue. The dialogue is clever, and the play should act well.

In his: Polite farces. 1912.

—The stepmother. E 11813

Characters: Two men; two women.

A satire on the popular lady novelist. The action is farcical, the dialogue absurd, but on the whole quite funny. It should act well, and is admirably suited for amateurs.

In his: Polite farces. 1912.

Bernard, Tristan. French without a master. E 13368

Characters: Five men; two women.

Mistaken identity, misinterpretation, etc., are here used to make a very funny farce.

Brown, Alice. Joint owners in Spain.

E 11869

Characters: Four women.

A comedy of character, humorous and pathetic. The scene is in an old ladies' home; three of the characters are inmates. Clever character acting is required to present them effectively.

Caillavet, G. A. de. Choosing a career.

E 13371

Characters: Three men; one woman.

Inept farce, foolish enough for the vaudeville stage.

Cannan, Gilbert. James and John. E 11880

Characters: Three men; one woman.

A grim little play, telling of four wrecked lives.

In his: Four plays. 1913.

—Mary's wedding. E 11880

Characters: Three women; two men.

A little tragedy written in English country dialect, effective not so much for its powerful ending but for its character study and its atmosphere.

In his: Four plays. 1913.

Chekhov, Anton. A marriage proposal.

E 13375

Characters: Two men; one woman.

A noisy comedy of little distinction in its translation. It is meant to satirize the Russian peasant.

Davis, Richard Harding. The Zone police.

E 11986

Characters: Four men.

A conventional bit of theatricalism. The scene is laid in Panama.

Dickinson, Thomas H. In hospital. E 13013

Characters: Three men; two women.

Notable for the reserve with which it is written; contains one very touching scene.

In: Wisconsin plays. 1914.

Dix, Beulah Marie. Allison's lad. E 12010

Characters: Six men.

The period is 1648; the characters, Cavaliers and Roundheads. The play is replete with oats and drumtraps. It ends with the unique situation of three men casting dice to determine which of them shall die.

—The captain of the gate. E 12010

Characters: Six men.

A conventional but stirring little war play describing an incident in Cromwell's invasion of Ireland.

In her: Allison's lad, and other martial interludes. 1910.

—The dark of dawn. E 12010

Characters: Four men.

A quadruple coincidence serving as the basis for a fairly interesting story of the Thirty Years' War.

In her: Allison's lad, and other martial interludes. 1910.

—The hundredth trick. E 12010

Characters: Four men.

A little war play possessing considerable dramatic power. The scene is laid in Munster in the time of Queen Elizabeth.

In her: Allison's lad, and other martial interludes. 1910.

—The snare and the fowler. E 12010

Characters: Three men.

A coincidence of the French Revolution, well told, in spite of its blank verse.

In her: Allison's lad, and other martial interludes. 1910.

- The weakest link. E 12010
 Characters: Four men.
 A romantic playlet of the Hundred Years War written in blank verse. It is interesting, although most of the dialogue is concerned with what is happening off stage.
In her: Allison's lad, and other martial interludes. 1910.

Dunsany, Lord. The glittering gate. E 12036

Characters: Two burglars, both dead.
 Scene: Before the gate of heaven. They pry it open with a jimmy and find nothing on the other side.
In his: Five plays. 1914.

—The lost silk hat. E 12036

Characters: Five men.
 The poet does not want the hat recovered because he thinks marriage kills romance.
In his: Five plays. 1914.

Ellis, Mrs. Havelock. The mothers. E 12095

Characters: Two women; one man.
 A study of love, with the psychology somewhat muddled. Written in the Cornish dialect.
In her: Love in danger. 1915.

—The pixy. E 12095

Characters: Three men.
 A study of character, making a fresh and appealing though somewhat sombre one-act play. It should act well, in spite of its static quality. The conversation is in the Cornish dialect.
In her: Love in danger. 1915.

—The subjection of Kezia. E 12095

Characters: Two men; one woman.
 A simple love story, quite undramatic, told in English country dialect. Would be charming if acted by the right people.
In her: Love in danger. 1915.

Ervine, St. John G. The magnanimous lover. E 12101

Characters: Three men; two women.
 The man comes back after ten years, and finds that the woman refuses to be made "respectable." The scene is laid in Ireland. The story is told with restraint. It is one of the best products of the Irish theater.
In his: Four Irish plays. 1914.

—The Orangeman. E 12101

Characters: Three men; one woman.
 Presentation of the old antagonism between fathers and children, this time between a father who is an ardent Orangeman and a son who is not. Not likely to interest people unfamiliar with the Ulster situation.
In his: Four Irish plays. 1914.

Fitzmaurice, George. The pie-dish. E 12144

Characters: Four men; two women.
 Long-winded satire in the Irish dialect. One of the Abbey Theater plays.
In his: Five plays. 1914.

Gale, Zona. The neighbours. E 13013

Characters: Six women; two men.
 An excellent study of American country life written with humor and feeling.
In: Wisconsin plays. 1914.

Giacosa, Giuseppe. The wager. E 13391

Characters: Four men; one woman.
 A romantic playlet of the fourteenth century. The kind of play in which the father gives his daughter to the winner of a game of chess. Of course, the right man wins.

Gibson, Wilfred. The ferry. E 12229

Characters: Two men; one woman.
 Thinking he hears his wife calling, the aged ferryman crosses the flooded river and does not return. A poetic tragedy told with simplicity and impressiveness.
In his: On the threshold. 1907.

—On the threshold. E 12229

Characters: Two women; one man.
 Almost a dramatic monologue. Poetic in theme and style; not meant primarily for the stage.

—Winter dawn. E 12229

Characters: Two women; one man.
 A fifteen minute tragedy, meant to be read rather than acted.

In his: On the threshold. 1907.

—Womenkind. E 12228

Characters: Three women; two men.
 On her wedding day the wife leaves her husband because she finds that he has been unfaithful to her. The subject is handled with considerable dramatic power. Written in blank verse that very often develops into true poetry.

Goodman, Kenneth Sawyer. Back of the Yards. E 12248

Characters: Three men; two women.
 A one-act play that tells a good story, holds the interest throughout, and succeeds in truthfully reflecting a phase of Chicago life.

—Barbara. E 12246

Characters: Two men; one woman.
 Comedy of absurdities meant to scintillate.

—Dust of the road. E 12261

Characters: Three men; one woman.
 On Christmas morn, Judas appears to another soul who is about to perjure himself for thirty pieces of silver and saves him.

—Ephraim and the winged bear. E 12245

Characters: Three men; three women; a winged bear.

A Christmas nightmare. A respectable citizen lets his weaknesses get the better of him and becomes thereby a more amiable human being.

—The game of chess. E 12247

Characters: Four men.
 Interesting melodrama, effective when well acted, but quite meaningless.

Goodman and Stevens. Holbein in Blackfriars. E 12250

Characters: Six men; two women.
 Complications peculiar to the stage arise when Henry VIII sits for his portrait. A mildly interesting play.

Greene, Clay M. The dispensation. E 12265

Characters: Four men.
 In which the Pope permits one of his priests to marry and become a soldier because the priest argues that he can best serve the church by fighting for it.

—The Star of Bethlehem. E 12265

Characters: Five men.
 The Christmas spirit settles down on an exclusive club and four of its members become goody-goody.

In his: The dispensation and other plays. 1914.

Gregory, Lady Augusta. Coats. E 12272

Characters: Three men.
 A farce with a good deal of fun and satire in it.
In her: New comedies. 1913.

—The full moon. E 12272

Characters: Five men; three women.
 Long, wearisome, and talky. It is a sequel to Hyacinth Halvey.

In her: New comedies. 1913.

—The gaol gate. E 12270

Characters: Two women; one man.
 A bleak Irish tragedy written with brevity and directness.

In her: Seven short plays. 1909.

—Hyacinth Halvey. E 12270

Characters: Four men; two women.
 Rambling little play full of fun, in which Hyacinth Halvey finds it impossible to destroy his reputation.
In her: Seven short plays. 1909.

- The jackdaw. E 12270
 Characters: Four men; two women.
 An Irish satire, mildly humorous and fearfully long winded.
In her: Seven short plays. 1909.
- McDonough's wife. E 12272
 Characters: Two women; one man.
 The tragedy of a poor, Irish piper who forgets his pride when his wife is to be buried.
In her: New comedies. 1913.
- The rising of the moon. E 12270
 Characters: Four men.
 An unusual situation has been used to build up a subtly humorous and stirring little play of Irish patriotism. Has been very successfully done by the Abbey Players.
In her: Seven short plays. 1909.
- Spreading the news. E 12270
 Characters: Seven men; three women.
 An Irish comedy, undramatic, on the whole, but rich in satire and local color.
In her: Seven short plays. 1909.
- The travelling man. E 12270
 Characters: A man, a woman, and a child.
 A dramatization of an old Irish legend.
In her: Seven short plays. 1909.
- The workhouse ward. E 12270
 Characters: Two men; one woman.
 A capital comedy, rich in fun and human nature. Easy to stage effectively.
In her: Seven short plays. 1909.
- Hankin, St. John. The burglar who failed. E 12284, 3
 Characters: Two women; one man.
 Whimsical sketch in which our sympathies are enlisted in behalf of a burglar who cannot make a success at his profession.
In: Dramatic works, v. 3.
- The constant lover. E 12284, 2
 Characters: A man and a woman.
 An amusing episode in the life of a nice boy who is never out of love.
In: Dramatic works, v. 2.
- Hervieu, Paul. Modesty. E 13396
 Characters: Two men; one woman.
 Fifteen pages of conversation about getting married.
- Houghton, Stanley. The dear departed. E 12332
 Characters: Three men; two women; one girl.
 A play that shows human nature almost at its worst. Written with a keen sense of the theater.
In his: Five one-act plays. 1913.
- Fancy free. E 12332
 Characters: Two men; two women.
 An absurdity full of machine made epigrams. Funny when well done.
In his: Five one-act plays. 1913.
- The fifth commandment. E 12332
 Characters: Two men; one woman.
 An excellent play, handling a big idea, telling its story effectively through a series of interesting situations and creating some very clear-cut characters.
In his: Five one-act plays. 1913.
- The master of the house. E 12332
 Characters: Four men; two women.
 A gruesome play, with no discernible meaning, effective because of its theatricalism.
In his: Five one-act plays. 1913.
- Phipps. E 12332
 Characters: Two men; one woman.
 A comedy in which Stanley Houghton fails to be as clever as Oscar Wilde.
In his: Five one-act plays. 1913.
- Jones, Henry Arthur. The goal. E 12426
 Characters: Four men; two women.
 A pretty, sentimental play, depending for its success on the ability of the actors.
In his: The Theater of ideas. 1915.
- Her tongue. E 12426
 Characters: Three men; two women.
 Farce of comparatively high order. Very amusing. Easy to do well.
In his: The theater of ideas. 1915.
- Leonard, William Ellery. Glory of the morning. E 13013
 Characters: Two men; one woman; a boy, and a girl.
 The white man leaves his squaw to go back to France, taking one of the children with him. A slow moving play with impossible characters and dialogue.
In: Wisconsin plays. 1914.
- Mackaye, Percy. Chuck. E 12565
 Characters: Three men; one woman.
 A little sketch, fresh with the spirit of the outdoors.
In his: Yankee phantasies. 1912.
- Masefield, John. Mrs. Harrison. E 12587
 Characters: Three men; one woman.
 An interesting one-act play somewhat mixed in mood, for it begins a comedy and ends unexpectedly a tragedy.
In his: The tragedy of Nan. 1912.
- Maurey, Max. Rosalie. E 13404
 Characters: Two women; one man.
 A bit of social satire that is delightfully funny from beginning to end.
- Mayne, Rutherford. Red turf. E 12572
 Characters: Four men; one woman.
 A one-act tragedy, simple, vivid, and well written, leaving the reader or spectator with a better understanding of Ireland.
In his: The drone and other plays. 1912.
- The troth. E 12572
 Characters: Three men; one woman.
 A one-act play of Ireland in famine time that is tensely dramatic from beginning to end.
In his: The drone and other plays. 1912.
- Meilhac and Halevy. Indian summer. E 13406
 Characters: Two men; two women.
 Pretty, sentimental comedy, very popular in France. Admirably suited for amateurs.
- Middleton, George. The cheat of pity. E 12598
 Characters: Two men; one woman.
 An interesting situation set forth with skill. More valuable dramatically than most of Middleton's plays.
In his: Tradition, and other plays. 1913.
- Embers. E 12597
 Characters: Two men; two women.
 The older man tells that which has never before passed his lips. Thereby, he "saves" the younger man. Conventional and rhetorical.
- The failures. E 12597
 Characters: A man and a woman.
 He comes to her when she is a widow. He is bitterly disappointed in her because she "bore one man's name and loved another." After fifteen minutes of dialogue they are reconciled, and "she feels his tears and kisses on her hand."
In his: Embers, and other plays. 1911.
- The gargoyle. E 12597
 Characters: Two men.
 A long, discursive dialogue without much dramatic interest.
In his: Embers, and other plays. 1911.

- In his house. E 12597
 Characters: Two women; one man.
 An interesting play to read, even though it is thoroughly unconvincing.
In his: Embers, and other plays. 1911.
- Madonna. E 12597
 Characters: Three men; one woman.
 On the eve of their wedding, the father tells the young couple the story of his life.
In his: Embers, and other plays. 1911.
- The man masterful. E 12597
 Characters: Two women.
 Another dialogue on the subject of illicit love, which this author thinks is dramatic, but never uses in a dramatic way.
In his: Embers, and other plays. 1911.
- Mothers. E 12598
 Characters: Two women; one man.
 A dialogue between the mother and the wife of a worthless young man.
In his: Tradition, and other plays. 1913.
- On bail. E 12598
 Characters: Two men; one woman.
 A short story told in dialogue form.
In his: Tradition, and other plays. 1913.
- Their wife. E 12598
 Characters: Two men.
 The man she divorced and the man she married meet and discuss their wife.
In his: Tradition, and other plays. 1913.
- Tradition. E 12598
 Characters: Two women; one man.
 A very talky play in which very little happens.
- Waiting. E 12598
 Characters: A man, a woman, and a child.
 Here we find a child uniting two hearts that have long been pining for each other.
In his: Tradition, and other plays. 1913.
- Musset, Alfred de and Augier, Émile. The green coat. E 13411
 Characters: Three men; one woman.
 A comedy of artist life in the Latin quarter done in the conventional way, but amusing enough to be worth presentation.
- Noyes, Alfred. A Belgian Christmas Eve. E 12676
 Characters: Nine men; one woman; one child.
 The horrors of war presented in a gripping little drama.
- Rivoire, Andre. The little shepherdess. E 13418
 Characters: Two women; one man.
 A charming pastoral sketch.
- Schnitzler, Arthur. The mate. E 12794
 Characters: Four men; one woman.
 Drama of very high merit constructed with extraordinary cleverness. The story, one of illicit love, is told backwards, each revelation coming as a fresh surprise and adding to the dramatic interest of the play.
In his: The green cockatoo, and other plays. 1913.
- Shaw, George Bernard. The Dark Lady of the Sonnets. E 12801
 Characters: Two men; two women.
 A delightful travesty in which Shaw tries to make famous immortals behave like human beings.
- Press cuttings. E 12802
 Characters: Three men; three women.
 The English government is lampooned in a wildly extravagant and very funny satire.
- Sinclair, Upton. The second-story man. E 12811
 Characters: Two men; one woman.
 A burglar, victim of the capitalistic system, breaks into the home of a lawyer who defrauded him, and instead of shooting him, preaches to him on the wickedness of capitalism.

In his: Plays of protest. 1912.

- Stevens and Goodman. Ryland. E 12864
 Characters: Five men; two women.
 A fairly interesting, slow moving comedy dealing with historical celebrities.

- Strindberg, August. Debit and credit. E 12831
 Characters: Six men; three women.

The man who has succeeded because of the help others have rendered him is made the subject of one of Strindberg's characteristically unpleasant plays.
In his: Three one-act plays.

- Facing death. E 12826
 Characters: Three women; two men.
 A bitter and sordid tragedy in which Strindberg expresses his hatred of women in the strongest of terms.
In his: Plays. 1912.

- Motherlove. E 12833
 Characters: Four women.
 A suggestive play on an interesting theme for experienced actors and an experienced audience.

- The outcast. E 12831
 Characters: Two men.
 Interesting dialogue full of dramatic surprises.
In his: Three one-act plays.

- Another copy. E 12826

- The stronger. E 12828
 Characters: Two women.
 An interesting and curious dramatic experiment, a play in which there are two characters and only one speaks. It makes very good drama.

- Another copy. E 13103

- Another copy. E 12835, 2
 Sudermann, Hermann. The far-away princess. E 12842

Characters: Seven women; two men.
 A charming comedy in which Sudermann succeeds in putting freshness and humor into an old theme.
In his: Roses. 1909.

- Fritzchen. E 12843
 Characters: Five men; two women.
 One of the best of modern one-act plays; a powerful tragedy, creating in the beginning an oppressive feeling of impending calamity, ending in a terrible denouement which makes an extraordinary scene theatrically.
In his: Morituri. 1910.

- The last visit. E 12842
 Characters: Five men, three women.
 The air of mystery hanging over this piece, the manner in which the suspense is maintained throughout, and its effective climax, make this an admirable play theatrically.
In his: Roses. 1909.

- Margot. E 12842
 Characters: Three men; two women.
 Splendid drama, thought provoking, suggestive, containing true human character.
In his: Roses. 1909.

- Streaks of light. E 12842
 Characters: Two men; one woman.
 A lurid and exotic little tragedy on the subject of husband, wife, and lover.
In his: Roses. 1909.

- Teja. E 12843
 Characters: Nine men; two women.
 Tragedy of a Gothic king who failed in his attempt to invade Italy.
In his: Morituri. 1910.

- Sutro, Alfred. The bracelet. E 12859
 Characters: Four men; four women.
 A stagey play, extremely interesting, full of tricks and surprises.
In his: Five little plays. 1913.
- The man in the stalls. E 12859
 Characters: Two men; one woman.
 A play in which three intensely disagreeable people get themselves involved in disagreeable but highly dramatic situations.
In his: Five little plays. 1913.
- The man on the kerb. E 12859
 Characters: A man and a woman.
 A picture of the most abject poverty.
In his: Five little plays. 1913.
- A marriage has been arranged. E 12859
 Characters: A man and a woman.
 Two sophisticated people in a witty dialogue.
In his: Five little plays. 1913.
- The open door. E 12859
 Characters: A man and a woman.
 In which the wife and the lover confess their love in sparkling dialogue under conditions that are decidedly interesting.
In his: Five little plays. 1913.
- Synge, John M. Riders to the sea. E 12882
- Another copy. E 13101
- Another copy. E 12007
 Characters: Three women; one man.
 A tragedy of the very highest order in which the merciless power of the sea is made the chief protagonist.
- The shadow of the glen. E 12882
- Another copy. E 12880
 Characters: Three men; one woman.
 "There is no one-act play in the language for compression, for humanity, and for perfection of form to put near 'The shadow of the glen.'"

- Wilde, Percival. Dawn. E 13004
 Characters: Two men, one woman, one child.
 A melodrama, interesting enough, but meaningless. The play ends with an explosion of nitroglycerine and a scene, presumably in heaven.
In his: Dawn, and other plays. 1915.
- The finger of God. E 13004
 Characters: Two men; one woman.
 Just as he is about to run off with embezzled funds, "a girl" comes to him and says that she trusts him, after which he resolves to stay and "face the music."
In his: Dawn, and other plays. 1915.
- The house of cards. E 13004
 Characters: A man and a woman.
 A tricky and clever bit of theatricalism good for ten minutes of suspense and a thrill of surprise.
In his: Dawn, and other plays. 1915.
- The noble lord. E 13004
 Characters: Two men; one woman.
 An amusing skit, consisting mainly of a dialogue between a lady who pretends to drown and a lord who saves her.
In his: Dawn, and other plays. 1915.
- Playing with fire. E 13004
 Characters: Two women; one man.
 Quaint and mechanical dialogue between a boy and a girl who are very much in love with each other.
In his: Dawn, and other plays. 1915.
- The traitor. E 13004
 Characters: Seven men.
 An exciting little melodrama of the Boer war. The climax is clever, but like the rest of the play, unconvincing.
In his: Dawn, and other plays. 1915.
- Yeats, William Butler. Cathleen Ni Houlihan. E 13061
 Characters: Three men; three women.
 A beautifully written allegory of Irish patriotism.
In his: The Unicorn from the stars. 1908.

What's in the Magazines

II. The Singing Choir of New Poets

*We are the music-makers,
 And we are the dreamers of dreams,
 Wandering by lone sea-breakers,
 And sitting by desolate streams;
 World-losers and world-forsakers,
 On whom the pale moon gleams:
 Yet we are the movers and shakers
 Of the world forever, it seems.*
 Arthur O'Shaughnessy.

Either because at least two journals devoted principally to modern poetry are published here, or that a surprisingly large number of modern poets dwell here, Chicago has become the center of the renaissance of poetry which just now is especially manifest in magazine literature. Two books of poetry which have had a circulation almost comparable with that of the best sellers, are the product of present-day Illinois poets—the Congo by Vachel Lindsey, and Spoon River Anthology by Edgar Lee Masters. Mr. Masters wrote under the pen-name of Webster Ford when his contributions appeared in the periodical press. Both books have been widely discussed and commented upon in this country and abroad, and both promise to be the forerunners of a new note in verse—or at least in verse form.

Other local poets whose verses appear frequently in the magazines, or who have recently issued sheaves of verse in book form, include:

Charles G. Blanden	Thomas Wood
Carl Sandburg	Stevens
Eunice Tietjens	Alice Oliver Hen-
Mary Aldis	derson
Maurice Brown	E. Preston Dargan
Donald Robertson	Rita Benton
Harriet Monroe	Frances Shaw
Maxwell Bodenheim	Max Michelson
Edith Wyatt	Dorothy Dudley

Harold Childs	Walter Heymann
Florence Kiper	Willa Sibert Cather
Frank	Charlton Lawrence
	Edholm

Some of their verses have a distinctly Chicago flavor. In a current issue of the Bookman, Agnes Lee writes of The Divers, with its poignant recurrent lines:

Down again, and down again,
And up with living or dead again!
For we are divers,
The Eastland divers.

The poem, which is a pitiless protest against greed and the inhumanity to which it gives birth, begins:

Divers of bodies,
What did you see,
Amid the waters,
The sluggish waters,
The swaying company—
You, the divers,
The Eastland divers?

In different vein, are Carl Sandburg's Chicago poems. The initial one bears the title Chicago, which is given this unlovely characterization:

Hog Butcher for the World,
Tool Maker, Stacker of Wheat,
Player with Railroads, and the Nation's Freight Handler;
Stormy, husky, brawling,
City of the Big Shoulders.

Two other poems of Chicago, both distinctive as to subject and form, are these:

The Chicago, by Charlton Lawrence Edholm, in Everybody's.

Street in Packingtown (Chicago) by Willa Sibert Cather, in The Century.

The Chicago

Charlton Lawrence Edholm

They have bound me with bridges,
With tunnels burrowed under me!
Incessant, unresting,
All day and all night
Traffic roars over me,
And my uplook to the blessed sky
Is barred with girders, cables, stacks.
My banks, with docks close hedged,
Inexorably
Hem me in.
Vacantly,
Through smoke and floating smudge,
The Sun looks down upon me

Like the bleared eye of an old, old man.
No outcast of the gutters
Slinks by more soiled than I,
Polluted within and without!

But on my shackled breast I bear
Corn and iron, lumber and coal.
The little children of India eat of my wheat;
My lumber shelters the stricken of Messina;
Ten million wheels are set a-whirl with my coal;
The iron that burdens me forms a ready tool,
Fit for the hand of man.

What singer can sing of me one low-keyed song?

The Hudson, the Rhine, the Danube, the Nile,
All these, all have their poets,
As beautiful women their lovers.
Fringed with vineyards and stately gardens,
Castles and temples are their jewels,
And song is theirs by right!

But I?

Soiled am I and brackish
As sweat on the brow of a workman!
But the broad ships that weight my breast
Are like iron medals with these words wrought:
"FOR SERVICE."
Therein alone is my glory:
I serve; I serve.

Street in Packingtown (Chicago)

Willa Sibert Cather

In the gray dust before a frail gray shed,
By a board fence obscenely chalked in red,
A gray creek willow, left from country days,
Flickers pallid in the haze.

Beside the gutter of the unpaved street,
Tin cans and broken glass about his feet,
And a brown whisky bottle, singled out
For play from prosier crockery strewn about,
Twisting a shoestring noose, a Polack's brat
Joylessly torments a cat.

His dress, some sister's cast-off wear,
Is rolled to leave his stomach bare.
His arms and legs with scratches bleed;
He twists the cat and pays no heed.
He mauls her neither less nor more
Because her claws have raked him sore.
His eyes, faint-blue and moody, stare
From under a pale shock of hair.
Neither resentment nor surprise
Lights the desert of those eyes—
To hurt and to be hurt; he knows
All he will know on earth, or need to know.

But there, beneath his willow-tree,
His tribal, tutelary tree,
The tortured cat across his knee,
With hate, perhaps, a threat, maybe,
Lithuania looks at me.

Notable also among the most recent productions of the Chicago poets, and dealing with a Chicago subject, is the poem occupying two pages in a late number of the New Republic entitled "The Loop," by Edgar Lee Masters.

Of Chicago periodicals interesting in this connection: Miss Harriet Monroe's monthly magazine Poetry has been published regularly for two years, a group of poetry lovers having subscribed liberally to enable publication for a period of five years without regard to general support; The Little Review, edited by Miss Margaret Anderson, has appeared more or less regularly for more than a year, and has given much prominence to poetry; The Trimmed Lamp, which began as an art brochure, has been enlarged and includes much original poetry; at intervals The Dial devotes several pages to reviews of current poetry. It is also significant that one of the local book-stores has maintained a "Poetry Table" for a year past, in response to increasing demands for that type of literature. Substantial prizes have been awarded through Poetry and The Trimmed Lamp, by anonymous donors, for original contributions of verse meeting certain tests.

Elsewhere, too, there is a notable tendency to revival of interest in modern poetry. Of the general magazines, two maintain regular departments on the subject:

Current Opinion—Voices of the living poets, among well-known names represented recently in this grouping being Rupert Brooke, Sara Teasdale, Don Marquis, Edith Thomas, Vachel Lindsay, Antonio Giovannitti, Richard LeGallienne.

Literary Digest—Current Poetry, among recent examples quoted being poems by Joyce Kilmer, Robert Frost, Bliss Carman, Arthur Guiterman, Charles Hanon Towne.

The English Review gives leading position to poems in each monthly issue, John Masfield's poems "The Dafodil Fields," and "Dauber" having first appeared in print on the first pages of this magazine. The Egoist, a monthly magazine published in London, fosters "the newest and best experimental English and American poetry." Previous to the war, the Poetry Book Shop in London, had on its shelves books of poetry only. Since the war's beginning a large volume of poetry inspired by the great conflict has appeared, some of it in the form of broadsides, chapbooks and garlands sold at from twopence to sixpence. In general, however, literature has languished. D. H. Lawrence recently wrote: "How is poetry going in America? There is none in England; the muse has gone like the swallows in winter."

On this side of the great water, the reverse situation is true. A Poetry Society of America has been organized, with monthly meetings. The Century, Scribner's and other leading magazines are giving increased prominence to poetry. So are certain lesser periodicals, as for instance Reedy's Mirror, and the Bellman, and, among other newspapers, the Boston Transcript. Alfred Noyes is lecturing on poetry at the universities, and John Masfield is coming to lecture. The second annual issue of William Stanley Braithwaite's Anthology of Magazine Verse has just appeared. In this resumé for 1915, the compiler has indexed 530 poets and about 1500 poems. In a summary of thirteen selected magazines, he lists 772 poems, and 310 of them are called poems of distinction.

Rules and Information for Patrons

Any resident of Chicago, or any person residing in Cook County having permanent employment in the city, may enjoy the privileges of the Library by having a resident of the city, whose name must appear in the city directory, act as a guarantor. Upon application and compliance with the rules and regulations of the Board of Directors a card good for three years will be issued, which will permit the applicant to draw books for home use. In addition to a card thus issued, any registered reader may secure a Non-fiction card, which will permit the holder to draw one book, not a novel, in addition to a book issued on the regular card. Both cards may be used at the same time, enabling readers to secure two non-fiction books, or one book of fiction and one non-fiction.

Teachers are accorded special privileges upon application.

Books may be retained two weeks and may be once renewed for the same period. Books may be renewed but once. Books of recent purchase labeled Seven-day books cannot be transferred or renewed. The card must be presented whenever a book is taken out or renewed.

Books issued at Circulating Centers or Delivery Stations may be returned at the Main Library, but books cannot be applied for at the Main Library and delivered to Circulating Centers or Delivery Stations.

Any person of good deportment and habits may use the various Reading and Reference Rooms of the Library. No card is required to use the books on the open shelves or the books in the stacks, which must be applied for.

A change of residence should be reported to the Library immediately.

A card holder is responsible for all books drawn on the card, by whomsoever presented, and for all fines incurred. If a card is lost, immediate notice must be given to the Library. A new card will be issued thirty days after such notice.

A fine of three cents a day on each work is imposed, whether bound in one or more volumes, which is not returned within two weeks from the date of issue. An additional charge of two cents is made for each notice sent for the return of a book, and no other books will be delivered to the person incurring the fine until it is paid.

A card holder should also see that the call number is crossed off the order slip whenever a book is drawn.

Writing or marking in books is prohibited, and all injuries to books beyond reasonable wear and all losses must be promptly adjusted to the satisfaction of the Librarian.

What's in the Magazines

III. The Fine Arts

Magazines devoted to the arts and crafts are currently on file in the Arts and Crafts Room, fifth floor west, of the Central Library. These are many in number, and include some sumptuously illustrated. As there are in Chicago thousands of art students engaged in developing such talent as they possess, naturally there is large demand for related magazine literature. There are other local reasons why this current material in print bears interest for readers in Chicago. The Art Institute is recognized in its policies as the most democratic establishment of its type in the world, as well as the one whose attendance outranks that of any other in the United States. Chicago is the home of sculptors, portrait painters, etchers, and arts craftsmen whose work and whose names are known far beyond the borders of the state. Among the eminent sculptors may be mentioned Lorado Taft, whose Midway Studio is the rallying point for a group of promising pupils; Leonard Crunelle and Charles Mulligan. Ralph Clarkson, Louis Betts, Lawton Parker and William Penhallow Henderson have national reputations as portrait painters, while the canvases of Karl A. Buehr, Charles Francis Brown and Wilson Irvine have made their reputations as artists in the East as well as in the Middle West, and the child portraiture of Adam Emory Albright has won deserved recognition from connoisseurs elsewhere as well as here. Earl Reed's etchings of the south shore dunes, and his poetic interpretation of them, have established his fame, and there are other etchers whose distinctive work has been given deserved recognition. Recently, the Stockyards Colony of Artists came into existence in an associated endeavor that led to the opening of a gallery in the stockyards region, and now the art lover makes pilgrimages from the numerous studios on the boulevard to the busy region which is a world of its own on the south side.

The following periodicals giving special attention to art subjects may be consulted in the Arts and Crafts Room, the nature of the periodicals being indicated by a selection of articles which have appeared recently:

Plakat. Bi-monthly. Berlin.

Deals with posters, advertisements, poster stamps, etc.; many colored plates.

Connoisseur. An illustrated magazine for collectors. Monthly. London.

English seals. Some unpublished Lawrence portraits. Fuddling cups and puzzle jugs, with some notes on Wincanton Delft. The Oxenden collection. Courtship and Matrimony in Staffordshire pottery. The art of the cofferer. Gold-splash bronzes.

Burlington magazine. Monthly. London. A magazine for connoisseurs and collectors.

Tapestries at Eastnor. Russian periodicals (Reviews of articles upon architecture, paintings, monuments, etc., in Russia). Tang pottery and its late classic affinities. Persian domes before 1400 A. D. Notes on pictures in the Royal collections (England).

Art and archaeology. An illustrated magazine, published every other month at Baltimore, Md., and Washington, D. C., by the Archaeological Institute of America.

Masterpieces of aboriginal American art. A recently discovered painted tomb of Palestine. The Roman Theatre, Thomas Jefferson and the origins of the classical revival in America. Taylor Hall: The new art building at Vassar College.

The Print collector's quarterly. Boston. Deals with etchings, colored prints, mezzotints and engravings of all schools and periods, together with biographies of artists, engravers, etc.

John La Forge, illustrator. Rembrandt's Amsterdam. William Blake, and his water-color drawings in the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston. German wood cuts of the Fifteenth Century.

Kunstwart. Semi-monthly. Munich.

Organ of the Dürer Bund devoted to elevation of popular taste in fine arts, literature, music, life. Unique in its objects and methods. Edited by Ferdinand Avenarius, well-known advocate of good art and good taste.

Moderne Bauformen. Monthly. Stuttgart, Germany.

Devoted to architecture and house decoration. Not much reading matter. Mostly plates, some in color.

On Washington's Birthday, Tuesday, Feb. 22d, the circulating department will be closed. Reading and reference rooms will be open from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m.; branches from 2 to 6 p. m.

Rules and Information for Patrons

Any resident of Chicago, or any person residing in Cook County having permanent employment in the city, may enjoy the privileges of the Library by having a resident of the city, whose name must appear in the city directory, act as a guarantor. Upon application and compliance with the rules and regulations of the Board of Directors a card good for three years will be issued, which will permit the applicant to draw books for home use. In addition to a card thus issued, any registered reader may secure a Non-fiction card, which will permit the holder to draw one book, not a novel, in addition to a book issued on the regular card. Both cards may be used at the same time, enabling readers to secure two non-fiction books, or one book of fiction and one non-fiction.

Teachers are accorded special privileges upon application.

Books may be retained two weeks and may be once renewed for the same period. Books may be renewed but once. Books of recent purchase labeled Seven-day books cannot be transferred or renewed. The card must be presented whenever a book is taken out or renewed.

Books issued at Circulating Centers or Delivery Stations may be returned at the Main Library, but books cannot be applied for at the Main Library and delivered to Circulating Centers or Delivery Stations.

Any person of good deportment and habits may use the various Reading and Reference Rooms of the Library. No card is required to use the books on the open shelves or the books in the stacks, which must be applied for.

A change of residence should be reported to the Library immediately.

A card holder is responsible for all books drawn on the card, by whomsoever presented, and for all fines incurred. If a card is lost, immediate notice must be given to the Library. A new card will be issued thirty days after such notice.

A fine of three cents a day on each work is imposed, whether bound in one or more volumes, which is not returned within two weeks from the date of issue. An additional charge of two cents is made for each notice sent for the return of a book, and no other books will be delivered to the person incurring the fine until it is paid.

A card holder should also see that the call number is crossed off the order slip whenever a book is drawn.

Writing or marking in books is prohibited, and all injuries to books beyond reasonable wear and all losses must be promptly adjusted to the satisfaction of the Librarian.

New Finding Lists at Reduced Cost

With a view to as wide a distribution as possible of the Library's finding lists, a material reduction in the prices of all of them has been authorized by the Board of Directors. An important series of issues has been projected for 1916; the first of these has just come from the press, being Part I of Books Added, 1911-1915, a five-year cumulation of the fifty monthly lists which have appeared in the Book List during the years above included. Inasmuch as the book titles added in 1915 have been included, the annual cumulation will be omitted this year. The quinquennial cumulation will comprise 11,000 titles, and will be issued in three parts, as follows:

Part I—Fiction, embracing 2500 titles, with names of authors and titles arranged alphabetically. Now ready for distribution.

Part II—Juvenile, comprising 1500 titles, with authors and titles in one alphabetical arrangement. Ready March 15.

Part III—Non-fiction, 7000 titles, grouped in classes as follows: Philosophy, Religion, Social Sciences, Language, Literature, History, Biography, Travel, Useful Arts and Fine Arts. This part will be supplied with an admirable author, title and subject index in one alphabet. Ready about April 1.

About April 15 will be issued an important indexed finding list comprising all the titles in the Library on the subjects of Philosophy, Religion and Medicine.

The first two select topical lists of a number planned for 1916 have just been issued. They are:

William Shakespeare, 1616-1916; giving collected editions in the Library, including translations into German, French, Italian, Bohemian, Danish, Dutch, and Yiddish; separate works, commentaries, and works about the great dramatist; 32 pages.

Actable One-Act Plays (135 titles); 16 pages.

At intervals during the year, these publications will be followed by separate lists of books in foreign languages, books for the blind, etc.

The new schedule of prices is as follows, the charge by mail including postage, cost of envelopes and clerical service:

What's in the Magazines

IV. Actor Folk and Play Writers

Evidence of the great interest manifested in the mimic life portrayed behind footlights is to be found in the place and space given by many general magazines to the new dramas that are written and produced, the personnel of the actors and authors, and within recent times the related gossip of the cinema world. Regular departments of dramatic comment and criticism contributed by authorities of national reputation are maintained by some of the monthly and weekly magazines, and numerous periodicals are devoted exclusively to these subjects. So extensive is the ephemeral literature of the drama, spoken and pictorial, that a quarterly dramatic index is issued to serve as guide to articles, reviews and pictures appearing in fifty-nine periodicals. These references are gathered annually in the form of a Dramatic Index issued as a volume.

At least two general magazines print each month a summarized narrative of the leading play of the day, usually with liberal extracts from the text; others print descriptions and excerpts. Among the recent articles which have appeared recently are the following:

Plots—

Criticisms of plays produced for the first time in Chicago appear in the local press regularly with complete cast of characters. The Theatre, with excellent half-tone illustrations of representative scenes from new plays, also gives the complete casts. Among some of the new plays thus depicted, and noted, may be mentioned the following:

Yeoman of the guard
Nobody home
A full house
The hyphen
Stolen orders
The eternal Magdalene
Our Mrs. McChesney

Among the plays which have been printed with complete text in periodicals of recent date are the following:

Play-Book:

- Wakuwapi; the Hunting—an Indian story, by Hartley Alexander
 The March; a tragedy in one act, by Laura Sherry
 Orange Blossoms, by Phillips Chynoweth
 Fire; a drama in three acts, by Mary Austin

Drama:

- Squabbles of Chioggia, by Goldoni, translated by Charles Lemmi
 Henry IV of Germany, by Ernest von Wildenbruch
 Kayoi Komachi, by Ernest Fenellosa

The Theatre has been giving extended mention to the new dramatists and their work, notably the product of Prof. Baker's famous school of playwrights at Harvard. Among recent articles are the following:

- Max Marcin. House of glass
 Frederick Ballard. Young America
 Cleves Kinkead. Common clay

The Dramatist Quarterly attempts an outline of plots of all recent plays, the file for the past two years including seventy-six plots. Each analysis states the problem in three lines, the two specimen extracts which follow indicating the general type:

The Third Floor Back

1. A symbol of brotherly love encounters selfish souls.
2. He insists on seeing only the best in them.
3. His faith usually rehabilitates them.

Books for Boys and Girls

Ages: 9 or 10

- Alcott. Under the lilacs. H 137

A Bachelor's Romance

1. A bachelor awards a prize to his rival.
2. The money demoralizes him.
3. The bachelor gets the girl.

An interesting feature of the dramatic evolution now in progress is to be found in the currently printed articles about the diminutive play-houses, whose productions in dramaturgy are analogous to the movement of the cubists and futurists in art, and the imagistes in poetry. Among them may be mentioned Maurice Browne's Little Theatre in Chicago, with its seating capacity of 99; Mrs. Edith Stewart's Bluebird Theatre in Milwaukee; the Little Playhouse in Cincinnati; the Bandbox Theatre of New York; the Portmanteau Theatre, recently set up in Evanston; Providence's Talma Theatre; Boston's Toy Theatre; of special local interest, the Outdoor Theatre of the Lake Forest Players; and, perhaps, of special importance in the development of the experimental drama, the 47 Workshop at Harvard, managed by Prof. George Pierce Baker.

It is not surprising that a large circle of readers is interested in the current literature of the drama. The Drama League, which originated in Evanston, is now a national organization with branches in all the leading cities, and a membership of many thousands. The theater-going public is large, and the moving picture public still larger.

Departments

Rules and Information for Patrons

Any resident of Chicago, or any person residing in Cook County having permanent employment in the city, may enjoy the privileges of the Library by having a resident of the city, whose name must appear in the city directory, act as a guarantor. Upon application and compliance with the rules and regulations of the Board of Directors a card good for three years will be issued, which will permit the applicant to draw books for home use. In addition to a card thus issued, any registered reader may secure a Non-fiction card, which will permit the holder to draw one book, not a novel, in addition to a book issued on the regular card. Both cards may be used at the same time, enabling readers to secure two non-fiction books, or one book of fiction and one non-fiction.

Teachers are accorded special privileges upon application.

Books may be retained two weeks and may be once renewed for the same period. Books may be renewed but once. Books of recent purchase labeled Seven-day books cannot be transferred or renewed. The card must be presented whenever a book is taken out or renewed.

Books issued at Circulating Centers or Delivery Stations may be returned at the Main Library, but books cannot be applied for at the Main Library and delivered to Circulating Centers or Delivery Stations.

Any person of good deportment and habits may use the various Reading and Reference Rooms of the Library. No card is required to use the books on the open shelves or the books in the stacks, which must be applied for.

A change of residence should be reported to the Library immediately.

A card holder is responsible for all books drawn on the card, by whomsoever presented, and for all fines incurred. If a card is lost, immediate notice must be given to the Library. A new card will be issued thirty days after such notice.

A fine of three cents a day on each work is imposed, whether bound in one or more volumes, which is not returned within two weeks from the date of issue. An additional charge of two cents is made for each notice sent for the return of a book, and no other books will be delivered to the person incurring the fine until it is paid.

A card holder should also see that the call number is crossed off the order slip whenever a book is drawn.

Writing or marking in books is prohibited, and all injuries to books beyond reasonable wear and all losses must be promptly adjusted to the satisfaction of the Librarian.

Wanted—One Million Dollars

Many additional branch library buildings are needed in Chicago. A million dollars would purchase sites and enable the construction of suitable buildings in sufficient number to supply the city with a system comparable to those of New York, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Detroit, St. Louis, Denver, Minneapolis, Seattle, Portland, or Los Angeles.

At the present time, the Chicago Library possesses fewer branch buildings than any one of the cities named, fewer than Louisville, Indianapolis, Baltimore or New Orleans—and indeed a less number than may be found in many cities of less than 100,000 inhabitants. In each of the first-named list of municipalities, attractive and imposing structures costing from $50,000 to $200,000 each, have been erected, chiefly from gifts received from philanthropic sources. New York owns 43 such buildings in addition to the Central building; Brooklyn, 30; Philadelphia, 25; Boston, 13; Pittsburgh, 8; Cleveland, 12; St. Louis, 7; Detroit, 9; Los Angeles, 15.

The three branch library buildings which belong to the Chicago Public Library and their cost, inclusive of sites, are the following:

T. B. Blackstone branch, corner Lake avenue and Forty-ninth street, $250,000. Gift of Mrs. T. B. Blackstone.

Hiram Kelly branch, corner Normal avenue and Sixty-second street, $75,000. The late Hiram Kelly bequeathed $200,000 for the use of the Public Library.

George H. Walker branch, Morgan Park, $25,000. Gift of the late Geo. H. Walker.

Of the other branch libraries maintained by the Chicago Public Library, nineteen are in park field houses, six are in school buildings, two are in institutional establishments, and seven are in rented quarters. The last-named, having been placed with special regard to need and convenience, enjoy the largest circulations of books for home use, but involve an annual outlay of $10,000 for rentals which preferably might be expended for book purchases if the city owned the buildings instead of being called upon to pay rent. Another disadvantage is the insecurity as to permanence which attaches to leased premises. Moreover, it is difficult to provide adequate library service in quarters not planned for the purpose.

Having in view a standardized plan that shall yield a maximum of space and convenience at a minimum of cost for construction as well as of administration, the Library Board has adopted plans for the initial branch library building of what it is hoped may grow into a system of branch libraries covering the entire city. Each is to cost not to exceed $25,000, including purchase of well-located site and erection of suitable building, providing approximately 5,000 square feet of floor space and containing separate reading rooms for adult and juvenile readers, story hour nook, reference facilities and circulation department—practically all the accommodations, except auditoriums, included in branch library buildings costing from two to six times this expenditure.

The new building is to be located in the heart of Woodlawn. Plans for buildings elsewhere will have to wait until additional funds not now available can be secured. In an article by Mr. Henry M. Hyde recently printed in the Chicago Tribune, gifts of not less than a million dollars each are credited to twenty-three Chicago philanthropists. The name of the Chicago Public Library does not appear in the list of beneficiaries.

A gift of one million dollars would provide forty branch library buildings for Chicago's population of two and a half million inhabitants, and lesser amounts would yield branch libraries in proportion.

What's in the Magazines

V: The Story Tellers

Few periodicals general in character fail to make a feature of fiction. From the time, two hundred years ago, when DeFoe's Robinson Crusoe was printed serially in Heathcote's Intelligencer, until the present era of many magazines, the continued story has been popular with readers, and profitable for publishers. Mr. Henry Mills Alden, for many years editor of Harper's Monthly, holds that the novel and the monthly magazine emerged during the same generation.

It must be admitted that the early-day fiction that appeared in serial form was long-winded and tiresome according to present-day standards. But in the days of the old English coffee-houses and inns, even the tedious novels of the time appealed with extraordinary interest to the sympathies of all classes. Some of the finest tales and romances of the Victorian period first appeared in the pages of the magazines—among them novels by Charles Lever, Bulwer, George Eliot, William Makepiece Thackeray, Anthony Trollope, Thomas Hardy, and Charles Dickens. These, and others by lesser writers like Samuel Lover, William Harrison Ainsworth, Samuel Warren and their contemporaries, may be found in the old files of Blackwood's Magazine, Bentley's Miscellany, Cornhill, Fraser's, All the Year Round and Household Words, as well as the early numbers of the then new American magazines, Harper's and Atlantic.

Much of the notable fiction contributed by the well-known writers of this and the previous generation—Stevenson, Meredith, James, Howells, Conrad, Hewlett, Galsworthy, Bennett, Mrs. Humphrey Ward, Kipling—has been given to readers on the instalment plan before being put between the covers of a book. Among the "best sellers" of the past five years, the following are a few of those that appeared previously as magazine serials:

Burnett. T. Tembarom. Century, Jan. 1913-Dec. 1913.

Locke. Stella Maris. Century, Jan. 1912-Dec. 1912.

Tarkington. The turmoil. Harper's Magazine, Aug. 1914-Mar. 1915.

King. The side of the angels. Harper's Magazine, Aug. 1915-Apr. 1916.

Parker. The judgment house. Harper's Magazine, Aug. 1912-May 1913.

Snaith. The principal girl. Atlantic Monthly, Nov. 1911-May 1912.

Fox. The heart of the hills. Scribner's Magazine, Apr. 1912-Mar. 1913.

Wharton. The custom of the country. Scribner's Magazine, Jan. 1913-Nov. 1913.

Galsworthy. The dark flower. Scribner's, Apr. 1913-Oct. 1913.

Smith. Kennedy Square. Scribner's, Nov. 1910-Oct. 1911.

Beach. The ne'er-do-well. Everybody's, Oct. 1910-Sept. 1911.

Ward. The case of Richard Meynell. McClure's, May 1911-Nov. 1911.

Johnson. Stover at Yale. McClure's, Nov. 1911-May 1912.

Wells. Marriage. American Magazine, Nov. 1911-Oct. 1912.

Bennett. The regent. American Magazine, Dec. 1912-July 1913.

In the realm of the short story, the American magazine is predominant. In a review of the short stories of 1915 contributed by Mr. Edward J. O'Brien to a Boston paper, he admitted that during the past year he had read more than two thousand American short stories in a critical spirit. He added, in his review:

"In reaffirming this year the significant position of the American short story as compared with the English short story, I am more impressed than ever with the leadership manifested by American artists in this literary form. During the past year I have read over two thousand American short stories in a critical spirit, and they have made me lastingly hopeful of our literary future. A spirit of change is acting on our literature. There is a fresh living current in the air."

"Of the 2200 short stories which I examined thoroughly in my study of forty-six periodicals, I find that 683 stories possessed distinction, 269 stories possessed high distinction, and 91 stories were of more or less permanent literary value."

In order of precedence, based on the number of new stories of distinctive merit published during 1915, the eighteen magazines publishing over twenty-five short stories during the year rank as follows:

1. Harper's Monthly..... 56
2. Collier's Weekly and Illustrated-Sunday Magazine (excluding 13 reprints) 46
3. Scribner's Magazine..... 37
4. Lippincott's Magazine and McBride's Magazine..... 36
5. Century Magazine..... 32
6. Saturday Evening Post..... 29
7. Metropolitan 24
8. Every Week..... 23
9. American Magazine..... 22
10. McClure's Magazine..... 22
11. The Bellman..... 20
12. Pictorial Review..... 15
13. Sunset Magazine..... 13
14. Everybody's Magazine..... 13
15. Associated Sunday Magazines (Jan.-May, excluding stories in Every Week, q. v.)..... 9
16. Ladies' Home Journal..... 8
17. Delineator 7

Mr. O'Brien picks ninety-one short stories for the "Honor Roll," of which Katherine Fullerton Gerould has contributed five stories, Wilbur Daniel Steele four stories, Lord Dunsany, Ben Hecht and Fannie Hurst three stories each, and Lincoln Colcord, Rupert Hughes, Walter J. Mullenburg, Seumas O'Brien and Robert W. Sneddon two stories each.

The best five stories of the year are, in his opinion:

Zelig. By Benjamin Rosenblatt. The Bellman.

Ultima Thule. By John Galsworthy. The Delineator.

The Friends. By Stacy Aumonier. The Century.

Jeanne the Maid. By Gordon Arthur Smith. Scribner's.

The Weaver Who Clad the Summer. By H. M. Lyon. Illustrated Sunday Magazine.

"One new periodical and one new short story writer claim unique attention this year for their recent achievement and abundant future promise," says Mr. O'Brien. "A year ago, a slender little monthly magazine entitled The Midland was first issued in Iowa City. It attracted very little attention, and in the course of the year published but nine short stories. It has been my pleasure and wonder to find in these nine stories the most vital interpretation in fiction of our national life that many years have been able to show."

"One new short story writer has appeared this year whose five published stories open a new field to fiction, and have a human richness of feeling and imagination rare in our over-sophisticated literature. I refer to the fables of Seumas O'Brien. At first one is struck with their utter absence of form, and then one realizes that this is a conscious art that wanders truant over life and imagination. In Seumas O'Brien I believe that America has found a new humorist of popular sympathies, a rare observer and philosopher whose very absurdities have a persuasive philosophy of their own."

Since the compilation of his yearly summary, Mr. O'Brien has picked eight short stories as the best of 200 that appeared in the February and March magazines of this year. The titles are:

The Conqueror, by Dorothy Canfield. American, March.

Kerfol, by Edith Wharton. Scribner, March.

Hands, by Sherwood Anderson. Masses, March.

The Silent Infare, by Armistead C. Gordon. Scribner, March.

Petit Popo, by Robert W. Sneddon. Bellman, March 11.

Infra Dig, by Donal Hamilton Haines. Outlook, March 1.

The Sleuth of the Stars, by Melville Davisson Post. Saturday Evening Post, March 4.

The Pruning Knife, by Andrew Soutar. Pictorial Review, March.

Examples of Japanese Water Colors

Some twenty-five examples of the work of Japanese students in the Tokyo School of Fine Arts are on exhibit in the Arts and Crafts Room of the Chicago Public Library. Most of them are water colors painted on silk in native wood frames and are in the form of wall panels three to five feet high and one to three feet wide. They portray flowers, leaves, fruits of various kinds, animal forms such as cats, dogs, rabbits, birds and chickens, children, peasant women, conventional designs and the like. They are the work of pupils from sixteen to twenty-five years of age, and show the unmistakable artistic ability of the Japanese people. They will be of considerable interest to all students of art and design, especially to those who are admirers of things Japanese.

These art panels formed part of the Japanese exhibit at the San Francisco exposition, and at the close of the fair were given by the Japanese government to the American Library Association, whose headquarters are located in Chicago. They will be shown at the Chicago Public Library for the next few weeks, and will then probably be lent to public and college libraries in other parts of the country. The exhibit is on the fifth floor of the library, southwest corner, and is open from 9 to 5:30 daily, except Sunday.

Exhibits

For Shakespeare Day, April 23d, the Library is preparing an exhibit of pictures, books and reference lists which will be displayed in the Central Library and afterwards in various branches.

The picture bulletins prepared for Baby Welfare Week, March 4th to 11th, attracted much attention as part of the exhibition at the Boston Store; they are still on view in the delivery room of the Central Library.

Books Added to the Library

Books marked * do not circulate; those with the letter P are in the Art room, and those marked Doc. are in the Document department. *Ser. represents serials which do not circulate.

Chicago Public Library, Michigan Avenue and Washington Street Departments

Rules and Information for Patrons

Any resident of Chicago, or any person residing in Cook County having permanent employment in the city, may enjoy the privileges of the Library by having a resident of the city, whose name must appear in the city directory, act as a guarantor. Upon application and compliance with the rules and regulations of the Board of Directors a card good for three years will be issued, which will permit the applicant to draw books for home use. In addition to a card thus issued, any registered reader may secure a Non-fiction card, which will permit the holder to draw one book, not a novel, in addition to a book issued on the regular card. Both cards may be used at the same time, enabling readers to secure two non-fiction books, or one book of fiction and one non-fiction.

Teachers are accorded special privileges upon application.

Books may be retained two weeks and may be once renewed for the same period. Books may be renewed but once. Books of recent purchase labeled Seven-day books cannot be transferred or renewed. The card must be presented whenever a book is taken out or renewed.

Books issued at Circulating Centers or Delivery Stations may be returned at the Main Library, but books cannot be applied for at the Main Library and delivered to Circulating Centers or Delivery Stations.

Any person of good deportment and habits may use the various Reading and Reference Rooms of the Library. No card is required to use the books on the open shelves or the books in the stacks, which must be applied for.

A change of residence should be reported to the Library immediately.

A card holder is responsible for all books drawn on the card, by whomsoever presented, and for all fines incurred. If a card is lost, immediate notice must be given to the Library. A new card will be issued thirty days after such notice.

A fine of three cents a day on each work is imposed, whether bound in one or more volumes, which is not returned within two weeks from the date of issue. An additional charge of two cents is made for each notice sent for the return of a book, and no other books will be delivered to the person incurring the fine until it is paid.

A card holder should also see that the call number is crossed off the order slip whenever a book is drawn.

Writing or marking in books is prohibited, and all injuries to books beyond reasonable wear and all losses must be promptly adjusted to the satisfaction of the Librarian.

Slides on Social Subjects

In connection with the "Chicago course" in the public schools, many hundreds of teachers have profited from a splendid collection of pictorial and printed material gathered together by the Civic Education Extension Committee. Through the generosity of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Dummer, who have done much to foster the movement and to interest teachers in the use of collateral material, a considerable part of this valuable collection has been turned over to the Civics Room of the Library for general public use.

Included in the collection are many maps of European cities, comprising the principal industrial centers, showing the residence zones, the sections designated by municipal law for manufacturing sites, and similar apportionment of corporate areas in well-planned cities. There is also a large collection of stereopticon slides, illustrative of city activities in Europe and the United States. The slides have been fully indexed on a novel plan, showing pictorially in scrap books what is included in the various groups. They will be loaned to teachers, lecturers and organizations which can use them advantageously. Among the subjects represented are the following:

Libraries
 Church and Social Service, Chicago
 Sunday Schools, Chicago
 Suffrage
 Immigration
 Sweated Industries
 Social Insurance
 Child Labor
 Industrial Hygiene
 Housing, Tenements, English Slums, municipal housing
 Co-operative Housing

Other departments of the Library also have collections of graphic material, though not so specialized. Thousands of mounted pictures, classified, may be procured in the Hughes Room by teachers, artists, designers, or other patrons interested. They are loaned on cards in the same manner as books are drawn from the Library for home use.

 Many of the branches possess smaller collections which are circulated in the same way, principally through teachers who wish to use them in the class room.

In the Arts and Crafts Room of the Central Library, portfolios of material may be consulted locally—principally along the lines of industrial design.
 Much of the material in this department is costly, and some of it rare. These portfolios are not loaned for use outside the building. Among the subjects most fully represented are the following:

China decoration
 Alphabets, sign-painting, show card writing
 Illumination
 Jewelry
 Japanese art
 Old printed books
 Stained glass
 Indians, North and South American Bookbindings—Bookplates
 Costumes
 Historic ornament
 Oil and water color painting
 Shakespeare—facsimiles
 Church architecture
 Colonial architecture
 Architecture, of different countries,—Germany,
 Spain, etc.
 Flowers and landscape gardening
 Commercial art, posters, letter heads, etc.
 American art and artists
 Furniture
 Oriental rugs
 Tapestry, lace, embroidery
 Butterflies, moths, insects
 Armies of U. S., France, Germany, etc.
 Homes and home furnishing Interior decoration
 History of painting, biographies of artists
 Ancient architecture, Egypt, Assyria, Arabia
 Pompei
 Etchings and etchers

Shakespeare Scenes and Portraiture

In commemoration of the Shakespeare
 Tercentenary, April 23, the Chicago Public Library arranged an exhibit of prints and pictures illustrative of his works and times.
 Hundreds of visitors have viewed the exhibit with interest daily, and no doubt many thousands of Library users will view the pictures during the remaining weeks of this month that they will be displayed.

The exhibit has been placed on the fourth floor of the Central building, occupying the wide corridor on the Washington street side. In addition to twelve double screens, interesting books associated with Shakespeare have been placed in display cases. The headings on the bulletin boards of the Shakespeare exhibit will serve to indicate its character:

Shakespeare himself
 Stratford town
 Famous Hamlets
 Famous Shakespearean actors (2)
 Shakespearean theatres
 Shakespeare's heroines
 Scenes from plays:
 Richard II
 Richard III
 Hamlet
 Merry wives of Windsor
 Much ado about nothing
 Midsummer night's dream
 Tempest
 Romeo and Juliet
 Twelfth night
 As you like it
 Merchant of Venice
 King John
 King Lear
 Macbeth
 Henry IV
 Henry V
 Henry VI
 Henry VIII
 Greek and Roman plays
 Book lists
 Early editions

Among the pictures of Shakespeare himself is the Droeshout portrait which appeared in the first folio of Shakespeare's work, concerning which Ben Jonson wrote:

The figure that thou here seest put,
 It was for gentle Shakespeare cut:
 Wherein the graver had a strife
 With nature, to outdo the life:
 O, could he but have drawne his wit
 As well in brasse, as he hath hit
 His face, the Print would then surpasse
 All, that was ever writ in brasse.
 But, since he cannot, Reader, looke
 Not on his Picture, but his Booke.

There are copies of the Chandos portrait, the original of which hangs in the National Portrait Gallery in London; the Menzel portrait, an imaginary likeness done by a German artist, and others.

In one group there are a score or more of famous Hamlets, including a portrait of John Lowin, the first man who played Hamlet.

Besides these there are many Shakespearean actors in various roles: Fanny Kemble, her father and her brother, Susan Cushman, Edwin Booth, Hackett, other actors of the past, as well as the favorites of today.

Among the Shakespearean theatres are exterior views of the Globe and Bankside theatres, the "fore" and "inner stage," the manner of seating the audiences, the first production of Merry wives of Windsor.

Scenes from the plays, of which there are more than a hundred pictures, have attracted much attention because of their association with performances by favorite actors, and because of the costumes that may be copied by would-be players.

Other groups in the exhibit are "Shakespeare's heroines", Stratford town, Booklists and magazines devoted entirely to Shakespeareana.

The display cases contain facsimiles of the first three folios of Shakespeare's plays, published in 1623, 1632, and 1664; a volume of the Knight edition, beautifully illustrated with steel engravings, a volume of the Boydell edition, published in 1802, decorated with engravings of paintings done by English artists expressly for this work; attractive editions for young people, various Hamlets, and miscellaneous pamphlets on Shakespeare.

Two lists in one of the display cases have been found particularly interesting. One of them includes sixty-nine names of plants and flowers indicative of the plant lore and garden craft of Shakespeare. Some of the public parks are planning to plant Shakespeare gardens, and a plasterine model designed by Mr. Jens Jensen is to be added to the exhibit in the Public Library. The flowers and plants mentioned by Shakespeare are the following:

Aconite
 Balm (sweet)
 Bramble
 Brier, Eglantine (wild rose)
 Broom
 Burnet
 Camomile
 Carnation (Streaked Gillyvors)

Rules and Information for Patrons

Any resident of Chicago, or any person residing in Cook County having permanent employment in the city, may enjoy the privileges of the Library by having a resident of the city, whose name must appear in the city directory, act as a guarantor. Upon application and compliance with the rules and regulations of the Board of Directors a card good for three years will be issued, which will permit the applicant to draw books for home use. In addition to a card thus issued, any registered reader may secure a Non-fiction card, which will permit the holder to draw one book, not a novel, in addition to a book issued on the regular card. Both cards may be used at the same time, enabling readers to secure two non-fiction books, or one book of fiction and one non-fiction.

Teachers are accorded special privileges upon application.

Books may be retained two weeks and may be once renewed for the same period. Books may be renewed but once. Books of recent purchase labeled Seven-day books cannot be transferred or renewed. The card must be presented whenever a book is taken out or renewed.

Books issued at Circulating Centers or Delivery Stations may be returned at the Main Library, but books cannot be applied for at the Main Library and delivered to Circulating Centers or Delivery Stations.

Any person of good deportment and habits may use the various Reading and Reference Rooms of the Library. No card is required to use the books on the open shelves or the books in the stacks, which must be applied for.

A change of residence should be reported to the Library immediately.

A card holder is responsible for all books drawn on the card, by whomsoever presented, and for all fines incurred. If a card is lost, immediate notice must be given to the Library. A new card will be issued thirty days after such notice.

A fine of three cents a day on each work is imposed, whether bound in one or more volumes, which is not returned within two weeks from the date of issue. An additional charge of two cents is made for each notice sent for the return of a book, and no other books will be delivered to the person incurring the fine until it is paid.

A card holder should also see that the call number is crossed off the order slip whenever a book is drawn.

Writing or marking in books is prohibited, and all injuries to books beyond reasonable wear and all losses must be promptly adjusted to the satisfaction of the Librarian.

Class Room Collections

Since 1910, the schools of Chicago have been supplied upon request of principals or individual teachers with class room collections for the use of pupils. These collections comprise groups of books numbering from fifty to sixty volumes each, adapted to the average children of the several grades. They are retained in the class room for one semester, and are then exchangeable for a similar collection embracing other titles. The books are not designed for class room use, but are loaned for reading at home. During the past year 755 class room boxes were sent to 152 school buildings, and there has been a long waiting list of teachers whose requests could not be met for lack of books. The 30,990 volumes represent a total of 1,512 titles, and the total issues for the year were about a quarter of a million. The titles which follow in graded groups give the following representation for the respective grades:

	No. titles.	No. vols.
First grade	41	825
Second "	49	1245
Third "	82	2130
Fourth "	135	4094
Fifth "	207	5355
Sixth "	277	5964
Seventh "	256	5384
Eighth "	465	5993

Training Class Examination

The entrance examination for candidates for the Training Class will be held in the class room, fourth floor, on Wednesday, June 21st, at 9 a. m. Applicants must be residents of Chicago, must be in good health and possess satisfactory personal qualifications. A completed high school course or its equivalent will be the minimum educational equipment accepted.

Application blanks, which must be filed before the date of the examination, may be had from the Director of the Training Class, Miss Faith E. Smith, who will be glad to meet prospective applicants at any time during library hours.

Books for the Blind

A new and complete catalog of this department of the library has been issued and is now on sale at one cent per copy, two cents by mail. The library has nearly 1700 volumes of books for the blind, in the four well-known types: American Braille, American line, New York point and Moon. Books from this collection are loaned to blind readers anywhere within the state of Illinois and may be called for at the Library or sent for and returned free through the mails. The catalog just issued comprises forty pages and includes a full alphabetical author title and subject index.

Notes

The Book Bulletin is not issued in July and August. The next number will appear about September 10th.

Two legal holidays occurring in the interim before the next issue give rise to the following notice:

On July 4th, Independence Day, all departments and branches of the Library will be closed all day.

On Sept. 4th, Labor Day, the reference rooms will be open from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m., the circulating department being closed. The branches will be open from 2 to 6 p. m.

Books Added to the Library

Books marked * do not circulate; those with the letter P are in the Art room, and those marked Doc. are in the Document department. *Ser. represents serials which do not circulate.

Chicago Public Library, Michigan Avenue and Washington Street Departments

Rules and Information for Patrons

Any resident of Chicago, or any person residing in Cook County having permanent employment in the city, may enjoy the privileges of the Library by having a resident of the city, whose name must appear in the city directory, act as a guarantor. Upon application and compliance with the rules and regulations of the Board of Directors a card good for three years will be issued, which will permit the applicant to draw books for home use. In addition to a card thus issued, any registered reader may secure a Non-fiction card, which will permit the holder to draw one book, not a novel, in addition to a book issued on the regular card. Both cards may be used at the same time, enabling readers to secure two non-fiction books, or one book of fiction and one non-fiction.

Teachers are accorded special privileges upon application.

Books may be retained two weeks and may be once renewed for the same period. Books may be renewed but once. Books of recent purchase labeled Seven-day books cannot be transferred or renewed. The card must be presented whenever a book is taken out or renewed.

Books issued at Circulating Centers or Delivery Stations may be returned at the Main Library, but books cannot be applied for at the Main Library and delivered to Circulating Centers or Delivery Stations.

Any person of good deportment and habits may use the various Reading and Reference Rooms of the Library. No card is required to use the books on the open shelves or the books in the stacks, which must be applied for.

A change of residence should be reported to the Library immediately.

A card holder is responsible for all books drawn on the card, by whomsoever presented, and for all fines incurred. If a card is lost, immediate notice must be given to the Library. A new card will be issued thirty days after such notice.

A fine of three cents a day on each work is imposed, whether bound in one or more volumes, which is not returned within two weeks from the date of issue. An additional charge of two cents is made for each notice sent for the return of a book, and no other books will be delivered to the person incurring the fine until it is paid.

A card holder should also see that the call number is crossed off the order slip whenever a book is drawn.

Writing or marking in books is prohibited, and all injuries to books beyond reasonable wear and all losses must be promptly adjusted to the satisfaction of the Librarian.

More Privileges for Readers

On and after October 16th, 1916, the Chicago Public Library will allow five books (fiction or non-fiction) to be drawn on a Reader's Card issued to any adult user, and the issuance of Non-Fiction Cards will be discontinued.

Juvenile Cards will permit holders to draw two books.

As heretofore, books, except those labeled "Seven-Day," may be retained two weeks, and renewed for two weeks longer. In justice to all concerned, no second renewal, and no transfer to another card will be allowed. Seven-Day books are not renewable.

Books must be presented with the card to secure renewal.

As a new record system will go into effect at the same time, patrons are requested to bear patiently any confusion which may result while the change is in process.

The Public Library desires to render to the public as expeditious, as complete and as satisfactory service as its resources will permit.

Regulations Pertaining to the Use of Books

Five books may be drawn on an adult Reader's Card, and two on a Juvenile Card.

Books may be retained two weeks, and may be once renewed for the same period. No book shall be re-issued to the same person on the day of its return.

Books of recent purchase, labeled "Seven-day book," shall not be renewed or transferred.

Books drawn upon vacation cards, or other special privilege cards, may be retained for such periods as, in the judgment of the Librarian, shall best carry out the purpose for which special cards are issued, without impairing the rights and privileges of library users not holding special cards.

For detention of books beyond the period prescribed by the Board, or the Librarian, fines shall be charged as follows:

Except as hereinafter provided for books drawn on juvenile and on vacation cards, for any work whether bound in one or more volumes, three cents per day plus postage expended in sending notice or notices to the borrower and the guarantor.

For books drawn on juvenile cards, one cent per day, during such period of detention, plus postage expended in sending notices to the borrowers and the guarantors.

For books drawn on vacation cards, one cent per day for each volume overdue, plus postage expended in sending notice or notices to the borrower and the guarantor.

When a book shall have been detained beyond the prescribed time, and it becomes necessary to send a messenger to the borrower to secure its return, an additional fine of twenty-five cents shall be charged.

The last user of a book will be held responsible for any mutilation, ink stains or writing, unless immediate notice of defect is given the Library.

Persons not resident within the corporate limits of the City of Chicago, but conducting a business establishment, or having a definite business location or office in the city, and persons regularly and permanently employed in the city, shall be entitled to draw books from the Library upon furnishing proper guaranties as to the use of such books and the payment of charges occurring through loss of or damage to books, and fines charged for detention of such books beyond the prescribed period. No guarantor not an actual resident of the city shall be accepted on behalf of such applicants.

The privileges of the Library are extended to persons residing outside of the city limits, who are attending school in Chicago, subject to the regulations that apply to actual residents of the city.

Where Books Are Issued

Books are procurable in agencies of the Library, as follows:

	No. of Agencies

Notes

Thousands of visitors from other parts of the United States come to the Main Library annually. A handbook issued some years ago descriptive of the architectural beauties of the building, with its liberal use of white Carrara marble, black veined Swiss marble and Connemara Irish marble, and the beautiful mother of pearl mosaics which adorn the grand stairways, balustrades and some of the larger rooms, has been out of print for some time, and a new edition is about to be issued. In addition to the descriptive material in earlier editions, this will contain information about the details found in some parts of the building—including the story of the seal which visitors encounter set in the floor of the Washington street entrance.

This large plaque is a relief representation in brass of Chicago's official seal.

The history of Chicago's seal has been one of mystery and uncertainty.

Its earliest record has been traced back to 1833, when the present city was still a town. The design of the town's seal was a primitive yet faithful copy of the obverse side of the half-eagle gold coin of the United States. Col. T.J.V. Owen, United States commissioner to negotiate with the neighboring Indian tribes, and president of the town board, has been credited with being the author of this, the first authentic symbol of the town's existence.

Upon the incorporation of Chicago as a city in 1837, among the first questions to come before the common council was that of a municipal seal, some of the city fathers seemingly favoring the retention of the old town seal, while others, among whom were Mayor Ogden and Alderman Goodhue, argued in behalf of the adoption of an entirely new seal, symbolic of the newly created city's present and future. The protagonists of the future of the infant city were victorious, a committee being appointed to draft a new seal. The committee, whose members apparently were endowed with considerable heraldic skill, reported in July, 1837, for enactment as a municipal seal, the device which later gave rise to much speculation and discussion.

Although the original drawing is lost, it is described thus in the ordinance: "The shield of Chicago shall be represented by a shield with a sheaf of wheat on its center; a ship in full sail on the right; a sleeping infant on the top; an Indian with bow and arrow on the left; and with the motto 'Urbs In Horto,' at the bottom of shield, with the inscription, 'City of Chicago—Incorporated 4th of March, 1837,' around the outside edge of said seal."

Amendments to the above ordinance were made in June, 1854, and February, 1893, the first amendment specifying that "over the shield an infant reposes on a sea-shell," while the latter amplifies this by decreeing a "sleeping infant on top, lying on its back on a shell." As a result of the fact that no faithful reproduction of the seal authorized by the ordinance was in use in the city's departments, a new and corrected design and description of the municipal seal was provided for by ordinance of March 20, 1905, having for its chief recommendation heraldic and historic accuracy. This is the seal of the Chicago of our own time, and is described in the ordinance as follows:

"The seal provided and authorized for the city of Chicago shall be on an obverse side with a diameter of two and three-eighths inches, the impression of which is the representation of a shield in red, white and blue; with a sheaf of wheat in the center, in gold; a ship in full sail on the right side; on top a sleeping infant reposed as in a shell, in silver; an Indian chief with a bow and arrow, on the left side, standing on a promontory, in green; with the motto 'Urbs In Horto,' in gold on a red flowing ribbon, at the bottom of shield; with the inscription, 'City of Chicago—Incorporated 4th March, 1837,' in gold within a blue ring around the outer edge of said seal, which seal represented as aforesaid and used with or without colors, shall be and is hereby corrected, established, declared to have been, and now to be, the seal of the city of Chicago. For general use, the plain impression in white containing the figures as given will be sufficient.

The symbolic meaning of the new and corrected seal is rendered thus:

The Indian, represents the discoverer of the site of Chicago, is also indicative of the aboriginal contribution which enters into its history.

The ship in full sail is emblematic of the approach of the white man's civilization and commerce.

The sheaf of wheat is typical of activity and plenty, holding the same meaning as the cornucopia.

The nude babe in the shell is the ancient and classical symbolism of the pearl, and Chicago situated at the neck of the lake signifies that it shall be "the gem of the lakes." The infant, represented in repose, has the additional meaning of contentment, peace and purity.

The motto "Urbs In Horto" means "City in a Garden."

The date, "March 4th, 1837," suggests the date of the incorporation of the city."

In preparation for the celebration in Illinois of one hundred years of statehood, the Chicago Public Library has begun the compilation of a serviceable bibliography of materials in print, both books and pamphlets being represented. Anticipating the demand from students of Illinois history, schools, and citizens interested in a general way, duplicates of the material possessed by the Library are being acquired.

On the fourth floor of the Washington street end of the Library a large relief map of Illinois has been installed, and this has interested many patrons who have had occasion to visit that section of the building.

Preparations are also under way for an extensive exhibit, to be located on the same floor, of old publications, prints, illustrations, maps, and other graphic material touching upon the history of Illinois. These will not be restricted to the period of statehood, but will comprise as well historic episodes within the picturesque era of the French regime, the brief English dominion and territorial days, the interesting stories of LaSalle, Tonty and Starved Rock, Marquette and the Indians, Kaskaskia and George Rogers Clark, the Brikbeck settlements, and other events of significance. The Black Hawk war, the Mormon invasion and the Exodus from Nauvoo, the Lovejoy incident, the careers of Lincoln, Grant, Douglas, Logan and other men prominent in the earlier state history, will also figure in this pictorial representation.

In addition it is proposed to assemble for the use of clubs, organizations and schools, a collection of stereopticon slides which may be borrowed without charge on suitable conditions for local lectures.

The Library will welcome gifts of books, prints and maps that may prove interesting in this connection.

Magazines for Library Readers

The annual scrutiny of magazines to be subscribed for by the Public Library reveals anew the immense number and variety of these publications and the constant changes taking place in this field. Every new development in public interest, which succeeds in engaging the attention of any considerable number of people, quickly finds utterance in a new periodical established to further the cause. The Bulletin of Bibliography, itself an interesting exponent of a very specialized activity, maintains a current list of "births and deaths" in the periodical world. No less than 247 new periodicals were here noted in 1915, while 196 were reported as having expired or merged their existence with that of some other publication. The present year has seen no material change in the vital statistics of the periodical world and it is one of the tasks involved in compiling the new subscription list to sort out, from this annual crowd of little strangers, those which not only represent a legitimate and reasonably important phase of public interest, but which, also, seem to show promise of enough vitality to survive at least during the period contracted for. Among the magazines added to the list of those currently received—already numbering well over thirteen hundred titles—are several dealing with the development of commercial opportunities in foreign lands; "The Russian Review" and "Russia," and the "South American" are timely additions which will, it is hoped, meet the growing demand for information in these fields. The realm of aviation is entered by several newcomers, one devoting its pages almost exclusively to military aircraft. Proofreading is the subject of one of the new arrivals, Japanese drama of another, the janitorial care of large buildings of a third, the new taste in cemetery art of still another. In a few instances favorites of other days have been forced to retire because of a shifting of public interest. In one or two of the popular magazines it is regrettable to note a distinct change of policy resulting in a lowered tone and a consequent loss of prestige, while in a few others the opposite tendency has been observed; magazines formerly bearing a rather dubious reputation having improved in standards and the character of their offerings until they may no longer be ignored. All of these elements combine to make the choice of periodicals to be supplied to a large and highly diversified constituency one of the interesting, though not one of the easiest, of the problems arising in the day's work.

Departments

Rules and Information for Patrons

Any resident of Chicago, or any person residing in Cook County having permanent employment in the city, may enjoy the privileges of the Library by having a resident of the city, whose name must appear in the city directory, act as a guarantor. Upon application and compliance with the rules and regulations of the Board of Directors a card good for three years will be issued, which will permit the applicant to draw five books for home use.

Teachers are accorded special privileges upon application.

Books may be retained two weeks and may be renewed for the same period. Books may be renewed but once. Books of recent purchase labeled seven-day books cannot be transferred or renewed. The card must be presented whenever a book is taken out or renewed.

Books issued at Circulating Centers or Delivery Stations may be returned at the Main Library, but books cannot be applied for at the Main Library and delivered to Circulating Centers or Delivery Stations.

Any person of good deportment and habits may use the various Reading and Reference Rooms of the library. No card is required to use the books on the open shelves or the books in the stacks, which must be applied for.

A change of residence should be reported to the Library immediately.

A card holder is responsible for all books drawn on the card, by whomsoever presented, and for all fines incurred. If a card is lost, immediate notice must be given to the Library. A new card will be issued thirty days after such notice.

A fine of one cent a day on each work of non-fiction, and three cents a day on each work of fiction, is imposed whether bound in one or more volumes, which is not returned within two weeks from the date of issue. An additional charge of two cents is made for each notice sent for the return of a book, and no other books will be delivered to the person incurring the fine until it is paid.

A card holder should also see that the call number is crossed off the order slip whenever a book is drawn.

Writing or marking in books is prohibited, and all injuries to books beyond reasonable wear and all losses must be promptly adjusted to the satisfaction of the Librarian.

High School Libraries

Through the whole-hearted coöperation of the Board of Education, a splendid beginning has been made in the installation of libraries in the Chicago high schools for the use of students and faculty. Excellent and commodious quarters have been set aside in five of the high schools, furniture and other physical accommodations have been supplied by the School Board, which has also borne the cost of the reference books, cyclopedias, dictionaries, atlases and the like, which may be regarded as part of the "fixtures" of such libraries. The Public Library has supplied carefully selected working collections of books in all classes of literature suitable for collateral study and for the general use of young people of high school age. The lighter side of literature has not been neglected; current fiction as well as the classics, good books on many topics not directly allied to school work, and a wide selection of periodicals have been included. The latter class includes a number of high grade professional and trade magazines in architecture, engineering and the like, which are of great value in the technical and vocational courses. Expert librarians have been assigned to these interesting posts from the Library staff and the response, from teachers and pupils alike, has been most gratifying.

High school libraries have proven their value in other cities and have in many instances been developed to a high degree of effectiveness. They serve a twofold purpose in making available the literary aids to study, while, at the same time, introducing the public library into the lives of their young patrons at the habit forming age and establishing a relation to be continued in the years to come. While in some of the older high school buildings the arrangement of suitable quarters for a library has been found difficult, their introduction into new buildings has been assured by the cordial response of the Board of Education to the suggestion from the Library Board that such quarters should be considered in all future plans. This suggestion was promptly accepted and blue prints of the plans of the new Robert Lindblom High School, at W. 61st and S. Lincoln Sts., which include a spacious and beautiful library room, have recently been submitted to the Librarian by the School Board architects. Meanwhile, at the Englewood High School—one of the older buildings—acceptable quarters have been secured by a readjustment of rooms, and the same plan will be followed at the John Marshall High School, at Adams St. and Kedzie Ave., shortly after January 1st, 1917. In all cases the schools have turned over such collections of books as they possessed, which were often well selected, considerable in numbers, and showed much use. The high school libraries now in operation are:

Austin,	3,800 vols.
Helen S. Babcock, Librarian.
Carter H. Harrison,	3,200 vols.
Edith Erskine, Librarian.
Lake View (Jan., 1917),	5,000 vols.
Margaret Ely, Librarian.
Nicholas Senn,	3,100 vols.
Frances V. Rice, Librarian.
Englewood,	3,500 vols.
Eliza Pendry, Librarian.

The Library in the Campaign

Both the Democratic and the Republican Campaign Headquarters, located in Chicago, gave ample evidence of their recognition of the Public Library as a source of supply for campaign ammunition. Their well organized information bureaus were almost constantly in touch with the Library, especially the Civics Department, either by telephone or messenger service, and many curious, interesting and puzzling problems in searching out fugitive facts were submitted for solution, usually in great haste and without any collateral information to facilitate the search. A letter written by Senator T. J. Walsh, chairman of the Democratic committee, expresses his appreciation "of the hearty and effective coöperation which the Chicago Public Library gave us in our efforts to get at facts for the conduct of the political campaign just closing. We have had occasion repeatedly to call for assistance on many questions, and we have nothing but praise for your coöperation. The members of our Reference and Information Bureau have expressed to me the fine spirit of service that exists in the Civics Room, to which most of our inquiries were sent."

As an offset to the demands made upon the Library the two headquarters have been very generous in turning over the huge accumulations of printed material acquired or published by them. This will be sifted and sorted out and much of it will be added to the permanent collections as valuable data for future historians.

Radical Reorganization of the Library System

By unanimous vote of the Library Board, initial steps will be taken at once to put into effect a radical Library Reorganization Plan in Chicago whose purpose is briefly expressed in the following paragraph taken from an explanatory pamphlet about to be issued:

Library service within walking distance of home for every person in the City of Chicago who can read or wants to use books, in place of being compelled to ride on street cars forth and back, an average of 10 miles for more than one-half the population.

The problem, of which the above is the anticipated solution, is this:

The corporate limits of Chicago embrace nearly 200 square miles of territory.

There are 700,000 potential users of the Library who are now prevented from using the Library's best resources by reason of distance.

Means and methods of expanding the Library's service through Regional and Auxiliary branches, and to render the book collections more elastic through daily local deliveries in all sections of the city, are outlined in the following summarized introduction, with accompanying map, which will appear in the pamphlet now in press:

What the Plan Means

Under the Reorganization Program of the Library Board, there will be established:

1. Five Regional Branches, situated as follows:
 - A—Ravenswood
 - B—Garfield Park
 - C—Loop
 - D—Englewood
 - E—South Chicago
2. Seventy Auxiliary or Local Branches, equally distributed where most needed, and where largest groups of population live.

- There are now 35, unequally distributed.
3. Sixty Deposit Stations, in more sparsely settled sections, or as many as may be necessary to supply places not otherwise served. There are now 28.
4. One hundred Industrial and Commercial Branches, or as many more as business concerns are willing to equip and maintain. There are now 21.
5. Twenty-two High School Branches, if suitable quarters are provided by the school authorities. There are now 5.
6. Three thousand Class Room Libraries, or as many as may be needed (traveling collections of 50 volumes each supervised by teachers and exchanged twice a year). There are now 848.
7. One hundred Special Deposits, (or more, if needed), supplied to Y. M. C. A. houses, Eleanor Clubs, Organizations of Foreign Groups, Women's Clubs, Institutions, Special Groups like Telegraph Messengers, Postal Clerks, etc., etc. These deposits are traveling collections of 50 to 100 volumes, exchanged monthly, bi-monthly or quarterly. There are now 29.

Each Regional Branch will have:

A Floating Collection of 50,000 volumes for use of Auxiliary or Local branches, as needed, through daily delivery service.

A Reference Collection suitably balanced, for use of Research Workers, Students, Business Men, Women's Clubs, etc., supplemented by daily delivery from the Main Library of special material not duplicated in the Regional branches.

Trained assistants to conduct story hours, reference librarians, to assist club workers, teachers, etc.

Suitable collections of books in foreign languages, for redistribution to local centers where foreign groups are located.

Automobile delivery truck, with garage for housing, to distribute books daily in agencies of the district.

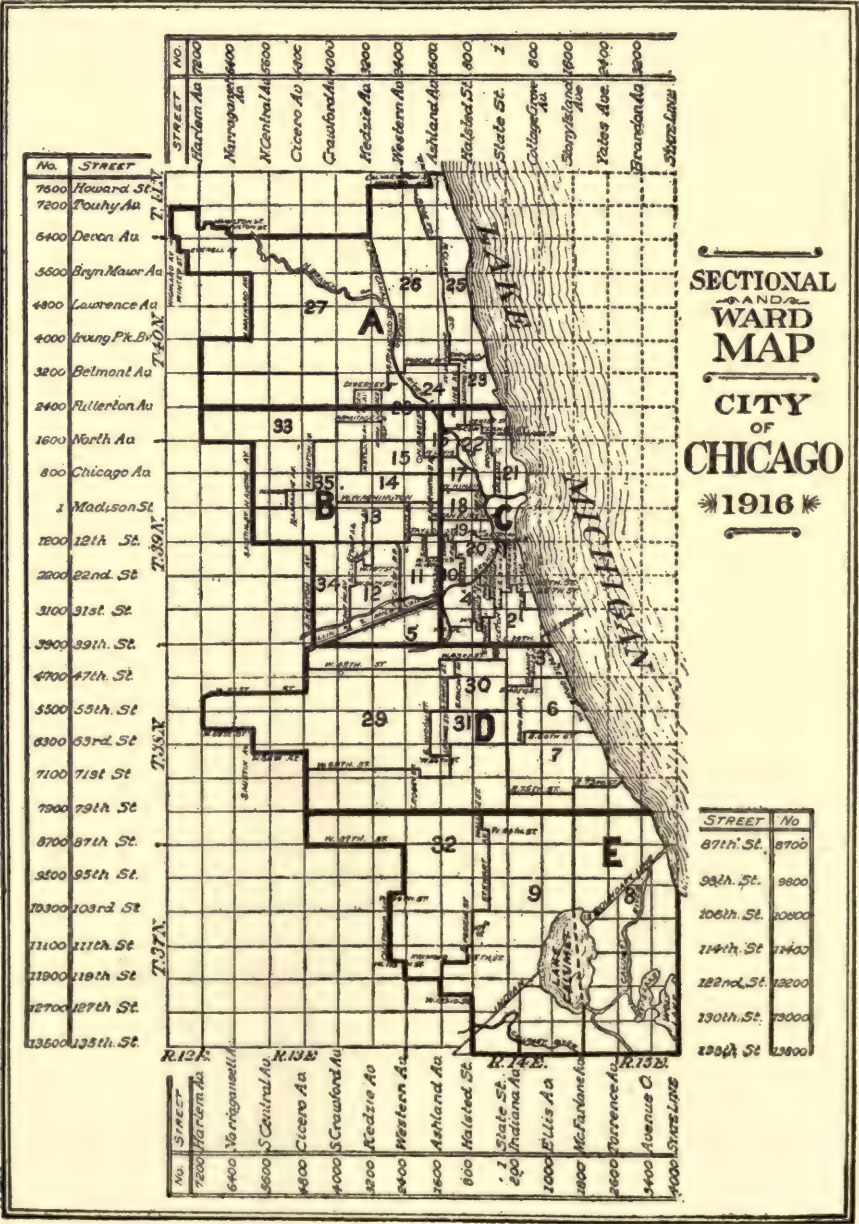

Some Striking Improvements Possible Through the Reorganization Plan:

The Chicago Public Library will be in a position to serve well 700,000 persons who now get no library service by reason of distance, or who are but indifferently served.

A maximum journey of 32 miles to consult special reference material or to draw music scores for home use will be reduced to an average of less than one mile.

Automobile delivery routes will be reduced from 32 miles per round trip to six miles, enabling a unit delivery five times greater than now, and without additional cost.

The Reorganization Plan can be put into effect if the City Council will appropriate, and the voters will approve, a Bond Issue of $500,000, to be expended in the next Five Years.

Books Read by Boys at the County Jail

In July, 1916, through the interested cooperation of Mrs. Gertrude Howe Britton, 80 books, specially chosen for the purpose, were loaned by the Library to the Bureau of Social Service for the boys confined in the County Jail. It was called the Good Hope Library.

At the same time, a collection, carefully selected, was furnished for the Psychopathic Hospital, and was termed the Good Cheer Library.

Last week, through the cooperation of Principal O. J. Milliken, a hundred books termed collectively the Good Luck Library were sent to the Chicago and Cook County School for Boys (formerly the John Worthy School in the Bridewell) for the use of the boys detained there.

Mrs. Britton has just sent to the Library an interesting report of the use made of the Good Hope Library at the County Jail, prefacing her report with the following comment: "This report convinces me that this little branch library serves a real need, and that any effort which we may put forth in getting good books to these unfortunate boys which they will read, is very well worth while. It will interest you to know that during the four months these books have been in use not a single one has been defaced or lost."

Miss Kate Falconer, who has charge of this little library, adds: "You will notice that a number of the books are read more frequently than others and that some of the books have never been called for at all. I find that whenever a boy gets a book and likes it he tells the others, and on the next library day four or five of them are ready to ask for the same book. They like best the modern stories of adventure like The Barrier by Rex Beach and books from which a motion picture has been filmed like Sir Nigel and Michael Strogoff. I wish we might get from the library more books by Rex Beach and Jack London and several volumes of poetry. Boys have asked me for Scott's poems and Longfellow's poems. You must remember they are in their cells twenty hours a day and there are few distractions so the boys are glad to read a higher type of book than they would read, I am sure, on the outside."

These books were to be given out to the boys awaiting trial in the County Jail, and it was hoped that they would not only prove a diversion to these boys, but would be instructive as well. The books were carefully selected so as to appeal to boys of that age (17 to 21), and after using them six months the following lists will serve to show the reading tendency of boys of that age:

Exhibits and Bulletin Boards

Thousands of visitors have viewed with interest the series of exhibits which have been installed in floor cases and on bulletin boards since early in the year in the spacious corridor between the Woman's Study Room and the Thomas Hughes Room for Young People on the fourth floor. Teachers have brought their classes to study them, including excursionists from Evanston, Ravinia, Maywood and other near-by towns. These exhibits of prints, posters, books and other material, included:

Shakespeare Exhibit—Portraits; Stratford town; Shakespearean theatres; Famous Shakespearean actors; Early editions; Famous Hamlets; Shakespeare's heroines; Illustrations of the Greek and Roman plays; Romeo and Juliet; Henry IV; Henry V and Henry VI; Henry VIII; Richard II and Richard III; King Lear and King John; Macbeth; Hamlet; Merchant of Venice and Othello; As you like it; Twelfth night; Merry wives of Windsor; Tempest and Midsummer night's dream; Attractive editions for young people; Book lists.

Red Indians Exhibit—Nature worship; Customs; Home life; Hunting; The Indian warrior; Tribes; The Pueblo country; Indian portraits; Famous Indians; The Red Man in Illinois.

Napoleon—Members of Napoleon's family; The Empress Josephine; Contemporaries of Napoleon; Napoleon's funeral; Caricatures; Battles of Napoleon's time; Events and scenes in Napoleon's life; Portraits of Napoleon.

Other exhibits for the immediate future include:

See Chicago First—A series of a thousand postal card views; Historic Chicago; River Views (miniature etchings by Earl Reed); Sky Scrapers and Cliff Dwellings; Two Great Universities; Parks for the People; Street Glimpses and By-Paths; Busy Marts and Industries.

There are bulletin screens in the Civics Room for posting notices of civil service examinations (city, county, state, federal), and special material that the Room possesses to aid intending applicants, thousands of whom flock to this source of supply. Notices of interesting material issued by Uncle Sam on a hundred different topics are also bulletined from time to time.

A map display, frequently changed to give timeliness to the exhibit, is also located in the Civics Room.

The series of panels in the long corridor leading to the Reading Room are used for revised lists of magazines, serials and newspapers (alphabetical and classified), daily weather reports, and general information of timely interest.

The Library and the Financial World

Frequent inquiries are received by the Library concerning its resources on the subjects of investment and speculation. In the Civics Department there can be found on file some of the most up-to-date and most authoritative literature on this subject. The latest magazines, such as The Wall St. Journal (Daily), The Chicago Economist (weekly), The London Economist (weekly), and The Magazine of Wall St. (bi-weekly) are on file in this room. The names of these periodicals indicate what sort of information can be found within the covers.

To supplement these, various manuals, such as Moody's, Poor's, and Moody's Analysis can be consulted here. The latest annual report, the status of bond issues and the names of the officials, of thousands of corporations are listed in these yearbooks. The Cumulative Digest of Corporation News, a Moody publication, gives information about dividends, assessments, and stock listings, in tabloid form, of the leading corporations of the United States, with references to the source of information. In addition, the government itself issues various bulletins, which are worth the time of the business man to consult. The Federal Reserve Board Bulletin, a monthly publication, besides noting important banking data, gives a summary of business conditions in the twelve reserve districts. The new Federal Loan Board has issued in the last few weeks bulletins on rural credit. For the man interested in the grain market, the Library receives a weekly news letter and a monthly report of crop conditions, and for information on the vegetable and fruit market there is a daily bulletin. Valuable comparative figures may be obtained from all of the annual reports.

The student of finance and banking problems will find the most recent books and pamphlets reserved for reference use in this department, with duplicate copies of many to be circulated for home use. The daily newspapers are diligently searched for items on financial topics. These are clipped and filed with the pamphlets on the same subject. A few of such subjects are listed below.

Have You a Music Card?

Since the opening of the Music Room in the Main Library, two years ago, its use has steadily increased. Every accredited card-holder is entitled, upon application, to a Music Card, entitling the bearer to draw for home use, one piece of bound music (operatic score, symphony, cantata, collections, etc.), and five pieces of sheet music. Bound volumes may be retained four weeks, and sheet music two weeks. Since the opening of the department, 51,705 pieces have been issued for home use. In this total, the several parts for duets, trios, quartettes, etc., are counted as one, although separately bound.

Importation of music scores from Europe has practically ceased during the great war, but the Library has secured (with some difficulty) a number of copies of the operatic novelties added to this season's list at the Auditorium, and these are being issued as usual on Music Cards, except that, during the Grand Opera season, they are subject to the regulations governing Seven-Day books.

With the extension of the Civic Music Association's activities to include a series of ten Sunday afternoon concerts by the American Symphony Orchestra in school auditoriums in different parts of the city, it is expected that the impulse among the people for the study, as well as the enjoyment, of music, will make increased demands upon the resources of the Library, and preparations are under way to meet this demand.

At the instance of Director Oscar Mayer, who has taken an active interest in the Music Room since its inception, a letter has been addressed to representatives of Italian, Bohemian, Polish, Lithuanian, Ruthenian, Russian, Scandinavian, Hungarian, Lettish, and other musical organizations in Chicago, inviting their cooperation in securing an adequate representation of their national music.

A New Library Training Class

An examination for entrance to the Training Class will be held December 30 at 9 o'clock. The minimum educational requirement for admission to the examination is a complete high school course. Questions include history, literature, and general information.

The class will open February 5, and continue for at least six months. No salary is paid to members of the Training Class.

In order to obtain a position in the Library, a candidate must pass a Civil Service examination, which is usually given soon after the close of the course in the Training Class. If one is appointed to a position after passing this examination, the salary begins at forty dollars a month.

An application blank will be sent to anyone who will indicate her desire to take the entrance examination on December 30.

Library Not Open Christmas

Every department of the Main Library will be closed on Monday, Dec. 25, and likewise all branches. On the Sunday before Christmas the branches will also be closed, but the Reading and Reference Rooms of the Main Library will be open to the public as usual from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m.

On New Year's day all branches will remain closed. The Circulation department of the Main Library will also be closed. Reading and Reference Rooms open from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m.

Five thousand copies of the Book Bulletin are issued monthly, except in July and August, and are distributed free of charge in all departments of the Main Library and in all branches. Copies will be mailed to any address for twenty-five cents a year to cover postage.

An annual cumulated number is published in January of each year and is on sale at ten cents per copy.

The Library on Its Own Feet

By the provisions of an act passed by the last Legislature, it was planned to consolidate a number of local so-called taxing bodies, and to change their governing boards in various ways. One provision proposed to abolish the Library Board, vesting the control and administration of the Library in the City Council, presumably through one of its committees. A number of civic organizations, two weeks prior to the date set for the referendum, undertook an energetic campaign against interference with the Library. The voters decisively disapproved the proposed Consolidation Act, the adverse majority reaching a total of 110,386. Both men and women voters expressed disapproval as shown by the summary of the count:

	Men	Women	Total
Yes	128,731	58,172	186,903
No	193,978	103,311	297,289
Majority against			110,386

Chicago Public Library, Michigan Avenue and Washington Street

Departments

Rules and Information for Patrons

Any resident of Chicago, or any person residing in Cook County having permanent employment in the city, may enjoy the privileges of the Library by having a resident of the city, whose name must appear in the city directory, act as a guarantor. Upon application and compliance with the rules and regulations of the Board of Directors a card good for three years will be issued, which will permit the applicant to draw five books for home use.

Teachers are accorded special privileges upon application.

Books may be retained two weeks and may be once renewed for the same period. Books may be renewed but once. Books of recent purchase labeled Seven-day books cannot be transferred or renewed. The card must be presented whenever a book is taken out or renewed.

Books issued at Circulating Centers or Delivery Stations may be returned at the Main Library, but books cannot be applied for at the Main Library and delivered to Circulating Centers or Delivery Stations.

Any person of good deportment and habits may use the various Reading and Reference Rooms of the Library. No card is required to use the books on the open shelves or the books in the stacks, which must be applied for.

A change of residence should be reported to the Library immediately.

A card holder is responsible for all books drawn on the card, by whomsoever presented, and for all fines incurred. If a card is lost, immediate notice must be given to the Library. A new card will be issued thirty days after such notice.

A fine of one cent a day on each work of non-fiction, and three cents a day on each work of fiction, is imposed whether bound in one or more volumes, which is not returned within two weeks from the date of issue. An additional charge of two cents is made for each notice sent for the return of a book, and no other books will be delivered to the person incurring the fine until it is paid.

A card holder should also see that the call number is crossed off the order slip whenever a book is drawn.

Writing or marking in books is prohibited, and all injuries to books beyond reasonable wear and all losses must be promptly adjusted to the satisfaction of the Librarian.
